

Crane backs bid to oust 'objectionable' W. Va. textbooks

by JOE SWICKARD
Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area.

"Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality . . . most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

by JOHN MAES

Buffalo Grove officials will seek an expert opinion before considering proposals to install sodium-vapor streetlights in the village.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong Tuesday said officials will invite a sodium-vapor authority to a workshop session of the village board later this month or next to discuss the "pros and cons of the issue."

"This warrants a closer look," Armstrong said. "It seems to be a controversial issue and there are some beliefs that may be unfounded — that's why we need to call in someone to lay it on the line."

A PROPOSAL TO replace all 265 of the village's streetlights with the new sodium-vapor variety will probably come before the village board later this month as part of a long-term capital improvements program.

The board will be asked to appropriate $30,000 during an eight-year period to replace the mercury-vapor lamps that currently light village streets, Public Works Director Charles McCoy said.

Sodium-vapor lights are brighter than the conventional type and give off a yellow-orange tint. Chicago and several surrounding suburbs are adopting the system.

McCoy said that although the new lamps cost more at the outset, they would be cheaper and easier to maintain. He also said the system is a "better type of lighting" and saves on energy consumption.

Village officials have decided to consult an authority, however, in view of arguments that sodium-vapor lamps are unattractive and produce too much light.

Armstrong said village officials would like to discuss the matter with someone "who does not have an axe to grind and can discuss it objectively from both sides."

The public works department has been experimenting with the sodium lamp at four intersections since last April. They are installed at Bernard Drive and Weldner Road; Checker Drive and Ill. Rte. 83; Checker Drive and Essington Lane, and Plum Grove Circle and Arlington Heights Road.

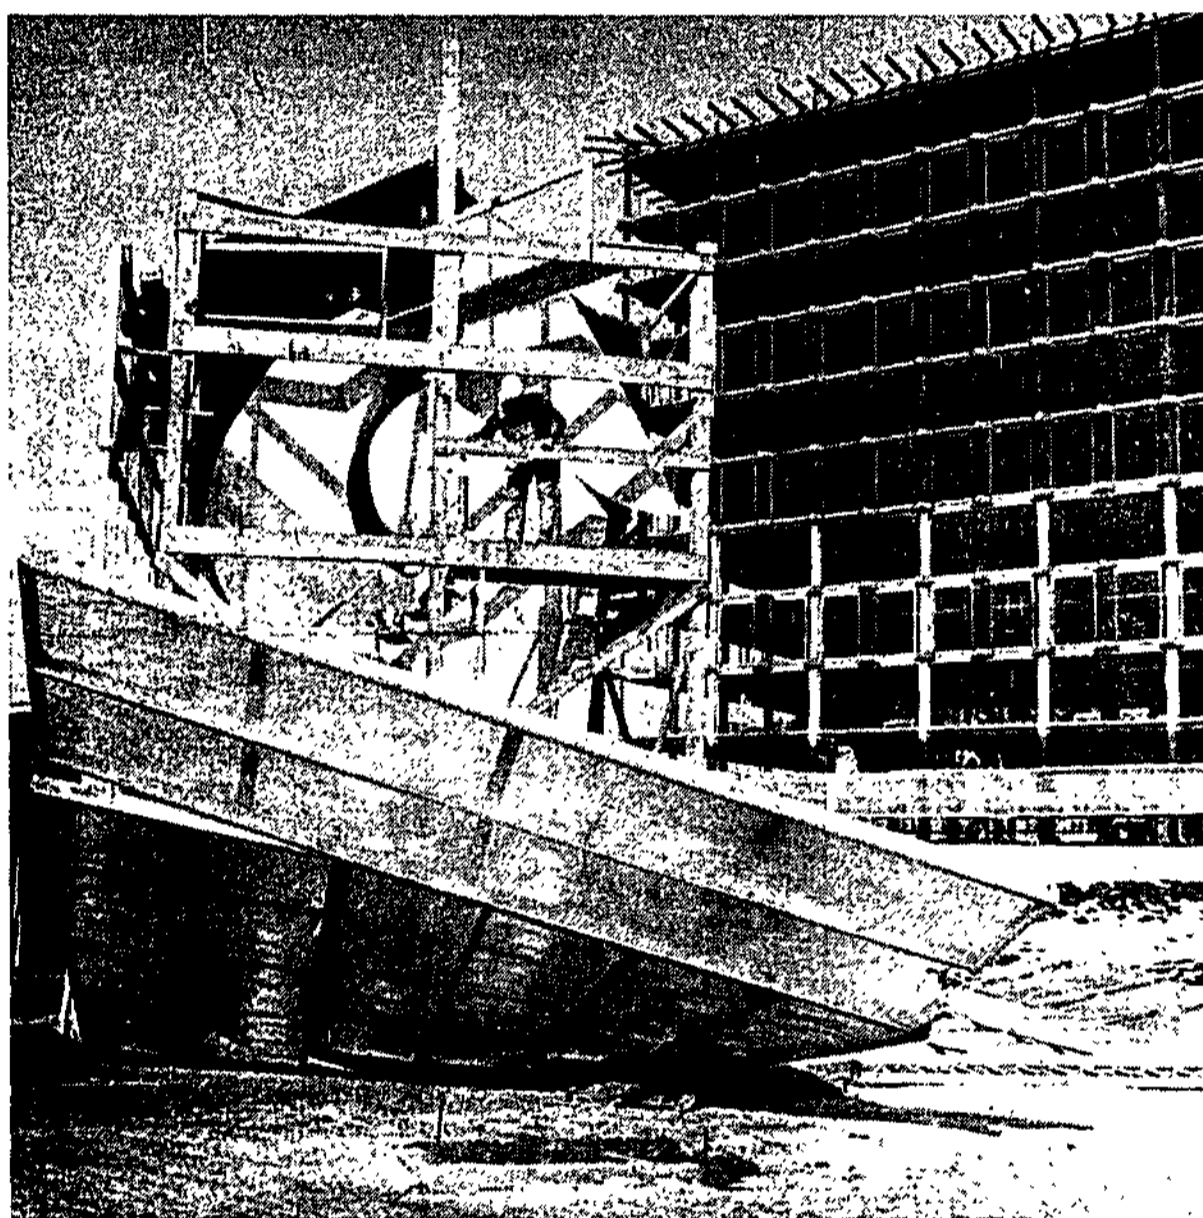

McCoy said he has had four comments about the lights from residents, saying they "like them" while only one has expressed displeasure.

McCoy said he plans installation of more lights along Checker between Farrington Drive and Essington Lane so residents can "drive through a system of lights to see what it's like."

The additional lights will be installed as soon as they are available but McCoy was unable to give an exact date. The lights are being donated to the village on a trial basis by Quility Outdoor Lighting, Northbrook, McCoy said.

HE SAID sodium-vapor lamps currently in service in the village contain 150-watt bulbs. These are brighter than the 100-watt fixtures that would be installed throughout Buffalo Grove if the system is adopted.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said the lights would be designed to shine on streets, not yards. This is unlike Chicago where high-intensity lamps light entire neighborhoods, he said.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nesjar, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

Buffalo Grove golfers must dig deeper

Greens fees at the Buffalo Grove golf course have been increased an average of 25 cents to cover "spiraling costs" of operating materials and expenses, Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said.

The golf course suffered losses under its private operation and Larson said the rates were raised to "ensure sufficient funds are generated and remain in the mid-range of public golf courses."

The village took over operation of the course last week and approved a four-month operating budget to carry through to April 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

In a lease-purchase agreement, the village has a five-year option to buy the course at between $1.1 million and $1.2 million.

WITH THE NEW fees, golfers will now pay $6 to play 18 holes during the week until 3 p.m. after which the rate becomes $3.50 for nine and 18-hole play.

On weekends, golfers wishing to play 18 holes will pay $7.50 until 1 p.m., a 50 (Continued on Page 5)

Schools panel 'refines' jobs for buildings

A citizens' committee studying possible building additions at the eight schools in High School Dist. 214, will meet tonight to begin "refining" a list of needs compiled after two months of building inspections.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

"Now is when the work really begins," said Sig Haaland, temporary committee chairman. "Besides refining the list we have to come up with a game plan for moving ahead with the project."

HAALAND SAID the committee will also be faced in the months ahead with getting estimates of cost for the building improvements and finding a way to finance the improvements.

The district board of education has asked for a completed committee report by April 1. The committee is expected to present a status report at the board's meeting Monday night.

For the past two months, the 40-member committee has been attending special "presentations" at each district school. The presentations, conducted by the building principals, outline current problems in the buildings and familiarize committee members with the needs of each building.

HAALAND SAID attendance has been excellent for most of the sessions, with 25 to 30 committee members present. Haaland added that the tours have proved valuable in providing committee members with a better insight into building deficiencies.

"You don't appreciate the condition in the schools until you walk through them," Haaland said. "The principals have done an excellent job of presenting their needs and the visits have been a real eye opener."

The committee, made up of five representatives for each of the district's eight schools, also will elect a permanent chairman at tonight's meeting, Haaland said.

The committee started with a list of suggested improvements from the district administration ranging from additions of swimming pools or fieldhouses at some schools to adding entire academic wings and improving existing space and equipment.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Onkbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N's petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.6 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

3 rape victims identify attacker

A rape suspect extradited Tuesday from Florida has been identified by three victims of sexual assaults as their attacker, police said. Mount Prospect police said a 22-year-old woman identified the suspect, J. C. Cooley, 24, as the man who attacked her Nov. 2 in her apartment. Two 13-year-old Buffalo Grove girls, both victims of rape attempts, also identified him, police said. Cooley was charged with attempted rape by Mount Prospect police and will face additional charges in Buffalo Grove, police said. He is being held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

S-curve to go straight?

Des Plaines officials are pursuing plans to straighten out the S-curve on Northwest Highway at the 500 Line and Chicago and North Western Rly. overbelt tracks. Attempts are being made to purchase property south of the curve, traditionally a hazardous accident site. A public hearing on the project will be Jan. 30, with work scheduled to begin in 1978.

First peek at 'Bather'

Motorists on Golf Road got the first view Tuesday afternoon of "The Bather," a concrete sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso and being built at the site of the Gould Inc. headquarters in Rolling Meadows. Plastic shields were removed from two sides of the 28-foot figure. The remaining shields will be taken down when detail work on the sculpture has been finished by Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar.

Panel works on school needs

A citizens' committee studying the need for building additions at the eight schools in High School Dist. 214 will meet tonight to begin work on a list of school needs. The committee has been inspecting schools for two months. "You don't appreciate the condition in the schools until you walk through them," said Chairman Sig Hoagland. "The principals have done an excellent job of presenting their needs and the visits have been a real eyeopener."

Free bus rides in Wheeling

The Village of Wheeling is offering free local bus service for the remainder of January in an effort to encourage ridership. "I'm hoping the free bus rides will get the people accustomed to riding the bus and will result in more people using it on a regular basis," said Trustee William Hein. The village operates two buses, one following a regular route and schedule, and the other with no set route or schedule.

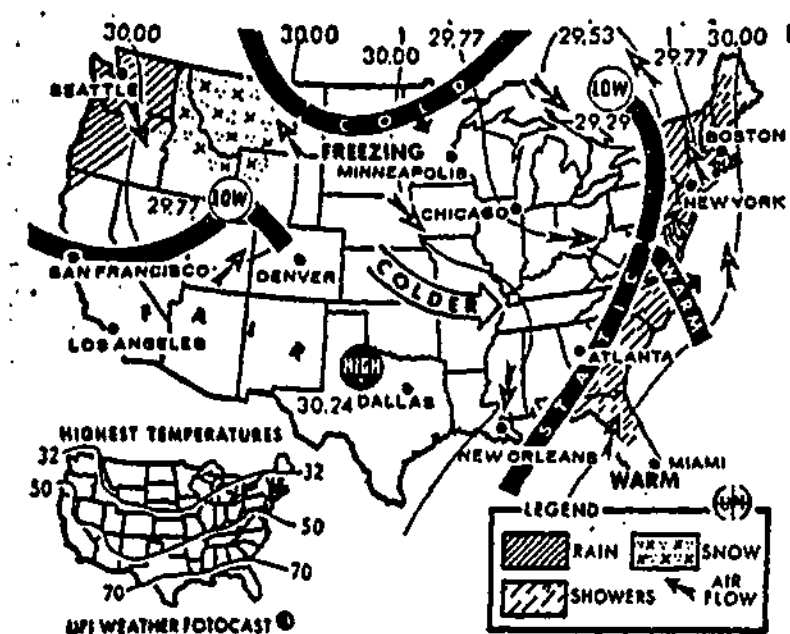

Teens arrested in shooting

Two teen-agers were arrested by Des Plaines police Tuesday after they allegedly chased two other youths in a car and shot at them. Arrested were Michael Goary, 17, of Des Plaines, and Randy Wasielewski, 17, of Mount Prospect. Police said they argued with two 16-year-olds in the McDonald's Restaurant, 781 W. Golf Rd., Des Plaines, then followed the youths, firing a gun at their car twice.

Robbery suspect returned

Michael Anthony Carnett, charged with two armed robberies of local restaurants in 1973, was returned to Illinois Tuesday from New Mexico. Carnett, 28, is being held without bond for the Aug. 1, 1973 bludgeon robbery of the assistant manager of the Ponderosa Steak House, Arlington Heights, of $2,690, and the October 1973 robbery of the Des Plaines Bonanza Sirkoin Pit of $8,800. He was returned here after his recent conviction in New Mexico for a series of armed robberies there. Carnett will appear this morning in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Dem caucus picks Choate

by BOB LAHEY

SPRINGFIELD — A caucus of Democratic state representatives nominated Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, Tuesday night as its candidate for speaker of the Illinois House in the 79th General Assembly, scheduled to convene today.

Of 101 Democrats, Choate won the votes of 59, far short of the 89 needed for election as speaker. Other candidates who represent anti-Choate votes, gathered a total of at least 33 legislators to their candidacy.

The top vote getter after Choate was Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville, with a total of 13 votes.

Casting their votes with Redmond were Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and Rep. Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine.

Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, and Rep. Jack Williams, D-Franklin Park, both voted for Choate.

With two Northwest suburban Republicans withholding their votes, the House earlier rejected Tuesday by one vote a resolution designed to prevent Republicans from aiding the election of a Democratic speaker today.

The resolution, introduced by State Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago, would have required a "constitutional majority" of 89 votes for the election of a speaker.

The resolution itself never was voted on. The critical vote came on Matijevich's motion to suspend the House rules and vote on the resolution immediately.

That motion required a three-fifths majority of 107 votes for passage.

With State Rep. Brian Duff, R-Willmette, voting "no" and State Rep. Leo LaFleur, R-Bloomington, voting "present," the resolution failed by a vote of 106 to 11, with 26 representatives voting "present" and 34 absent or not voting.

UNDER PRESENT rules of the House, the speaker is elected by a simple majority of those "present and voting." That rule allows a member of the minority party to aid a candidate of the majority party by absenting himself from the voting. For each two absences, one less vote is required for election.

The Matijevich resolution would have effectively stymied a strategy for the selection of State Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, who many legislators believe will prevail in today's selection of the speaker.

Democrats will enjoy a majority of 101 to 76 when the 79th General Assembly convenes. But Democratic opponents of Choate, a protégé of the late Paul Powell, contend they have as many as 49 votes against Choate's election as speaker.

If Choate's opponents in his own party remain firm, he can only hope for election through help from Republicans, who must either risk enmity in their own party by voting for him, or "take a walk" to reduce the number of votes needed.

MATJEVICH AND other legislators see the defeat of his resolution as a clear sign that "the deal is in" for cooperation by certain Republicans for Choate's election.

Rewards for cooperation with the election of the speaker can come in the form of select committee assignments, favored treatment of legislation, and other niceties.

Aside from Duff and LaFleur, all Northwest suburban legislators, both Democrats and Republicans, voted for the Matijevich resolution.

Prior to casting his "no" vote, Duff warned that establishing a requirement for an 89-vote majority could result in a speakership battle being prolonged for weeks.

He declared that election of the speaker should be left to the majority party and vowed to cast his vote for the Republican nominee for speaker, State Rep. Gene Washburn, R-Morris.

THE VOTE ON the Matijevich resolution was surrounded by ironies.

It was one of the first proposals in recent years which went down to defeat despite the support, real or feigned, of all members of the leaders in both parties.

Supporters of the Matijevich proposal commented bitterly after Tuesday's session over the fact that the proposal failed despite the support of House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, Choate, the current Democratic Minority Leader; Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Chicago; Choate's assistant minority leader; and all other members of the Democratic and Republican leadership.

Crane opposes 'objectionable' textbooks

It is a national issue," and that parents were suffering a "gross injustice" by the inclusion of books that are objectionable, in their opinion.

"I want a civil, reasonable examination of school material with an opportunity for more input from the parents . . . I want to insure greater parental participation in the selection of school material," Crane said.

IN THE CASE OF difference of opinion between the school board and parents, Crane said, "The ultimate decision should rest with the parent. After all the child is still his."

He added that he hoped "parents would respect the expertise of the teachers."

Crane indicated federal funds should be cut off from schools that fail to abide by the wishes of the parents. "It is outrageous to take tax money to support that district," he said.

Crane said he had not heard from parents in the Northwest suburbs about any "objectionable" books, although "The Dynamics of Language," cited as undermining religious beliefs in Charleston, is in use here.

Pentagon denies U.S. ships heading for Viet

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (UPI) — A U.S. Navy task force led by the nuclear carrier USS Enterprise sailed from the Philippines Tuesday after the Communists inflicted a major defeat on South Vietnamese forces. President Ford, meanwhile met in Washington with his top national security advisers.

Ford's Press Secretary, Ron Nessen, and the Pentagon flatly denied the naval task force was heading for South Vietnam.

The President "is concerned and he is watching the situation closely" but will abide by laws passed by Congress 18 months ago barring U.S. military activity over Indochina, Nessen said.

Ford met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and deputy national security affairs adviser Brent Scowcroft.

The Pentagon said the Enterprise and five escort vessels, including the nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser Long Beach, were steaming southwest from the Philippines and their movement "is not in any way connected with anything going on in Indochina."

The direction would put the Enterprise on a course toward the Strait of Malacca, the entrance to the Indian Ocean. The task force would pass about 350 miles from the South Vietnamese coast at the closest point.

Apart from ruling out Vietnam waters, William Beecher, a Pentagon spokesman, refused to say where the ships were headed.

"As a normal procedure we do not discuss operational movements," he said. The Navy said the Enterprise was scheduled to sail later this week. Beecher said the sailing date was moved forward "at least a couple of weeks ago" and some crewmen on vacation leave were ordered back to Subic Bay early.

Diplomatic sources in Saigon initially reported the task force heading toward South Vietnam. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the report was "a fabrication."

The reported U.S. naval activity came the same day the Saigon command confirmed the loss of the province capital of Phuoc Binh after a massive Communist assault broke the ranks of government holdout in the city 86 miles north of Saigon.

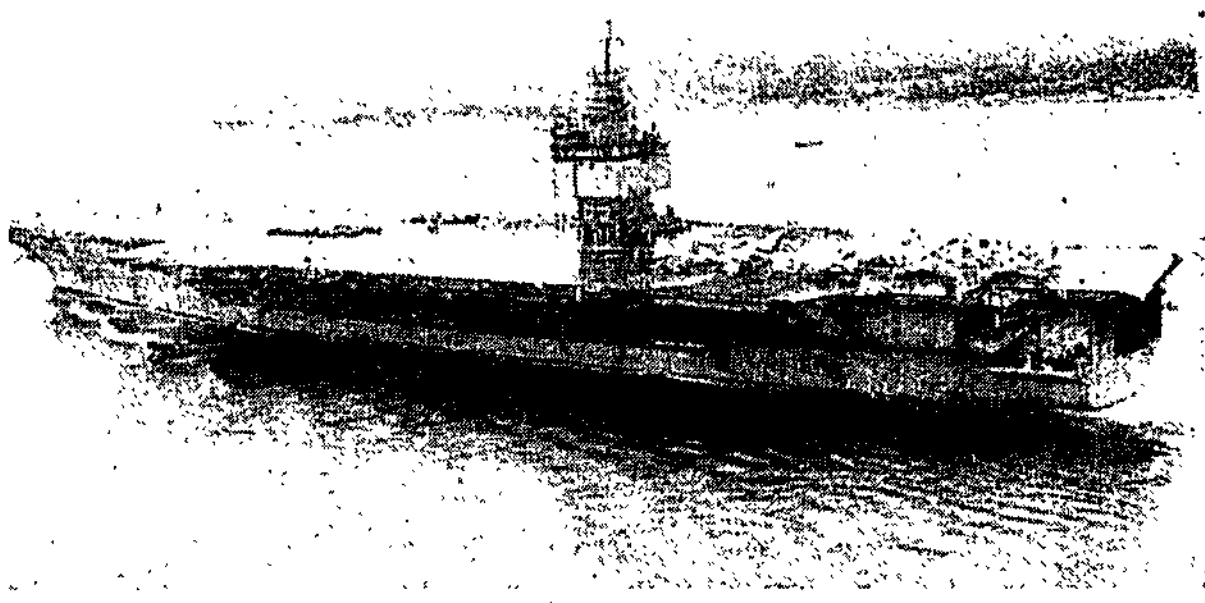

The fall of Phuoc Binh wiped out the last government hold in the entire province of Phuoc Long, giving the Communists their first province since American forces were pulled out two years ago.

The victory extended Communist control of territory to within 35 miles of Saigon.

A second U.S. Navy task force led by the carrier Coral Sea was reported operating in the South China Sea, but it was not known how close it was to Vietnam waters.

A Navy spokesman later said that while the Enterprise wasn't going to South Vietnam, it had in fact recently come from that area.

Congress passed legislation June 30, 1973, banning as of Aug. 15, 1973, U.S. armed forces from carrying out any military activity "in, over or from the shores of" any of the four states of Indochina — North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

THE USS ENTERPRISE led a U.S. Navy task force out of Subic Bay in the Philippines Tuesday following severe military setbacks for the Saigon government. As President Ford met with national security advisers yesterday, the Pentagon flatly denied the naval task force was heading for South Vietnam.

Ford decision could hike gasoline prices

President Ford is making a final decision on an oil production measure that would raise gasoline prices one or two cents a gallon, and is considering a second decision that could hike the price another nickel, White House sources said Tuesday. The decisions involve unfreezing prices that can be charged for "old oil" — wells long in production — and, secondly, by putting a rising tariff on imported petroleum.

Saturn 5 space junk will plunge to Earth

The spent second stage of the Saturn 5 rocket that took the Skylab space station into orbit in May of 1973 coasted lower and lower Tuesday toward a fiery plunge into Earth's atmosphere some time late this week. Some pieces of the 83,500-pound hulk are expected to escape burning up in the atmosphere and hit Earth. The space agency said the hazard posed by the re-entry will be about the same as from meteorites.

Key abortion issue to be tested in court

When does a fetus become a living being and abortion become homicide? Attorneys began selecting a jury Tuesday to determine whether a Boston physician, Dr. Kenneth Edelin, crossed that line — left deliberately vague by the U.S. Supreme Court — by allegedly committing manslaughter in aborting a woman during the sixth month of pregnancy. The case could produce a landmark decision on when a fetus becomes an independent being capable of living outside its mother and entitled to legal protection as a human being.

Syrian President Hafez Assad Tuesday pledged his government's readiness to extend military, political and economic assistance to Lebanon to help its Arab neighbor state defend itself against Israeli attacks. Singapore mobilized to fight oil spill Singapore mobilized all available ships and men Tuesday night in a massive effort to contain and disperse a million-gallon oil slick already threatening the western part of the world's fourth largest port. The oil slick posed threats of pollution to the beaches of Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia. The slick was caused by leakage from three ruptured tanks of the Japanese 237,698-ton supertanker Showa Maru which ran aground five miles southeast of Singapore.

Report FAA's Butterfield asked to quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Continuing his purge of top-level Nixon appointees, President Ford has requested the resignation of Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield, administration sources said Tuesday.

They said Butterfield was told by Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar on Dec. 18 that Ford wants to name his own FAA chief, but that Butterfield has not heard directly from the White House. He was expected to meet with Donald H. Rumsfeld, White House chief of staff, later this week, sources said.

Brinegar, also a Nixon appointee, will leave the administration Feb. 1 and Ford is asking the Butterfield resignation to take effect March 1.

Butterfield is best known for having disclosed that President Richard M. Nixon taped all of his conversations in the White House, including discussions about the Watergate scandal. The tapes eventually led to Nixon leaving the presidency.

Asked if Ford was ousting Butterfield because he had exposed the White House tapes, sources said Butterfield's record "is too damn good to play that game ...

He lives and breathes aviation."

Butterfield would like to stay at the FAA, sources said. But he probably will go into private industry when he leaves government.

When he took the FAA top job, Butterfield gave up his retirement rights in the Air Force. But Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., has introduced legislation to have his military benefits restored.

Brinegar, meanwhile, summoned top FAA officials to meet next week to discuss "critical issues" raised by a House report which said the FAA had failed to act on many potential aviation hazards.

Cigaretts, food to occupying Indians

GRESHAM, Wis. (UPI) — Face-to-face negotiations resumed Tuesday in efforts to end a seven-day occupation of a monastery by armed Indians and authorities allowed food, cigarettes and soup to be taken into the building in a gesture of conciliation.

Artley Skenandore, an Oneida Indian from St. Paul, Minn., acted as official mediator and said the talks with leaders of the militant band of Indians went well.

It was the first food allowed into the 64-room Alexian Brothers novitiate since an armed band of Indians identifying themselves as the "Menominee Warrior Society" seized the building early New Year's Day, ousting a caretaker and his family.

National Guard troops rolled into the area before dawn Tuesday to relieve weary law enforcement officers who have encircled the building since the start of the takeover. There have been exchanges of gunfire but no injuries have been reported.

American Indian Movement leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means, key figures in the prolonged 1973 occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., also arrived in this Wisconsin county 160 miles northwest of Milwaukee, saying they were ready to assist in talks to end the confrontation.

MEMBERS OF THE Wisconsin National Guard warm themselves by fire at checkpoint surrounding the Alexian Brothers Novitiate in Gresham. The guard replaced police who have been on duty there since Jan. 1.

Tricky London cops seize skyjacker with 'toy' pistol

LONDON (UPI) — A man of Arab appearance seized a British jetliner in flight Tuesday and extorted $235,000 in ransom Tuesday in a bluff with an imitation pistol and a dummy grenade. The hijacker was captured when the pilot flew him around for one hour, then landed at an airfield near London instead of to France as the gunman demanded.

The hijacker, in his late 20s, was overpowered by a police doghandler as he ran from the plane after landing at Stansted airport, 34 miles northeast of London.

He left the ransom behind in the plane and was carrying what Scotland Yard Deputy Commissioner Wilfred Gibson said was a "replica pistol." As for the suspected grenade canister carried on the plane by the hijacker, Gibson said, "No explosives have been found."

The only casualty in the capture was British Airways steward Alan Bond, 35, one of five hostages the hijacker took. He was lightly bitten by a police dog in the scuffle on the darkened airfield.

The hijacker seized the British Airways twin-engine BAC111 on a flight from Manchester to London and allowed the 46 passengers, most of whom were unaware of the hijack, file off when it landed at London's Heathrow.

French officials said if he attempted to make the demanded flight, the French Air Force would force the plane to land at Evreux military base west of Paris.

The hijacker held stewardess Barbara Brindley in the passenger cabin while the pilot, Capt. Harry Lea, passed demands to the control tower.

The plane took off from Heathrow shortly after 10 p.m., but instead of flying to Paris, Lea flew in circles over southern England while Stansted airport was sealed off and its name sign blacked out. As the skyjacker emerged from the plane the police closed in.

Montana maverick Burton Wheeler, dead at 92

- Former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, a Montana maverick once called "the most dangerous radical in Congress," is dead at age 92. Death came Monday night at his home in northwest Washington, D. C. His 24-year career spanned the Teapot Dome scandal to the postwar era and during that time he was variously termed a radical, Communist, conservative and isolationist for his support of the "New Deal" and opposition to U. S. entry in World War II.
- Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will host a state visit from British Prime Minister Harold Wilson next month, indicating the Soviet Communist party general secretary is neither seriously ill nor ready to step down from office, as some reports have indicated.

to a Harris poll which showed that 86 per cent of those sampled do not believe he is doing an effective job in fighting the current economic situation. "His economic program is not based on what he thinks is popular," added Nessen.

Village board wrapup

Winston Square landscaping plan approved

The Buffalo Grove Village Board Monday approved a revised landscaping plan for the model homes area of The Centex Homes Corp.'s Winston Square development near Welland Road and Ill. Rte. 55.

The plans, recently approved by the village appearance control commission, call for planting grass, shrubs and trees around the nine model houses, slated for opening later this month, said Allen Rafelson, a spokesman for Centex.

Phase I of the project, consisting of 100 housing units, probably will not begin until April, Rafelson said.

The development will consist of 420 single-family townhouse units on the 57-acre site.

$1,500 OK'd for well repair

The board authorized $1,502 worth of repairs to village Well No. 5 behind the Ranch Mart Shopping Center.

A quotation from the Henry Boysen Co. of Libertyville was approved to repair a break in the shaft of the well apparatus.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said trustees decided to waive bids to put the well back into service as fast as possible.

3 sign requests approved

The board approved requests for signs advertising a judo academy in the Dunell Shopping Center, a shoe store in the Ranch Mart Shopping Center and the Villa Verde apartment along Arlington Heights Road.

Sign ordinance under study

The board asked Village Atty. Richard Raysa to review the village sign ordinance for a possible amendment allowing the appearance control commission full authority to grant sign requests that comply with village codes.

Larson said the changes will be studied as a possible means of cutting down on delays faced by merchants to obtain approval from the commission and the village board for sign requests.

cent increase, $8 between 1 and 3 p.m. and $4 after that time.

Season-pass memberships for two weekend starting times is now $350 per year while the same pass with one Saturday-Sunday starting time is $275 annually.

Weekday memberships are $150 and $125 for senior citizens while husband-and-wife passes now cost $250. A fee of $400 will be charged for annual family passes.

CART-RENTAL fees are now $11 for 18 holes and $6 for nine-hole play, according to the new rate schedule.

In approving the interim budget Monday, trustees also directed Larson and his village staff to keep strict accounts of time spent managing the course during the next four months.

Larson said his staff will keep records of time spent in meetings, bookkeeping, preparing memos and other tasks involved in operating the course.

In the budget, Larson reported to the board he had allocated certain portions of some staff salaries to account for the time they would spend on golf course matters.

TRUSTEES OBJECTED however, saying logs recording amounts of time spent in its management should be kept.

Trustee Clarice Rech said such an accounting is important for the inclusion of course operations in the 1975-76 village budget.

Mrs. Rech also said Tuesday that accurate data would be important if the village decides to exercise its option to buy the facility and tries to "sell a referendum to the public."

DET. LEONARD YOURG leads attempted rape and battery suspect J. C. Cooley into the Mount Prospect police station Tuesday. Cooley, extradited from Tampa, Fla., is accused of attacking a village woman Nov. 2.

Rape victims name suspect as attacker

A rape suspect extradited Tuesday from Florida was identified by three recent victims of sexual assaults as their attacker, police said.

Mount Prospect police said a 22-year-old woman identified the suspect, J. C. Cooley, 24, as her attacker in a Nov. 2 incident at her Cottonwood Lane apartment. Cooley has been charged with attempted rape and aggravated battery in the attack on the Mount Prospect woman.

Buffalo Grove police said two 13-year-old girls, both victims of rape attempts, also made positive identifications of Cooley during lineups at the Mount Prospect police station. Complaints are being prepared against Cooley by Buffalo Grove police.

Cooley, who is being held by Mount Prospect police on $20,000 bond, was returned from Tampa, Fla., Tuesday by Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Det. Leonard Yourg. Cooley and a companion, Harry Cooper Jr., were arrested by police in Tampa on warrants issued against the men for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Cooley will appear today in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court for a bond hearing. While in this area, Cooley lived at the Lehman Trailer Court, 500 W. Touhy Ave., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, police said.

Wheeling offers free rides this month

by JOE FRANZ

The Village of Wheeling is offering free local bus service for the rest of January in an attempt to encourage ridership.

The proposal to suspend fares temporarily was made by Trustee William Hein Monday night and approved by the village board.

"I'm hoping the free rides will get the people acclimated to riding the bus and will result in more people using it on a regular basis," Hein said. "I'm also hoping to get observations from a lot of people on the value of the service and the types of buses we are using."

The village has two buses that operate within its corporate limits. One follows a designated route and schedule, while another shuttles residents from shopping centers, medical centers and other points in the village. School children are the biggest users of the service.

Passenger fares normally are 10 cents for senior citizens and children 8 to 17, and 25 cents for persons older than 17. Children under eight ride free.

The buses operate from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

THE VILLAGE RECENTLY sold its larger, 56-passenger bus and is renting a 19-passenger bus on a one-month trial basis. Officials said if resident response to the smaller bus is favorable, they will purchase it for $13,000 at the end of the month.

Village Mgr. George Passolt suggested the village sell the larger bus, saying it was too costly to operate and seldom was filled. He also said it was difficult to obtain parts for the large bus.

Village bus service lost $28,400 in 1973 and officials expect 1974 figures to show an even larger deficit. Passolt said a fare increase is not contemplated even though fare revenue does not begin to meet operating expenses.

The manager said the village is committed to providing bus service and plans to continue service despite the losses.

LAST YEAR THE village received an $18,329 grant from the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to help alleviate the deficit. Passolt said the village is looking into and may apply for additional state and federal subsidies in the future.

About three weeks ago, the village board approved almost $5,000 to join the North Suburban Mass Transit District. The money will help finance bus service between Wheeling and downtown Chicago.

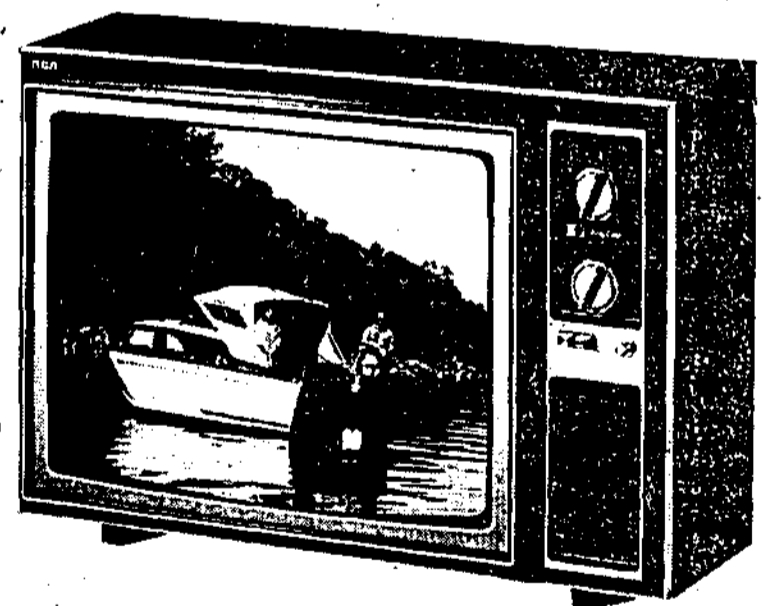

A portion of the funds also will be used to conduct a study to determine the future transportation needs of the village. M. O. Horcher, village administrative assistant, said the village is looking at ways of improving and expanding service.

The village is studying the feasibility of starting a commuter bus service to and from area railroad stations. Officials have said they would like to see the service started this year.

In addition, Horcher said, the village may one day start a shuttle service for residents who live and work in the village, as well as one to take senior citizens to and from area hospitals.

RTA chairman, board face test

The price tag for the suburban share of the Regional Transportation Authority will be high in future years, and we will be at the mercy of the eight board members and their new chairman, Milton Pikarsky.

Now is the time for Pikarsky and the board members to accept the challenge of planning a truly metropolitan mass transit system that is efficient, useful and as inexpensive as possible.

Rather than wait for miracles, suburban officials and residents must make their transit views known to the RTA board. The four suburban board members — Joseph Tecson, D. Daniel Baldino, Richard Newland and Jerry Boose — will have to listen first and later prove their effectiveness in representing us.

We expect wariness from the suburban board members, for there are plans that could funnel every nickel of available transit money for the six counties to Chicago and the CTA. The proposed Loop subway and distributor system, for example, will cost billions of dollars.

Other needs must be served first. Suburban residents need north-south and east-west transportation routes that do not lead to Chicago. A worsening fuel situation might be enough to force commuters to use feeder bus systems that connect neighborhoods and suburban stations — if the feeder buses are there.

Planning is the obvious key in providing such services where they are needed, and Pikarsky must prove his leadership in creating such planning. He has emphatically proclaimed his support for a truly regional RTA, and has repeatedly supported suburban bus and commuter train systems. Now he has the chance to prove he is a transit planner first and a friend of Mayor Richard Daley second.

His track record for his former employer, the CTA, should not be a model for the RTA. The CTA has dealt weakly with transit unions and has suffered through one financial crisis after another. Unlike the CTA, the RTA has the power to levy taxes, but that power should be used prudently under the guidance of a reasonable budget.

Residents of the Chicago area, already burdened with a high cost of living, must receive usable transit services for their tax dollars. We need an RTA, but we may not need this RTA unless it is a servant of those of us who must pay for it.

Safety action commendable

The new truck that's tailgating you on the expressway will be safer in 1975 than it was in 1974, thanks to a New Year's Eve safety decision from the federal government.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has ruled, after months of indecision, that new trucks must have a revamped air brake system to increase braking ability.

According to news reports, the new system will eventually require trucks traveling 60 miles an hour to be able to stop in 245 feet, or only 51 feet more than is required for an automobile.

The issue delaying the standards is economic, for the new standard is expected to cost anywhere from $700 to $3,000 per truck. The rule was first proposed in February, 1971, and its enactment has already been delayed twice.

Truck owners have argued that the worsening economic climate makes the new braking system too costly. But that argument is at least partially negated by producers of the system, who report that another delay would hurt them economically.

Safety, not economics, should be the real issue in the debate, for although truckers are regarded as safe drivers, an auto-truck collision causes more injuries to the auto's occupants. The government, in moving towards support of more safety for everyone on the nation's highways, is to be commended.

If Charlton Heston falls . . .

Could the movie "Earthquake," latest in Hollywood's series of disaster films, create its own mini-disaster?

It seems that "Earthquake" comes equipped with something called "Sensuround," in which a loud, drumroll-like sound is blasted into the theatre at the precise moment that the earthquake devastates a city. The seats and screen seem to vibrate as buildings fall around the horrified moviegoers.

But public officials are worried that more than just the patrons may vibrate during the flick. After Chicago officials ordered a theater to tone down Sensuround (they feared it might jar the building apart), Mount Prospect village manager ordered an investigation of Sensuround at the Randhurst Cinema.

Randhurst Cinema's manager is concerned, and with good reason, that a subdued Sensuround may keep moviegoers at home.

Even though "Earthquake" has played successfully — and with nary a brick falling — for eight weeks at the Randhurst Cinema, we still have our doubts. After all, it's reported that Charlton Heston, charioteer-without-peer and parter of the Red Sea, is swept into a sewer during "Earthquake." If Heston falls, can anything in Hollywood — or in the Randhurst Cinema — remain intact?

You tell 'em, Miltie!

Buried under sidewalks?

The December 26 meeting of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI), revealed the fact that the chairman David Patterson and one other member, Robert Griffith, apparently belong to the same school of thought as the Indiana Congressman, who said at the time of the Watergate hearings, "Don't confuse me with facts, I've got a closed mind." It is obvious that these two gentlemen are not going to rest in peace until they cover as much of Arlington Heights as possible with five foot wide and five inch thick concrete in place of grass, shrubbery and large beautiful trees.

It is almost inconceivable that in the Village of Arlington Heights we should have members of a board as important

Necessity of vapor lights questioned

In response to the Herald article on Friday, Dec. 27, "Sodium-vapor foes gain some support" (referring to Scarsdale subdivision), I would like to comment on the board of trustees change of direction in their thinking from the October meeting which contained BOLI's recommendations for sodium-vapor lighting for West Northwest Highway between Chestnut and Wilke Road with attached assessments for the 12 residentially zoned houses bordering the highway.

Trustee Colvin's (a Scarsdale resident) only comment then was so stated that due to the fact that we faced a state highway and had never been assessed for curbs and paving, we should be assessed for U.S. Rte. 14 lights. This sounded logical, except I'm presently paying three years into a ten year sewer assessment. Trustee Harms voted "yes" without asking, "Do we want a security lighting system?" Now she proposes to use money from the general fund if state lighting standards cannot be met in Scarsdale. If segregation and special consideration by subdivision is conceived or desired by this village and corners of the village carpet can be lifted and swept under, it's time we drop the word village from our name. Hell, we're now big enough to be a good old all-around American city.

If sodium-vapor lamps would reduce the lighting cost of the village by one-third, I can understand why they would desire to even replace our presently adequate lighting.

Why, suddenly, does street concrete have to be brightly lit? My car has headlights. Have we regressed as human beings to a level where we cannot enjoy the moon and stars? Have we reached a

What tarnished glitter of gold?

by DICK WEST

Gold, it appears, has laid an egg.

In the early going, at least, the expected gold rush is more of a gold bust.

Lifting of the ban on gold trading in this country touched off a frenzy of apathy. Dealers found they had struck the mother lode of indifference. And gold prices on the international market dropped accordingly.

What caused gold to lose the desirability that had made it the symbol of wealth since the early cave man?

ALL SORTS OF explanations have been set forth. My neighbor, Fermus Augug, for example, suspects it is the result of water fluoridation.

"All that fluoride we've been drinking has made us immune to gold fever," Augug told me over the back fence.

But Augug also blamed fluoridation for the fizzling of the Edsel and the comet Kohoutek. So we should await further evidence on that point.

A more likely explanation is that during the 41 years that gold trading was prohibited people forgot what it was that made gold so coveted in the first place.

We remember the expression "as good as gold." But we can't recall why gold was good.

At least that was the reaction I got in a series of man-in-the-street interviews.

"SIR," I SAID, to the first man I accosted, "are you planning to buy any gold now that private ownership of bullion is legal again?"

"I dunno," he replied. "What good is gold?"

I pointed out that gold was remarkably workable, ductile enough to be drawn into fine wire, yet malleable enough to be hammered into thin sheets.

"I can do the same thing with Silly Putty," the interviewee retorted, unimpressed. "Does it also bounce?"

I conceded that gold did not rebound as well as Silly Putty. But, I noted, it glitters better.

"You still haven't answered my question: what good is it?"

I said as far as I knew the chief practical use of gold, apart from making jewelry, was to make fillings in teeth.

"DO I LOOK like a dentist?" The interviewee spun on his heel indignantly and stalked off.

Well, that gives you an idea of what gold dealers are up against, and I'm sure glad I don't have to unload any of the stuff.

But it's good to know that if you're ever in the mood to gold a lily, you don't have to break the law.

Ford reaffirms qualifications of Edward Levi

by HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — President Ford will select Edward Levi, president of the University of Chicago, to be Attorney General because he believes he is "a man of absolute integrity."

Ford told UPI in an interview that he will nominate Levi to succeed William B. Saxbe in the top Justice Department job and considers him "a man of fine administrative capability who handled with skill and success the University of Chicago student disturbances" in the past.

"I think he's probably more conservative than the liberals would like, and a man with the right touch for the Department of Justice at the present time," said Ford.

"I'm very impressed with him and I strongly support him. I think when both liberals and conservatives analyze his record — his philosophy — what he would do, that he will make an outstanding Attorney General."

Furthermore, Ford said, Levi has "the kind of image and substance which is needed there at the present time," in obvious reference to the Watergate scandal.

Levi has some conservative opposition in the Senate, but Ford appears determined to move ahead with his appointment.

Saxbe will be going to New Delhi as the new U.S. Ambassador to India.

Mayor challenged on 'emotional' label

I am a fairly new resident of Mount Prospect, 1 1/2 years, but I am very interested in what is happening to the town. I have attended village board meetings, mainly concerning Brickman and Kenroy developments. I would like to congratulate the members of the Randhurst Civic Association on their charts, court cases, facts and figures concerning Kenroy's plans for Rob Roy. They destroyed the builders' visions of Utopia in place of a plain old golf course. The effects of these concerned citizens were greatly appreciated by other residents.

I was, however, surprised and concerned about the comments and attitude of Mayor Teichert. Mr. Teichert's favorite word when dealing with citizens' opinions concerning Kenroy's activities was "emotional." He said citizens were head-hunting, activities did not involve this plan, would not allow or answer questions on Kenroy's credibility. Mr. Gottlieb's attorney later thanked the mayor for this stand. If a company does illegal and underhanded things to get what they want on one project, how can the mayor be so blind as to assume they will be 100 per cent honest in an even more profitable venture in Mount Prospect?

Watching Mayor Teichert in action is very interesting. Whenever anyone goes against him, it is emotional! When he lectures citizens for being interested only in themselves and not the community, forgetting they were annexed, trying to take advantage of the developer, etc., etc., it is not emotions, but good government. Funny, but to me, the mayor was anything but unemotional when defending Mr. Gottlieb's multimillion dollar project. This speech, obviously, affected some board members that had said they would vote 5-1 against the project. Some final moves made the ending of the meeting a fiasco.

Mr. Teichert's remarks to "Roy" were very interesting. While the clerk was trying to find something, Mr. Teichert turned to Kenroy's table and said, "Roy, I do not think you will be able to get this thing through in the county." If the mayor knows it will not pass the County Board, why is he so willing to have it in Mount Prospect? Is his friendship with Roy that strong?

Another unemotional statement to the citizens was if they did not want development in Mount Prospect or around them, they should have moved to Barrington. I resent that remark! You see,

Mr. Mayor, my husband has to work very hard to keep us a middle income family. He is not a lawyer moonlighting as a politician, who can probably afford Barrington.

Recount showed no irregularity

After last November's election, Congressman Sam Young asked for a discovery recount under a procedure giving access to 25 per cent of the precincts in the 10th Congressional District. This has now been completed; no irregularities or miscounts were found, there is no change in the result.

The charge that in one particular precinct polling place at 7954 W. Oakton, Niles, a voting machine carried the names of two congressional candidates in an adjoining congressional district proved unfounded when the machine was brought to the recount hearing. It showed correctly the names of Young and Mikva and the votes cast for each.

LEAP (Legal Elections in All Precincts), the election watchdog group, issued a statement denying that its representatives complained of election irregularities in this district. Such claims were phoned in by anonymous callers who pretended to be LEAP watchers. In fact, LEAP said, all of its watchers were in Chicago, none was in the 10th District. Sam Young might do better to ferret out these impostors.

The worst that could be found was that in a few precincts the election judges, Republican and Democratic, failed to initial a few absentee ballots. (The Illinois Supreme Court ruled in 1968 that this does not invalidate these ballots.)

One thing Sam Young might advantageously learn from us 10th District Democrats is how to lose gracefully; we've had more practice.

Yes, it is hard to lose and the temptation to complain is great, especially when the margin is not large. But lots of elections (and lots of other contests) are lost by small margins, many much smaller than this one. Abner Mikva's winning margin of 2,860 was 2 per cent of the total vote.

Sam, the recount showed no ground for your complaints, it's time to thank your friends, congratulate your adversaries and close the bar.

Dixon appeal success

Three hundred dollars worth of Christmas gifts were sent to Dixon State School from the Betty Crocker coupons sent to me this year. Three-hundred dollars more of coupons are in the mail to General Mills, and two families are still counting.

Thirty large moving cartons of Christmas gifts left my home, via National Van Lines to John Jack Mabley and Wally Phillips' drive to the Forgotten Children.

Eighty-six dollars in cash was sent with the coupons, mainly in unmarked unsigned letters, so I will have to thank everyone who helped make Christmas a little brighter for God's special children through this article in the local papers.

Please continue to save them. Our "contract" expires November, 1975. A total of $2,044.16 worth of coupons have been redeemed since January, 1972. I think we did a good job.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

James Longstreet, Confederate general in the Civil War, was born Jan. 8, 1821. This is rock star Elvis Presley's 40th birthday.

On this day in history:

• In 1815, American Gen. Andrew Jackson's forces decisively defeated the British in the Battle of New Orleans, the closing engagement of the War of 1812.

• In 1867, Congress approved legislation providing suffrage for Negroes in the District of Columbia.

• In 1973, the trial of the "Watergate Seven" began in Washington, D.C. They were charged with breaking into the national headquarters of the Democratic party.

• In 1974, President Nixon denied charges that he granted favors to milk producers and International Telephone & Telegraph in return for campaign contributions.

A thought for the day: American poet James Russell Lowell said, "... It is the brave man who chooses while the crowd stands aside."

Teacher bargaining hot state issue

by WANDALYN RICE
Collective-bargaining legislation that would require school boards to negotiate with their teachers probably will be the hottest issue involving education facing the Democrat-dominated Illinois General Assembly, which convenes today.

"This is the time of the century for getting a collective bargaining bill through for public employees, State Rep. Eugenius Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said this week. "For the first time we have a Democratic House, Senate and governor all at once since I've been in the legislature."

Mrs. Chapman's assessment generally is supported even by those who have been opposing mandatory collective bargaining legislation for the past several years. The question, observers say, will be whether collective-bargaining legislation will cover all public employees, including policemen and firemen, and whether it will include provisions for binding arbitration of contract disputes.

WILLIAM HENKEL, lobbyist for ED-RED, a lobbying organization made up of suburban school boards, said he believes the collective-bargaining bill most likely to emerge from the legislature will include only teachers.

"If you look at the number of legislators who ran with the support of COPE (the AFL-CIO political action arm) and the IEA (the Illinois Education Assn., the state's largest teachers' union), you know they have the numbers to pass collective bargaining," Henkel said.

"But with the continuation of (Chicago Mayor Richard J.) Daley on the scene, I think there is less chance for a bill that would include all public employees," he added. "If they pass one just for the teachers it doesn't cramp Daley's style."

Daley has resisted bargaining with Chicago's police and firemen despite requests by both groups to do so. A collective-bargaining bill covering all public employees would force Daley to negotiate.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING has been a controversial issue in the legislature for the past several years, with various bills supported by labor dying in committee each session. Supporters of collective-bargaining legislation say it will formalize the relationship between governmental bodies and their employees and cut down on the number of strikes.

Henkel, whose organization has opposed any collective-bargaining legislation as an infringement on local school board control of education, said his group may find itself lobbying for specific provisions in a bargaining bill if it appears one is assured of passing.

He said ED-RED's emphasis at that time would be to try to prevent a provision for binding arbitration in any law.

"If binding arbitration on not only salary but other issues is required in the bill, local control has been completely eroded," he said.

ON THE OTHER education issue that traditionally has created controversy in the General Assembly — school funding — most observers expect fewer fireworks than last year. Mrs. Chapman said she expects the state school aid formula which was approved two years ago to be funded fully and without much controversy, but added that some adjustments in the formula might be made.

The formula, called the resource equalizer, is designed to assure every school district a certain amount of money per pupil regardless of their local resources.

Some downstate school districts have asked for changes in the formula because they believe they are not getting their fair share of money. In addition, wealthy school districts on the North Shore are complaining about provisions in the formula requiring them to roll back local property taxes as they receive additional state money.

HENKEL SAID THERE will be lot of lobbying by both Downstate and suburban districts for formula changes, but said, "Any legislative change in the formula that is going to cost additional state funds doesn't have a chance."

Henkel, Mrs. Chapman and officials in the state school superintendent's office also say they expect the legislature to discuss possible changes in funding for special-education programs as the result of a study now being conducted by the state School Problems Commission on special education. Results of the study are not available, but Henkel said there may be a move to eliminate special appropriations for special education and to include funding for special-education students in the state aid formula.

$810.6 million budget set for colleges, universities

The Illinois Board of Higher Education Tuesday approved a budget of $10.6 million for operation of the state's colleges and universities in the 1975-76 fiscal year, up 13 per cent from the current budget.

The board made only two major changes in the budget recommended by its staff members. It rejected a proposed tuition increase for medical students and knocked out wording that might have provided higher salary increases for low-paid school employees.

The board also approved a capital budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year of $143 million. The budget provides $32,832,537 for construction at the state's community colleges and includes $10 million for Oakton Community College's permanent campus in Des Plaines and $2.6 million for construction at Harper College in Palatine.

THE OPERATING budget, approved on a 14-10-1 vote after three hours of discussion, calls for salary increases averaging 10 per cent for teachers and other employees at four-year colleges and universities.

But presidents of all the state's major schools said the money provided in the budget is not enough to cover those increases.

"This budget means we will either have to reduce our salary increase to 6 per cent or separate (fire) another 60 people," said Richard J. Nelson, president of Northern Illinois University at De Kalb. And he said it was too late in the season to consider firings.

UNIVERSITY OF Illinois President John Corbally said his school could afford salary hikes averaging 9 per cent under the budget, but he said the U of I will continue to press for more money to cover salary increases of at least 12 per cent.

Eastern Illinois University President Gilbert Fite said his school might be able to afford salary increases of 8 per cent, and Southern Illinois University President Warren Brandt said his school could pay about 9 per cent under its budget allotments.

Board member James Uhland of Peoria suggested that increased tuition could help pay for salary increases, and take some of the financial burden off taxpayers who have no interest in higher education.

BUT THE BOARD rejected his idea of a tuition increase for undergraduate students, and Unland voted against the entire operating budget.

The board knocked out a provision calling for a tuition increase for graduate students attending medical, dental or veterinary schools. The proposed increase would have brought in $672 million and the board voted instead to ask the state to provide that money.

The board also eliminated a statement in the budget that urged schools to give higher salary increases to low-paid employees who are hit hardest by inflation.

'Feeling successful' to be COULD subject

"The Importance of Feeling Successful and Grapefruit" will be discussed by Eunice Bradley, a teacher at Summit School, at the January meeting of the Council for Understand Learning Disabilities.

The COULD meeting will be at 6 p.m. Jan. 22 at Hersey High School. Mrs. Bradley is a teacher in the junior high school classes of Summit School, a private school for children with learning disabilities.

COULD is a nonprofit organization made up of parents and educators who work with children with learning disabilities.

Sodium-vapor streetlights: bright idea or dark menace?

by BARRY SIGALE

Are sodium-vapor streetlights coming to your Northwest suburban neighborhood? Will the controversial luminants kill trees? Reduce crime? Further traffic safety?

Or, are the lamp lights esthetically unacceptable? Will they be a nuisance? And who will pay for them, anyway?

These are the questions two villages have been pondering and others may have to answer when Chicago's major streetlight replacement project ends and the statistical data comes in.

There's nothing to learn, yet, from Chicago's experience. The city is working on completing the installation of 82,500 lights on residential streets at a cost of $8 million.

OFFICIALS DECIDED to undertake the project as an energy- and money-saving measure with the intention of reducing crime in the streets. A study done by a University of Toronto professor of urban forestry convinced them there would be no harmful effect on trees and shrubs. And there may be no way of telling if those results will hold true in Chicago.

"I don't think we're ever going to know if trees will be killed," said a spokesman of the Chicago Dept. of Streets and Sanitation. "But if trees get Dutch elm disease and die some people will blame the lights."

Indeed, there has been some opposition to the bright, orange-tinted lights in Chicago, and Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove, where the sodium-vapor light systems were proposed. The biggest complaint from Arlington Heights is that one subdivision — Scarsdale — would be "bathed in an orange glow" if they were installed. Monday, the lighting debate came to an end. No sodium-vapor lights will be installed in Arlington Heights, said the village board.

The cost of the lights would be paid for by any village wanting to install them but proponents of the program say the replacement plan would save money in the long run. Maintaining the lights would be easier and electrical bills would be reduced, they say.

Illinois Briefs

Insurance unit to step up probe of bias

The Illinois Dept. of Insurance will pay more attention to investigating possible discrimination based on race, sex or economic status by the insurance industry.

State Insurance Director Robert B. Wilson Tuesday announced the appointment of a new assistant for urban affairs in his department charged with investigating discriminatory practices in insurance matters in urban areas.

Named to the new job was Alexander P. Robinson, a former president of the Chicago Insurance Assn. and a board member of the Chicago Assn. of Life Underwriters.

Wilson said Robinson's appointment "reflects the department's increasing focus on the insurance concerns of Illinois consumers."

Robinson's initial projects will include a comprehensive investigation of possible automobile rate and market discrimination in Illinois urban areas, research on market abuses in credit, life, accident and disability insurance and investigation of alleged problems of minority construction contractors in securing required surety and performance bonds.

Aid for child-abuse parents

Grants to finance two programs to help parents who abuse their children were among those awarded by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission Tuesday.

The programs, which will be funded with $1.8 million of federal money, include one program sponsored by the Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services and another by Child Advocates Inc., a coalition of 11 child-welfare agencies including three Evanston hospitals.

The programs will include medical, social, psychological, psychiatric, legal and supportive services.

Richard Friedman, regional director of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, said the programs will "push ahead" to "deal directly with the abusive parent . . . In order to prevent recurrences. While we need to know more about child abuse, we can't wait until all the studies are in while children are being injured and neglected," Friedman said.

Other grants awarded by the ILEC Tuesday included a study of the Illinois State Police by an outside consulting firm at a cost of $87,500 and a state department of corrections program for vocational counseling and career training for inmates.

Prison furloughs defended

Allyn Slatoff, director of the Illinois Dept. of Corrections, Tuesday again defended the state's program of furloughing prison inmates.

Pledging uppermost attention to public safety, Slatoff told a news conference that he acknowledged there would be failures in the furlough system.

The program, which Slatoff says "bridges reentry into society," has the backing of the Illinois Jaycees.

"I wouldn't stand here advocating this program if these people were not going to be back on the streets some day . . . Imperfection in predicting human behavior will make some failures on furlough inevitable," Slatoff said.

Better and Better

by Ed Landwehr

"About the only way to get anything worthwhile on your TV set is to sell it."

Similar remarks like this have been coming from the public ever since TV programming began. It shows that you can't please everybody all the time. It's this human trait of criticism that causes improvement in all our human endeavors. This is why TV viewing is so much better than it was ten years ago, and we hope will be better next year and the next.

We try to please all our customers at Landwehr's Home Appliances too, but it would be folly to think we're successful. However, some of our best customers are those that could help us prove our motto, "satisfaction guaranteed."

You should phone 266-0700 too. And stop by and look over our fine displays of TV sets at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Film series mirrors Japanese culture

NEW YORK — If you want to learn about the life styles of the United States during 1930s, the easiest way is to turn on your television set and hunt for an old movie.

"Grapes of Wrath" tells about migrants; "Top Hat" reveals aspects of music and dance; and "Front Page" winds at newspapers and the men who staff them.

U.S. films are a history.

The Public Broadcasting Service Monday night offers a glimpse of Japanese history and culture in "The Japanese Film," a 13-week series of movies hosted by Prof. Edwin O. Reischauer of Harvard.

"There is a growing awareness in many parts of the United States of the importance of Japan," said Reischauer, former U.S. ambassador to Japan. "There's also a certain awareness of the quality of the Japanese film medium. The Japanese films do have a very high reputation, particularly with the young people in America."

"And I think the idea of 'The Japanese Film' series is extraordinarily interesting. It will give us the opportunity to tell television audiences much about Japan, its culture and its people."

THE SERIES, produced by KQED in San Francisco, was made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities for the humanistic interpretation of the culture and society of a non-Western civilization.

Television in review

by Frank S. Swertlow

The films include: "Sanjuro," Akira Kurosawa's satire on the code of the Samurai; "Harp of Burma," Kon Ichikawa's examination of guilt after World War II; "24 Eyes," Katsuko Mizoguchi's antiwar story of a school teacher who watches her students go to battle.

Other films are: "Ugetsu," with ambition and greed woven into this ghost story set in feudal Japan; "Harakiri," revenge in 16th-Century Tokyo; and "Boy," the disintegration of a family in postwar Japan.

A SPECIAL electronic subtitling process for television has been designed for the series.

"The series really tries to cover a wide spectrum of Japanese history and culture, 300 to 400 years," said Dr. Ronald Berman, chairman of the humanities endowment. "And since these films are Japanese, they provide a much more probing look at Japan than a Westerner could. It is the Japanese looking at himself.

NOTES: NBC's new "Petrocelli" series on Wednesday nights has been renewed for the second half of the season. The show got off to a slow start in the fall but has built rapidly in recent weeks. Star Barry Newman will begin work after the last episode is completed this spring on a theater movie based on the early Army career of Gen. John Pershing titled "Black Jack." He will star in and produce the film.

Wayne Rogers of "M*A*S*H" and Marilyn Mason will costar in "Attack on Terror," an adventure thriller for CBS-TV. Jack Carter will play one of the heavies in Paramount Pictures' new "Home Free," which stars Burt Reynolds and Catherine Deneuve. Stacy Keach moves over from movies to television to star in a pilot film for a new television series, "Caribe," to be filmed on location in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. (United Press International)

Today's best...

"Antonio and the Mayor." Dramatic special set in Mexico during the educational reform period and centering on the conflict between a 10-year-old boy and the proud mayor of his tiny village. The special was filmed entirely in Mexico. 7 p.m. Channel 2.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Second-thoughts department...

We are indebted to Paul Lukacs and Bridge World magazine for today's East. If you can keep your eyes off the East-West cards, try to plan your play at six spades.

Your first thought: Win the heart lead with dummy's ace and try an immediate first-dummy diamond finesse. If it wins you are home, provided trumps don't break 5-0, but you can't handle five trumps in one hand with any line of play.

If it loses and trumps break 4-1 or a diamond is led right back and ruffed you're going down.

A second thought may be better. Ruff the heart and start trumps. If West holds four trumps, cash your ace and king of clubs and throw him in with his last trump. Anything he leads gives you your contract.

Lions' Candy Sale helps handicapped

The Lions Clubs of Illinois are coming closer to their goal of raising $1.1 million through the efforts of the 30,000 club members in the one-day Candy Sale campaign.

This is the 22nd year the Lions have conducted their campaign to raise funds for programs to help the visually handicapped. Almost $8.5 million has been distributed to the activities of the Lions as the result of Candy Day sales Oct. 11.

Projects supported by the Lions include Illinois Camp Lions for visually handicapped children at Hastings Lake; Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka; Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Mich.; and Dialogue, a recorded magazine for the blind.

In addition, Candy Day funds are used by the clubs in their communities to aid the sightless and handicapped.

Any blind or visually handicapped person who needs help may contact the local Lions Club or write to the Lions of Illinois Foundation, 1515 N. Harlem Ave., Oak Park, Ill. 60302.

X-rays filed 5 years

How long must a hospital keep my x-rays on file?

A hospital must keep x-rays on file for five years but after 2½ years, the x-rays may be recorded on microfilm. If an x-ray has been requested by an attorney, it must be kept intact or on film until the case is concluded or 12 years after it was made, whichever comes first.

Hospital's blood service approved

Holy Family Hospital's blood transfusion service has been reaccredited for another two-year period by the American Assn. of Blood Banks.

In his announcement, the president of the association, Dr. Herbert Polesky, said, "Through inspection and evaluation it has been determined that the level of technical and administrative performance within Holy Family Hospital's blood-transfusion service meets or exceeds the standards established by the association."

Polesky said the patient who receives a transfusion of blood provided by a blood bank or blood transfusion service accredited by the American Assn. of Blood Banks can have full confidence that high standards of procedures have voluntarily been met and every effort is being made to provide the best possible service.

The announcement coincides with the beginning of National Volunteer Blood Month. The need for blood during January is great and area residents are urged to become donors at Holy Family Hospital on Mondays between 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. An appointment can be made by calling 297-1800, ext. 1900.

Hemorrhoids: what they are, what causes them, and what can be done to prevent them

My husband has just had his second hemorrhoidectomy in 20 years. We know other people who are hemorrhoid sufferers and are wondering the following: What are hemorrhoids? What causes them? Why do they sometimes recur after surgical removal and what can be done to prevent them?

I'm sure if you answer these questions you will enlighten many of us as hemorrhoids are quite a problem for so many people.

Hemorrhoids are nothing more than dilated veins around the rectum. They are just like varicose veins of the legs except for their location.

There are generally two types of hemorrhoids, the external type, outside the sphincter, and the internal type inside the sphincter. The outside ones cause pain, itching and discomfort.

The worst problem comes when a small clot forms in the

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

dilated vein. A clot is called a thrombus so these are called thrombosed hemorrhoids or thrombosed piles. Sometimes these need to be lanced and drained, but usually they go away on their own after causing the discomfort. The small scarred tag of tissue left behind may be a persistent source of itching.

THE INTERNAL hemorrhoids may not cause any symptoms, but they can bleed silently, in small or large amounts.

Trying to answer what causes hemorrhoids is a bit like answering what causes varicose veins. In general anything that increases the pressure inside the thin-walled veins may cause them to dilate excessively and become sac-like structures. Being below the heart is one cause of increased pressure. It is no accident that dilated veins are in the legs, around the rectum and, in men, within the scrotum (varicocele). You don't see people with dilated veins in the head because the head is above the heart, and there is little or no pressure inside the thin veins in the head region. You don't see hemorrhoids in animals where the rectum is above the heart, as in most four-footed grazing animals. Part of the problem, then, goes back to our being upright animals.

PRESSURE around the rectum distending the veins can also be caused by childbirth, and many women will have hemorrhoid problems after pregnancy. Abdominal tumors and probably even being overweight can contribute to the pressure problems.

Constipation and poor bowel habits are a major factor in causing hemorrhoids. The pressure during forceful bowel movements really balloons out the elastic veins. This is a tip then on what you can do to avoid them. Maintain good bowel habits, avoiding laxatives and stool straining.

Never overlook the possibility that pressure from a cancer of the rectum above the hemorrhoids may cause them to appear. Everyone who develops hemorrhoids or who has rectal bleeding must have an examination. If it is more serious than just hemorrhoids, early diagnosis and treatment can be lifesaving.

Harper, Maine East win; Elk Grove falls

Two of the three area teams in action Tuesday night went to sleep with smiles on their faces as Harper won for the second time, smothering McHenry 63-63, and Maine East tripped Niles North, 66-57.

The lone potential insomniac was Elk Grove, who ran afoul of highly rated Addison Trail and fell to the unbeaten Blazers, 67-42.

Maine East made their "Mark" at Niles North Tuesday night.

With Marks Mahoney and Berns each firing in 22 points, the Blue Demons turned back the Vikings 66-57 in a Central Suburban League cage showdown after leading all the way.

Berns began clicking right from the beginning on long jumpers and Maine charged into a 16-9 first quarter advantage. After that the Niles team never came closer than four in dropping their fifth straight hoop outing of the season.

The triumph opened out the Demon's CSL slate at 2-2.

After Berns had set the offense in motion, Mahoney responded with 20 points over the final three quarters to keep things going. Both teams went into high gear in the fourth period, accumulating a total of 41 points but the visitors maintained their edge all the way.

Defensively, the hosts utilized a full court zone press which was matched shortly afterwards by Maine East. A total of 34 personals were dished out during the hectic contest.

Rick Furmanski paced the losers and took game scoring honors with points.

The Harper Hawks machine gunned McHenry with bursts of 14 and 11 points while fast breaking to their second win of the season, 63-63 Tuesday night at St. Viator.

The Hawks, who played without Chris Mielke in their recent loss to Rock Valley, had the 6-4 sophomore back in the lineup and he wasted little time in taking over with a 26-point effort. Guards Steve Loughman and Mike Miller aided Mielke's inside work with 35 between them.

But the big news of the night was the style of play Harper has taken up since the holidays. Every time the ball went into their possession the Hawks were looking up floor and running, running, running.

The thoroughbred approach to the game opened the shutouts in the first half when 14 unanswered points went through the hoop and shoved Harper into a 46-27 halftime lead.

"Our goal the second half was to beat them by another twenty points," said Harper coach Roger Bechtold, "but we had that lead down that we always seem to get and they almost got back into the game."

A combination of cold shooting and little offensive movement gave the Fighting Scots some daylight and they closed the gap to 54-43 before the Hawk fast break got a tune up put the game away for good, running off 11 in a row to a comfortable 65-43 margin.

McHenry was just so much bait after that and Bechtold's team could bask in the luxury of an easy win, a rare occasion in this 2-11 campaign.

"We really needed this game," Bechtold understated, "and it feels great to finally blow somebody off. The attitude on this team has just been super and that is unusual with all the problems we've had. I think we can still hurt some teams with the personnel we have."

Addison Trail's undefeated basketball team moved cautiously out of the starting gate and then exploded in the second period en route to a 67-42 triumph over visiting Elk Grove Tuesday night.

It was the 13th win in a row for the Blazers, currently ranked eighth in the Chicagoland area by one prep cage poll. They outscored the Grenadiers by ten points in each of the middle stanzas after both sides had scrambled to pretty much of a standoff in the opening period.

The loss left the Grove with a 7-5 overall slate.

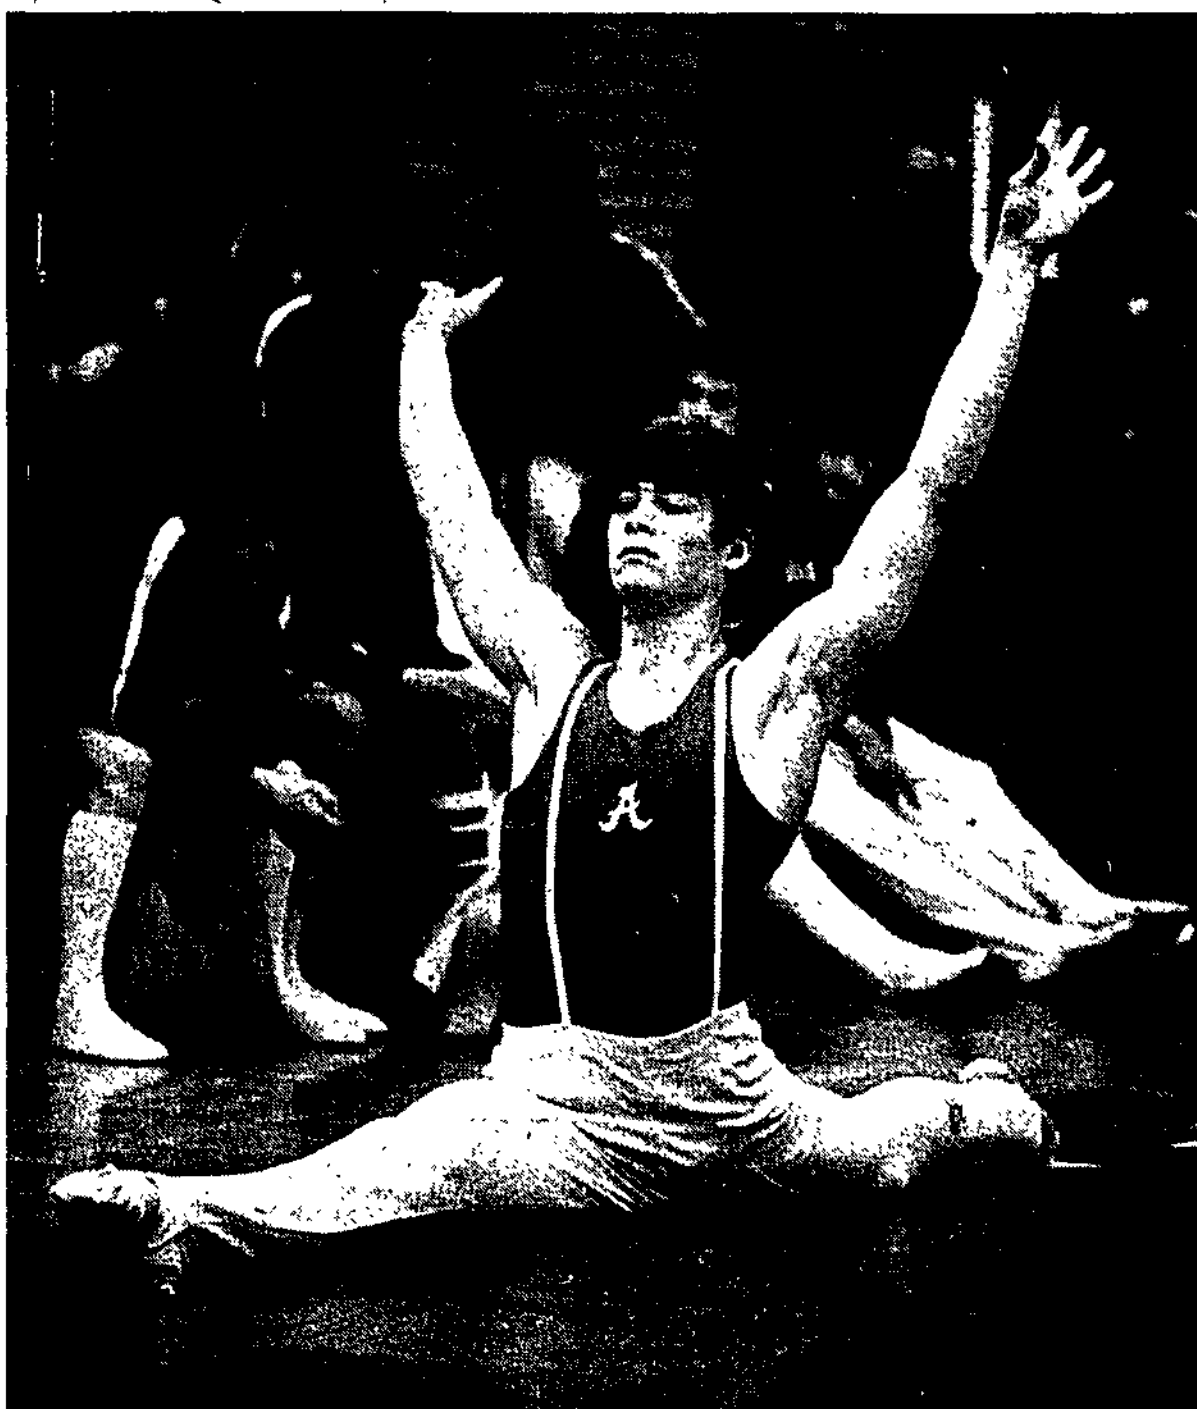

Norm Englehart was the big gun in the Addison attack. The 6-8 pivotman poured in 18 points and was credited with 13 blocked shots, collecting four of them in the second quarter while mates Scott Anderson and Steve Long were hitting a rash of base line jumpers to rocket their team into the lead.

The much taller hosting team also worked up a decisive 43-11 edge in rebounds, Long leading the way with 12.

High scorer for the Greens was Greg Kelley with 13.

Top-seeded volleyball teams victorious

Top-seeded Prospect, Arlington and Wheeling advanced in district volleyball action Tuesday night as did Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

Arlington beat Palatine 15-0, 15-0 at the Palatine District with Rolling Meadows ousting Conant, 15-7, 15-5.

Wheeling rallied to beat Mundelein, 15-6, 17-15, at the Stevenson District. At the Maine West District, Prospect stopped Maine North, 15-0, 15-0, and Schaumburg outlasted Elk Grove, 15-8, 12-15, 15-8.

Super serving told the story for Arlington as two stars from the fall Cardinal tennis program stood out — Jean Condon and Mary Baines.

The first game started out slowly as Palatine lost its serve, Arlington did the same and Palatine did so again. Then Condon took charge. She served 15 straight points and the victory.

Baines continued this Cardinal consistency in the second game, running off 14 straight points or 29 in a row for the opening match of the Palatine District.

Coch Linda Swanson's Cards advanced to the semifinals Thursday (7 p.m.) against Rolling Meadows.

The Mustangs of Coach Elaine Wissen turned in a very strong total team effort in getting by Conant. Two players enjoyed especially good games — Maureen Stoll for her steady serving and Karen Poland for her spikes.

The second game was a long one as the Cougars of Coach Caren Betts only trailed 6-4. Then the Mustangs pulled away.

The Cougars were led by Kathy Evans' spikes and saves, Vicki Bozin's spikes and Maria Slonka's sets and saves.

Prospect displayed a little overconfidence, according to Coach Sandy Pifer made the first game closer than it should have for the Mid-Suburban Conference champion.

Dorothy Nee served well in both games, having a streak of 14 straight in the second to go with six in the first.

Schaumburg had to battle back in the nightcap behind the fine serving of Laurie Minerick, who had seven winners in the pivotal third game. Alice Thomas served for 14 points in the whole match. Denise Mohr was the top server for Elk Grove.

The Saxons of Coach Mary Maher will meet the Knights on Thursday at 7 p.m. After winning the opening game with ease as expected, Wheeling found itself down 14-6 against Mundelein, the lowest seeded team.

"I called time out and kind of yelled at 'em and they seemed to wake up," said Donna Dubbele, the Wildcats' coach. Wheeling stormed back to win a thriller in overtime, 17-15.

Sandy Rainey was the best server for both games. Other players who did well for the Wildcats were Mary Meyer, Leeann Paulsen and Sandy Philip. The latter two played a big part in "getting it together in the second game," said Dubbele.

Wheeling will meet Wauconda, a winner (15-12, 15-3) over Lake Zurich, on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Tonight's schedule is as follows:

At Palatine — Hersey vs. Hoffman Estates at 7:00 with Fremd vs. Forest View at 8:30.

At Maine West — Maine East vs. Maine South at 7:00 with Maine West vs. Lake Park at 8:15.

At Stevenson — Stevenson vs. Carmel at 7:00 with Buffalo Grove vs. Lake Forest at 8:30.

Hersey, Elk Grove sparkle in Waukegan's gym invite

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The Waukegan Gymnastics Invitational Saturday developed into something of a dual meet between two schools which figure to be at the top of the Mid-Suburban League, Hersey and Elk Grove.

The two schools dominated the six team field, which included Mundelein, Rich Central, Thornwood and Waukegan, with Elk Grove taking two event titles, and Hersey four and the team championship.

The Grenadiers were boosted by the return of Gene Christensen, who had been out for a month with a shoulder injury and had Elk Grove strapped for an all-around man of his caliber. Christensen returned in impressive fashion with an 8.0 in free exercise to take a fourth place medal.

"Gene just started working out half hard last Wednesday," said Elk Grove coach Fred Gaines, "and hadn't done any tumbling for nearly four weeks. Yet he threw a complete set the first time back."

Christensen continued his comeback with medals in two other events, taking a fourth on high bar (7.83) and a fifth on still rings (7.0).

While Christensen's performance gave indication of a secure future for Elk Grove, Matt Damore and Tim Connelly took care of the present at Waukegan as they won the Grenadier event titles.

Connelly, according to Gaines "did a real good job" on the side horse to win that event with an impressive 9.06 mark. The score was more than a point higher than second place finisher Jeff Salcedo of Hersey.

But the day's best overall performance was turned in by Damore, who, in addition to edging teammate Steve Phillips for the high bar crown 8.36 to 8.30, also took a fifth on free ex (7.9), a third on trampoline (8.06), and seconds on P-bars (7.6) and still rings (7.5).

"Matty did a lot better than he has this year," Gaines said, "and I was especially pleased with the job Phillips did. He hit his routine for the first time this year."

"If we hadn't had so darn many injuries we'd be much more polished than we are but with everybody healthy I really think we'll easily break 140 in our upcoming dual meets."

Kevin Muenz led the parade of Huskie event titleists by grabbing the all-around and P-bars (7.9) championships. He also took a fourth on side horse (8.6) and thirds on high bar (8.0) and still rings (7.46).

Head coach Don Von Ebers also got event titles from Keith Oehlson in free ex (8.53), Greg Manning on trampoline (8.3) and Steve Cory on still rings (7.6).

But the Hersey performance left Von Ebers with mixed emotions.

"We knew we won and we had the trophy but in general the performance was kind of anti-climactic. During this Christmas break we've been working on some new tricks so we can come back strong in the conference with the new things we've been working on."

An injury to Mark Haisley pulled the Buffalo Grove Bison below the 100-level for the first time this year as they dropped a non-conference dual to Maine East 108.85 to 97.10.

Haisley had been the Bison mainstay on the P-bars and according to coach Dennis Mazur, "His absence cost us about three points. He's got a broken wrist so he'll be lost for the year. We've had trouble with injuries all season and there are three or four kids on the squad who just aren't healing."

Three schools 'survive' rugged wrestling weekend

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Maine West, Rolling Meadows and Buffalo Grove were the only "survivors" over a brutal Saturday of non-conference wrestling action.

Dick Carlini's undefeated Warriors kept rolling along past a pair of local entries at Forest View's triple dual meet while the Mustangs of coach John Ellis took a pair at home and Dennis Riccio's Bison outfit won one and tied one in Libertyville.

The post-holiday blahs apparently caught up with just about everybody else. Hersey went all the way to DeKalb to suffer its worst setback in years, Fremd was pummeled by Woodstock, Glenbrook North crunched Conant and Glenbrook North clouted Wheeling in some of the more lopsided affairs.

Here's the rundown:

Maine West 22, Arlington 19
Maine West 47, St. Viator 3
Arlington 34, Forest View 15
Forest View 43, St. Viator 15

Maine West squeezed past the Cardinals and then rolled over St. Viator to up their dual meet slate to 10-0. Redbird Steve Scott issued Warrior Tom Krauser his first setback of the season, 5-0 in a big 98-pound battle but the key faceoff was at heavyweight where Maine reservist Kevin Wilkens chalked up a decisive 10-6 verdict. Rob Krusinski, Bryan Real, Dan Barringer and Dan Cavazos were all double winners for MW, Barringer charting a couple of pins.

The Cards are now 8-2 after bouncing back with a big win over the host Falcons. John Priesting, Herb Darmofal, Lee Welcz and Jim Stanczak in addition

"But on the whole the judging through the whole meet was down. Maine East's total was their lowest of the year, too."

Mazur did receive strong performances from Wayne Dulin, who averaged 4.9 for the all-around and won the free ex event with a 6.65 score. Paul Schultz won the only other Bison title with a 5.7 on the side horse.

Stan Kutin led the Blue Devils' showing with the all-around championship (5.35) and a first on the P-bars (7.95). John Gervens (high bar, 7.3), Frank Crigler (tramp, 6.95) and Mike Schwarz (rings, 7.25) were the other Maine East event winners.

The Forest View Falcons also were involved in the Niles North Invitational Saturday and took seventh place with Niles East winning the meet.

to Scott logged two wins apiece with Stanczak getting his via a first round pin in a 20-1 romp.

Double victors for the View as they too split for the day were John Gross, with a pair of shutouts, Jamie King, Kevin Smith and Tom Andersen. The only bright spot for the still-winless Lions was heavyweight Scott Zettke, who collected 16-1 and 8-0 decisions.

Rolling Meadows 60, Elmwood Park 3
Rolling Meadows 27, Elgin Larkin 16
Roy Carlstrom notched his eighth and ninth pins of the season while helping the Mustangs to their eighth straight triumph and 10th overall against two losses and a tie. Elmwood Park made it easy for forfeiting half their matches and then winning only one of the remaining six. Larkin caused a little more trouble, staying in contention until heavyweight Bob Newell's first round pin salted the match away.

Schaumburg 31, Conant 19
Schaumburg 27, Glenbard North 20
West Chicago 33, Schaumburg 14
Glenbard North 40, Conant 9
West Chicago 30, Conant 18

Riddled by sickness, the Saxons still managed to claim wins in two out of three hookups at Glenbard North's quad meet, upping their overall slate to 9-3-1. The Cougars did not fare nearly as well, however, despite Ron Burhite's triple win performance.

Conant's Ed Armstrong almost desecrated unbeaten Saxon Terry Ruddy, losing by a narrow 2-1 count, and Tim Goergen bagged a pair of victories in three outings. Ruddy had no problems winning

The sound and the flurry

Snowmobilers hit the trail

by JIM COOK
Outdoor Editor

Snowmobiling probably has a ways to go before catching skiing as America's favorite winter pastime. But as long as there is snow on the ground and gas in the tank, the popularity of the sport will undoubtedly continue to flourish.

In Illinois alone, over 100,000 outdoor enthusiasts are currently cranking up the belt-driven vehicles and indenting the wide-tread design on the miles upon miles of groomed trails.

Naturally, with every innovation, snowmobiles have drawn the wrath of various organizations and individuals who argue the new-fangled machines, some of which are capable of speeds in excess of 90 miles per hour, disturb nature's winter wonderland while interrupting the concentrating hunter.

Despite the scattered opposition, snowmobile clubs have sprouted like ants at a picnic. Every compatible state's winter calendar of events is crammed with regularly-scheduled races, some of them drawing in excess of 10,000 spectators.

In its true form, a snowmobile is classified as a recreational vehicle, but the advantages of effortlessly blazing through the forest, across the river and over the fields have given farmers, hunters and fishermen, for example, a valuable mode of transportation, an economical tractor and a toy all in the same ignition switch.

As with every other motorized vehicle, though, snowmobiles are only as safe as the person operating it. Last winter, in Wisconsin, 916 snowmobile accidents were reported to the Department of Natural Resources, including 26 deaths.

The 20 to 29-year-olds were involved in more accidents than any other age group with the 30 to 39-year-olds next in line.

Most snowmobilers operate their vehicles carefully and are aware of the dangers involved in their misuse. Much of this awareness can be attributed to a diligent effort on the part of the conservation departments of each state.

Many snow states require that youth from 12 to 16 who wish to operate a snowmobile be certified in a state pro-

Safety program for youngsters

A Snowmobile Safety Course will be held for youngsters between the ages of 12 and 16 years by the All-In-The-Family Snowmobile Club of Arlington Heights on Jan. 16 and 17 at the Dryden School, 723 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights.

Youngsters that attend this class will be instructed in Illinois and other state laws and regulations, nomenclature, survival, proper clothing and equipment as well as other topics relating to the rapidly-growing sport of snowmobiling. The boys and girls will also receive "on-the-machine" instruction plus their classroom work.

Youngsters that complete this course will be issued Illinois Certificates of Snowmobile Safety which will enable them to operate a snowmobile in the states that require certification.

It is mandatory in the neighboring states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota that this age group attend a recognized Snowmobile Safety Course and hold a valid snowmobile safety certificate to be able to operate a snowmobile. It is now a law in Illinois at this time but it is felt that it will be by next year.

Instructing the class will be Bill Andres, Dean Stewart and Roger Behrens. All have attended the Illinois Association of Snowmobile Clubs Safety Education Program Instructors School and are certified Illinois Instructors.

To register a child, call Bill Andres at 253-3660 or Dean Stewart at 259-3404.

In conjunction with the safety programs, Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker has declared Jan. 13 as "Think Snow Day" in recognition of the thousands of snow skiing, snowmobiling, snowshoe hiking and other snow-dependent sports.

Forest preserve winter fun

Outdoor Editor

Cook County Forest Preserve District areas and facilities have a lower incidence of use during the winter season. While inclement weather and associated conditions make keeping some driveways and parking lots free from ice and snow and safe for public use near impossible, a number of such areas are open to the safe conduct of a winter pastime or sport.

Every effort is made to keep the drives and parking facilities in these areas plowed and passable. Persons may walk or hike in all areas at all times between sunrise and 11 p.m.

Twelve divisions within Cook County offer a variety of winter sport activity, including tobogganing, sledding and coasting, ice skating, snowmobiling and ice fishing through March 1. These areas are open daily from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Of course, weather conditions dictate whether the centers are operating.

For tobogganing, a snow depth of four inches is needed for operation. Slides are open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily and the use of a personal toboggan is permitted. Otherwise, toboggans are rented at $1 per hour from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and a deposit is required.

Ice skating and ice fishing must have a minimum of four inches of ice and snowmobiling must be enjoyed without at least four inches of snow.

Winter camping at forest preserve districts is limited to youth groups such as Boy and Girl Scouts at designated campsites. Groups must call for reservations.

The complete list of sites and facilities are:

Ski races at Wilmet

The first FIS-point, USSA-CD-sanctioned Junior Alpine ski race ever to be held in the Chicago-Milwaukee area will take place Jan. 19, at Wilmet Mountain in Wilmet, Wis.

This First Annual Wilmet Cup Race is expected to draw 150 Junior Racers (age 8 through 18) from all over the Midwest. The racers will be competing for FIS points which eventually will qualify some of them to compete in the Junior Nationals from which the 1976 Olympic ski team candidates will be selected.

A unique feature of the Wilmet Cup will be a dual slalom format which pits two racers side-by-side on identical courses. This is the first time the dual format will be used with Junior Racers.

The dual races will begin at 1 p.m., with the awards ceremony at 4:30 p.m. Wilmet Mountain is located on the Illinois-Wisconsin line, one mile north of Ill. Hwy. 173 on Wilmet Rd.

Winter boating class at Fremd

Completion certificates have been mailed to 59 persons who completed the United States Power Squadron Free Boating Course taught this fall at Larkin High School by Fox Valley Power Squadron.

Commander William E. Johnson sent his congratulations with the certificates which are awarded to those who complete the course and pass the final examination.

Fox Valley will conduct two courses this winter — one at Larkin High School in Elgin starting Tuesday, Jan. 20, and the other at Fremd High School in Palatine starting Tuesday, Feb. 4. All classes start at 7:30 p.m.

This is the first time the course has been held at Fremd, and results from Fox Valley's effort to conduct classes at a location more convenient for people in the near northwest suburban area, according to LaVerne Brlesch, Squadron Educational Officer.

The U. S. Power Squadron Boating Course runs about 10 weeks with a two-hour session weekly. The lessons include boat handling under normal and adverse conditions, chart work, safety precautions, the use of the compass, seamanship, such aids to navigation as buoys and lights, inland and trailer boating and rules for avoiding collisions.

The course is free to all men, women, and children who have reached the age of 12, and have an interest in boating. It is not necessary to own a boat. Many take the course before buying a boat in order to be prepared to use it properly. Anyone can get additional information by calling toll-free 800-243-6000.

criteria set up by the program.

Once you are a qualified snowmobile driver, you may elect to purchase your own vehicle from a vast assortment of manufacturers. The different models and engine sizes are sure to meet everyone's needs.

The same holds true of snowmobile outfits. The accompanying wind-chill chart is sobering evidence of the importance of insulation.

Snowsuits are not a luxury on the trail. They're a must. A fully-zipped snow suit protects against the biting wind and snow while a pair of insulated boots and gloves protects the most likely parts of the body to get cold first.

Helmets with shields should be standard equipment for any snowmobiler. In many areas, it is required. Besides protecting against potential spills, it keeps both the ears and face warm.

Once you're 20 miles out on the trail, it is not time to start worrying about the performance of your machine. Several simple pre-trail checks can prevent mechanical failure and help cut operating costs.

• Drive at a moderate speed. Constant moderate throttle operation with slower acceleration will utilize fuel more efficiently.

• Measure and mix gas and oil accurately and follow manufacturer's recommended ratio. If you're inadvertently setting up a smoke screen, for example, the first indication is that you are probably running your machine on too rich a mixture of oil and gas.

• Don't idle the engine. Idling consumes fuel without any positive results and may cause inefficient operation due to sparkplug fouling and high operation temperatures.

• Keep the engine in top operating condition at all times. Obviously, you don't overhaul an automobile engine every time you use the car. Ditto for the snowmobile.

• Use only new or clean sparkplugs of the proper heat range and with the proper gap as recommended by the manufacturer.

• Do not change any of the carburetor settings on the machine and maintain all the vehicle components in good condition throughout the season. This includes proper track and drive chain tension, proper ski and clutch alignment and proper lubrication.

Above all, common sense is the most important prerequisite. Remember, it is not the snowmobile which is destructive; it's the person operating it.

In So Many Ways Your Friendly Neighbor

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

Pet resolutions are important

Now that the new year has arrived, let's hope that you did not forget the dog when making those New Year's resolutions. Families with a new Christmas puppy especially should consider the following:

Keep the dog in the best possible physical condition. Start with an annual checkup by the veterinarian. Make certain the dog gets proper daily exercise and a complete balanced diet. Easily splintered bones, candles, pastries or any rich "people food" leftovers should never be fed to a dog.

Schedule regular brushing to maintain skin and coat. Check teeth for cleanliness and clip nails regularly.

Never allow the dog to run loose. Spend a few minutes daily playing with the dog. Teach him to obey a variety of commands. This helps develop a dog's personality and intelligence, making him a more responsive and manageable pet.

Park Shore K.C. match—
On Sunday, Jan. 19, the Park Shore Kennel Club will hold an A.K.C. sanctioned all-breed B match at the Buffalo Grove High School field house, located at Arlington Heights and Dundee Roads.

An advance mail entry will be taken and this will close on Jan. 14. The advance entry cost is $3 with gate entry the day of the match set at $3.50.

Show hours will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. There will be food available and there is ample parking. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. If you want to attend as a spectator. And by the way, there will be conformation classes as well as Junior showmanship.

If you want more information or entry blanks, contact Phyllis Joseph at 312-679-4646.

Lake County Animal Protection Assoc.—
You folks living in Lake County have an active animal protection association going for you.

If you would like some information about it, write to the association at P.O. Box 105, Gurnee, Ill., 60031. The organization can furnish you with speakers and films on animal welfare.

In a letter from their secretary, "We are convinced that a great deal can be done. That is why we have decided to organize an association for effective action in preventing cruelty to animals, educational programs in schools and other groups, supporting animal legislation and an animal birth control program."

Signup time for Li'l King hockey

Registration for the Schaumburg Hockey League's LIL KING program has been set for Wednesday, Jan. 8 at the Woodfield Ice-Arena in the Woodfield Shopping Center. Registration will be held from 5:45 to 7:45 p.m.

The LIL KING program is a 10-week hockey instructional course for players from four to six years old. It is designed particularly for players who have had no previous skating or hockey experience.

The registration fee for returning players will be $35. The fee for new players is $45. New players will receive the official LIL KING playbook as well as an official Schaumburg King Jersey.

The initial session for the little skaters will be on Wednesday, Jan. 15, at the Woodfield Ice-Arena. Ice time is 5:45 p.m. Players are asked to report to the rink one half-hour before the session begins.

Further information concerning the LIL KING program may be obtained by calling 805-1261.

Forest View's hockey entry topples Bison

The Forest View Falcons, with the help of Mark Krey's goaltending and a good team effort, beat the Buffalo Grove Bison, 9-4, Saturday, in Metro hockey.

The win put the Falcons six points up on Crystal Lake, who lost to Cary Grove, 4-2.

The Bison drew first blood when Zimmer scored at 6:05, unassisted, but the Falcons came back with three unanswered tallies. Jim Ryan scored at 4:15, Bill Klier at 1:32 and Joe Martorelli at 0:45 to end the first period with Forest View holding a 3-1 lead.

Twenty-two seconds into period two, Phelifer scored to make it 3-2, but at 3:45, after a flurry of great saves by B.G.'s goalie Binto, Martorelli put it in to end period two with F.V. having a 4-2 lead.

The third period was wide-open with the Falcons scoring five times, the Bison twice. Zimmer got his second at 13:21, but just 68 seconds later, Vito Carone got the winning score, Senese assisting. At 9:37 Senese scored on himself, Woloshyn and Mike Desimone assisting to make it 6-3.

At 8:39, Zimmer got the hat trick on a rebound off Krey, but then the Bison defense fell apart.

The next Falcon game is Wednesday at 7 p.m. Games are at the Arlington Ice Spectrum, 613 Consumers, right off Rt. 14.

Mustangs, Falcons capture thrillers

A couple of thrillers took place last weekend in Mid-Suburban League swimming.

Rolling Meadows captured an 87-85 victory over hosting Prospect by finishing 1-2 in the 400-yard freestyle relay. Meanwhile, Forest View held on to defeat visiting Buffalo Grove, 87-77.

MUSTANGS EDGE KNIGHTS

Winning the free relay for Meadows was the team of Roy Volkammer, Glenn Adams, Ken Stahnke and Richard Sievert (3:54.3). The Mustangs also took second (3:56.6) as Prospect finished a distant third (4:23.5).

REDIG PACES FALCONS

Kevin Redig notched a pair of firsts and also anchored the freestyle relay. Redig took the 200 free (1:57.1) and 500 free (5:20.6). Then he finished up for the team of Mark Oliver, Jon DeLew and Oke Pearson and the relay (3:44.2).

Buffalo Grove had a pair of double winners — Mike Foley and Mike Yasky.

Foley won the 50 free (24.3) and the 100 butterfly (59.5); Yasky handled the 200 individual medley (2:18.1) and the 100 backstroke (1:02.7).

Demons 3rd at invitational

Maine East head coach Ron Davitt had a plan. If his Demon team could come through with some key thirds at the nine-team Hillcrest Invitational Relays Saturday, a victory was possible.

Three times his team lost judges decisions, twice with identical times and once when a Demon was clocked at 2/10ths of a second faster. The losing of these decisions left the Demons with fourths.

Maine East finished with 168 points with Thornton having 104 and Homewood-Flossmoor was next with 176. The costly decisions had hurt. Still, Davitt was pleased his team got "some competition" after the holiday break.

"Now we know where we stand after Christmas time-wise. We didn't have any disappointing performances."

The only Demon first came in the 200-yard freestyle relay for sophomores. Winning were Scott Steigerwald, Scott Schwandt, Rick Marder and Mike McCurvey with a time of 1:42.0.

Taking a second was the diving team of Chris Dixon and Tom Doyle, who amassed 201 points.

his other bouts 17-3 and at 4:20.

Joe Hannon was also a triple winner for Schaumburg, along with Ken Joffke, who picked up a forfeit triumph to go with a pair of falls. In one of the more exciting contests of the afternoon, Mori Bello dropped a tight 4-3 decision to West Chicago's Henry Antes, star back on their Class 3A state football championship team.

Buffalo Grove 26, Libertyville 22

Buffalo Grove 21, Deerfield 21

The Bison remained among the undefeated ranks, but just barely after battling to a draw with the Warriors. The key win in that meet had to be Rich Wilhelm's impressive 11-6 verdict over returning state qualifier Jeff Levitzet although pins by Terry McCann, Jim Brough and Brian Gibbons also helped out — Buffalo Grove lost seven of 12 bouts in the contest.

Andy King picked up his team's only other win against Deerfield, McCann and Brough, meanwhile, earned two pins each while Wilhelm tacked on an 18-2 win over Libertyville.

Wheeling 32, Carmel 12

Glenbrook North 30, Wheeling 13

Mike Reif was the only Wildcat triple winner, carding two sticks and just missing a third. Carl Robbins might have been just as successful but he met up with Spartan Leon Garrish, the same individual who stopped him in the championship round at Glenbrook South's hol-day tourney, and Garrish triumphed again.

Ray Auger, Phil Dietrich and Ed Wargo also won two out of three bouts each as Wheeling's dual meet slate slipped to 5-4.

DeKalb 37, Hershey 9

Mark Furlong remained unbeaten and Eric Strutz won by fall to account for the only Huskie points. Just missing in struggles with returning state qualifiers were Don Sorensen (6-5 to Joe Williams) and Dan Lococo (1-0 to Elbert Sullivan) and the guests absorbed one further handicap by moving most of their wrestlers up a weight.

Fremd 24, Crystal Lake 20

Woodstock 32, Fremd 14

Woodstock's win over the Vikings was their eighth straight this season without a loss. By countering against the host Tigers Fremd was able to escape with a 6-3 overall log.

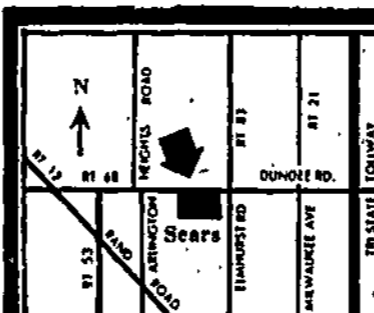

Diego Ramirez and Jeff Ossler were the only double Vike winners of the day although Dan Lynch and Jeff Sveinsson each dropped one-point heartbreakers while winning by fall in their other outings.

Glenbard South 39,

Hoffman Estates 24

Antioch 37, Hoffman Estates 18

Darcy Rice and Jim Thomas earned a couple of wins each and both won once by pin. The only other big Hawk boost was supplied by Scott Kobori and he captured his bouts without much effort, winning in each case by forfeit.

Drug, alcohol abuse panel topic

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

Drug and alcohol abuse will be the topic of a panel discussion at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Hoffman School, 101 Grand Canyon, Hoffman Estates.

The Hoffman PTA is extending an invitation to all adults interested in attending. Panel members will be the Rev. Roger Boekenbauer, of the ADD program; William Shatkus, principal of Dooley School and chairman of the drug-abuse education committee in Dist. 54; Betty Walsh, Dist. 54 social worker, and Dolores Bailey, school nurse.

A question-and-answer period will follow the discussion.

St. Raymond's School

Conrad Mazeski, a Mount Prospect optometrist, will speak on various factors associated in diagnosing learning disabilities at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the St. Raymond rectory meeting room. The public may attend.

Maine Township High School Dist. 207

Maine West High School senior Lynn Sexton was selected queen of the school's winter formal, "Evening in Evergreen." Members of the court were junior Karen Bolman, senior Sue Cassidy, sophomore Kathy Rohlfbeck and freshman Cindy Leo.

High School Dist. 211

The Conant High School booster club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the cafeteria of the school, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

This month's program is "Sports Night" and will feature performances by the boys' and girls' gymnastics teams.

Correction

The telephone number for Sacred Heart of Mary High School printed in Tuesday's School Notebook was incorrect. The correct number is 392-8880.

High School Dist. 214

The Northern Illinois University Jazz Band will appear at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect at 8 p.m. Friday.

Special guest at the concert will be low-brass jazz soloist and clinician Rich Matteson, who will conduct a clinic for Prospect band students at 7 p.m.

Matteson will appear as guest soloist with the band. Prospect High School graduates Mike Luzwick, John Todd and Gary Bottje, also will perform.

Admission is $1.50 at the door.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15

Students at Virginia Lake School, 925 N. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, will hear the program "I Believe in Music," in an assembly at the school at 1:45 p.m. Friday.

The 45-minute program is produced by the American Music Conference, which is touring Chicagoland schools. The program includes a history of the musical instrument families, a discussion of the concepts of sound, and the history of musical styles from Beethoven to bluegrass and from a West African jam session to an 18th-Century marching band.

Queen of the Rosary School

"I Believe in Music," a review of music through history, will be presented at Queen of the Rosary School at 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Jan. 17.

The program is presented by the American Music Conference. Narrator Mike Sweeney uses live and recorded music while giving a presentation on the history of musical instruments, the concepts of sound and how music is shared by people of all nations.

The school is at 600 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Session shows few trends

Stock market sluggish; Dow gains 3.99

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, slightly winded after recent gains, struggled Tuesday through a session that showed few trends on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, off about 3 points at the outset, gained 3.99 at 641.19. In the last six sessions, the closely watched average has risen 39.03 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, however, lost 0.05 to 71.02. The average price of an NYSE common share did not change. Advances topped declines, 928 to 519 among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 14,760,000 shares compared with 17,550,000 traded Monday.

The advance was broad, but unlike recent sessions, it was not backed up with volume. Some early profit taking was considered normal in light of recent gains in the market.

THE MARKET has been helped lately by actions of the Federal Reserve board, which apparently has relaxed its monetary policies and cut its discount rate in an effort to lower interest rates. Some smaller banks lowered the prime rate they charge key corporate customers, but major banks have left the rate at high levels.

Wall Street, many analysts believe, still anticipates a favorable economic program from President Ford later this month.

Mounting tensions in the Middle East and increased fighting in Indochina made some investors cautious. President Ford has kept a close watch on Southeast Asia, but does not intend to violate legal prohibitions against the use of American military force there.

• On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 31,201 contracts were traded, compared with 35,245 Monday. IBM January 180 led the actives, off 1/4 to 1-3/8. Polaroid January 20 followed, off 1/8 to 3/8. Upjohn January 50 was third, off 1/4 to 1-1/8.

• Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased four cents. Volume totaled 2,110,000 shares, compared with 1,884,000 traded Monday.

Ford will OK tax reduction, sources say by United Press International

An income-tax cut to put more money into the pockets of consumers and a reduction in car prices gained ground Tuesday in government and private industry proposals to fight recession.

Administration sources said President Ford has decided on a tax cut to spur consumer spending and only the size of the cut still was under debate. Ford plans to present new measures to counter recession later this month.

MEANWHILE in Detroit, Chrysler Corp. prepared to announce the first large-scale price cut to unload a backlog of thousands of unsold 1975 cars and trucks. Chrysler has enough cars on storage lots to last 133 days.

Chrysler planned to announce the cut, in the form of rebates of $200 to $400, on selected models weekly.

Despite a sales decline of 23 per cent in 1974, the "Big Four" maintained a lack of consumer confidence was to blame and refused substantial cuts in prices of 1975 cars, introduced at prices averaging $1,000 higher than 13 months earlier.

Ford Motor Co. did, however, trim the cost of a subcompact Pinto by an average $150, and General Motors cut $13 when the interlocking seat belt system was removed.

ELSEWHERE, NEGOTIATORS for 60,000 petroleum refinery workers said a nationwide walkout scheduled for 12:01 a.m. today could be averted if only one major oil company made a "meaningful offer." But, said A. F. Grosprun, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, "As of now, the situation looks grave."

Industry leaders warned that a nationwide OCAW strike against refineries would cut production by 30 to 40 per cent and lead to spot gasoline shortages.

In Europe, Common Market finance ministers met to discuss ways to put $55 billion in unused Arab oil dollars to work to prevent a monetary crisis. But the U.S. dollar sank to a record low in Zurich, also hitting more than one-year lows in Frankfurt, Brussels, Paris and Amsterdam. Gold prices closed lower in Zurich, Paris and Frankfurt but gained $3 in London.

IN OTHER developments:

• Almost 1,300 Detroit city workers will be laid off Jan. 18 for at least one month because of an estimated $35 billion budget deficit by June 30. The State of Michigan said unemployment hit 12.4 per cent in Detroit and 11.2 per cent in the state in December.

• The New England Telephone Co. in Boston refused to confirm or deny reports that the firm is planning its second major layoff in three months.

• Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. said it will lay off 230 workers indefinitely this week and next at its plant in Lower Pottsgrove Township, Pa.

• More than 1,000 persons took advantage of a new federal law and filed claims for jobs or extended unemployment benefits in Oklahoma City. "It was the agency's busiest day in years," said one official.

1975 designated 'Women's Year'

Action brewing but economy poses threat

by MONICA PERIN

The year 1975 has been proclaimed "Women's Year" by the United Nations, and it appears the title will be justly deserved by year's end. A massive amount of activity is brewing among women in various political and civic roles.

But there is also a specter on the horizon that threatens the success of "Women's Year." It is the worsening national economy and the rising unemployment rate, which could cut deeply into women's hard-won job progress.

The first concern of most women's rights advocates is to achieve passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. Only five more states must ratify to make ERA the law of the land, and proponents are hopeful that Illinois will finally ratify this year.

THE MEASURE DIED in the last legislature just a few votes shy of the necessary "extraordinary majority," but the recent election of new legislators who support ERA — and the resignation or defeat of some opponents — is expected to put the resolution over the top early in the upcoming session.

As a matter of fact, the fall elections were considered a boon to the ERA and the women's movement nationwide.

Women elected to state legislatures across the country increased by 26 per cent. Compared to 1969, when only 305 women sat in state legislatures, 591 are now state legislators.

A new factor, however, has entered the ERA picture in Illinois. The leader of the ERA effort in the state senate, Sen. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago, has announced she will run for alderwoman in her Chicago ward. If she wins, she will resign her Senate seat, leaving somewhat of a gap in ERA ranks in Springfield.

REP. EUGENIA CHAPMAN

BUT ERA IS not by any means the whole show. With or without quick passage of ERA, the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women is continuing to comb through the Illinois statutes to eliminate all sex discrimination as required by the Illinois Constitution.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, who is in charge of this research, said the commission has so far approved 52 bills eliminating language discriminatory to both women and men. Mrs. Chapman considers the bills "non-controversial" and hopes to get speedy, unanimous approval on the House floor.

But a major obstacle to the continued efforts of the commission is lack of money. Mrs. Chapman said the commission is not being funded as well as other committees with much narrower jobs to perform, and that the commission will seek an emergency appropriation.

If the money is not forthcoming — which will depend in part on who is chosen as Speaker — the commission will be forced to operate for the next six months without money, Mrs. Chapman said.

AS IT IS, she added, the commission operates out of people's homes because it has no offices, and its research, Linda Hayes of Arlington Heights, is now working as a volunteer because there is no money with which to pay her.

In addition to its work on the statutes, the commission's Legislative Action Committee is working on legislation that would give the Fair Employment Practices Commission the power to initiate complaints.

This is also a major concern of the Commission on the Employment of Women by the State, along with recommendations to: broaden the powers of the FEPC, require affirmative action plans covering all state employes and require the posting of all state job vacancies.

According to Mrs. Chapman, Gov. Walker's Affirmative Action program is an executive order applying only to the agencies under his jurisdiction.

"WHILE HE IS to be commended, I feel affirmative action needs to be statutory. It needs to be authorized by the legislature, not by executive order, and this would make it apply to all state employees."

In addition, the proposal for posting job vacancies would discourage the "buddy system" of hiring new employees, which tends to discriminate against women and blacks, Mrs. Chapman said.

At the local level, the Northwest Suburban Women's Caucus made plans at its December meeting to begin arrangements to join the Chicago metropolitan caucus and to form a state caucus, according to Julie Sass of Elk Grove Village, an organizer of the group.

She said around 40 women are now active in the recently formed caucus, which encourages and helps women run for office, particularly at the local level. She said additional women have sought assistance from the caucus for particular elections.

ANOTHER FOCAL point of activity is the Northwest Suburban chapter of NOW (National Organization for Women). According to Terri Tepper of Barrington, founder of the chapter, the group plans to hear an address on "street defense" at its Jan. 13 meeting.

NOW members are also looking ahead to their state convention in Springfield Feb. 1 and 2 when they will stage workshops on how to file legal discrimination complaints with various agencies, on promoting ERA, on rape and abortion, and on eliminating sexism in the schools.

In addition, the local chapter will be working this year on ensuring that the nation's bicentennial celebration properly reflects the contributions of women to American society.

Women interested in the activities of NOW may contact Terri at 381-2113, or chapter president Mary Brooke at 358-1187.

AT THE NATIONAL level, NOW president Karen DeCrow, has said the organization's main goal this year will be "to combat recession" because "women are being laid off jobs in droves and at such an unfortunate time when we were making such progress with affirmative action programs."

She said NOW will also campaign to get a child care bill through Congress, a "more comprehensive" bill to prevent discrimination against women in credit, and integration of women into sports.

The prospect of growing national unemployment does indeed threaten to throw a wrench into the progress of women on the employment front. Commented Julie Sass, "Men have the seniority and hold the upper management level and more highly skilled positions. Women will be the first to be laid off."

And Dr. Seymour L. Wolfbein of Temple University has expressed similar fears, noting that of the 30 million new jobs added in the last 25 years, about 60 per cent went to women, and a large number of these jobs were in the service sector. If unemployment continues to increase and reaches such sectors as service, trade and education, "the impact on women job-holders will be drastic," Dr. Wolfbein said.

JULIE SASS

Abortion legalized

France's first female minister wins a victory

by ROSETTE HARGROVE

For the first time in the history of the French Republic a woman now sits on the governmental bench in the National Assembly.

She is Madame Simone Veil, appointed by President Giscard d'Estaing as Minister of Health. She is responsible for presenting before Parliament a law legalizing abortion. So important was the issue, so impassioned the debate, that it took three sessions extending over 45 hours before the bill was put to the vote. It was adopted and now has to go before the Senate before it is put into effect.

When General De Gaulle gave the vote to Frenchwomen over 30 years ago, this did not change things much. A small number went into politics seriously, but it is interesting to note that even in 1975 there are only seven women deputies in the National Assembly out of a total of 490.

ALL THE SAME, Frenchwomen have always played an important, although unofficial role in the affairs of the nation.

Madame Simone Veil underwent her baptism of fire at the Assembly with tremendous equanimity and poise. In the past weeks she has made the cover of weeklies ranging from the purely feminine to the sterner political publications.

A petite, green-eyed brunette in her late 40s, she has three grown-up sons and two grandchildren. She is a conservative dresser, but she declares, "I like to look well and feel depressed when I wear what proves to be an unbecoming dress. Also I think I owe it to my entourage to look my best."

Simone Veil's life began tragically. At 17 she was deported, spent seven months in the concentration camp at Ravensbrück, followed by four at Bergen-Belsen. Her father, mother and brother all died in concentration camps.

WITH HER RECENT and sensational political victory that means the end of an archaic abortion law in France, Simone Veil has become something of a heroine in the eyes of her compatriots. By law every woman will now be free to decide whether she desires to end an unwanted pregnancy.

Records show that between 300,000 and 600,000 women have abortions in France each year. This number does not include the small number who can afford to cross the frontier into Switzerland, Holland or to journey to England.

The existing law, dating from 1920, makes abortion a crime. The new one would give women the right to abortion up to the first 10 weeks of pregnancy.

Up to now, it is a well-known fact that some doctors, persons in social services and even ordinary citizens have performed abortions, often with dire results, sometimes even leading to death through infection and other causes.

DURING THE THREE days' debate Simone Veil insisted that contraception should be legalized and sexual education, family planning and all necessary information should officially be made available to women everywhere in France, even in the remotest villages, with contraceptives available free under the national health program.

There has been vehement protest against the legalizing of abortion. The most vocal has of course emanated from the church of Rome, while the Grand Rabbi of France issued a statement pointing out that abortion is a crime under Jewish law.

Advocates of free abortion in France some time back decided that they must force the government's hand by openly flouting the law. In April 1971, 343 women signed a manifesto published in a political weekly in favor of free and legal abortion, declaring that all had had abortions. The list included writers, actresses, movie stars and pioneers of birth control, such as Simone de Beauvoir, Francoise Sagan, Catherine Deneuve and Jeanne Moreau. Last year 300 doctors declared that they practiced abortions. The president of the Medical Council, Professor Lorient-Jacob, described them as a "band of criminals."

THE NEW LAW, however, does not signify that abortion will be made as easy as, say, taking the pill. There will have to be two medical consultations at a week's interval. The doctor will have to draw the woman's attention to the risks and drawbacks. He can refuse to operate if his conscience so dictates.

And after the first 10 weeks of pregnancy the 1920 law (suspended for five years) will still apply. Then only therapeutic abortions will be allowed: when the child may be abnormal or the mother's health endangered. The government has made it quite clear that it continues to regard abortion as a necessary evil and does not in any way propose it to be turned into a method of birth control. It will not be refunded under the national health scheme.

The government does hope the new law will drastically cut down the number of clandestine abortions. But it will not really eradicate them altogether until contraceptive methods have become widespread.

ABORTION IS still illegal in other predominantly Catholic countries like Belgium, Italy, Ireland, Spain and Portugal. In Eastern Europe the situation varies. Countries like the Soviet Union, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary have recently made moves to restrict abortions.

A well-known columnist recently wrote: "It would be childish to believe that Frenchwomen will rush to have an abortion. There are very few who have submitted to one without feeling remorse. The majority will confess that they would have preferred to avoid it when faced with the problem."

A seminar on Palestine

"Myths and Facts on the Palestine Question" will be the subject of a winter seminar under the auspices of Chicago Pioneer Women.

The seminar will be held next Monday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Dolnick Center, 6122 N. California Ave., Chicago. Mrs. Monda Galvin, Program and Education Chairman, describes the day as "Important, stimulating and informative, covering a subject which is both timely and necessary to an understanding of the volatile situation in the Middle East today."

Speakers will be Judith Novick, National Program and Education Chairman of Pioneer Women, who will present "The Historical Background—Pre-State"; Professor Marvin Zonis, political scientist specializing in the Middle East at the University of Chicago, on "Myths and Facts about the Palestine Liberation Organization"; and Ariel Korem, Vice Consul for Cultural Affairs at the Consulate of Israel in Chicago who will cover the "Present Situation in Israel and the Middle East."

Fee for registration and materials is $1.50. Those attending are asked to carry their own lunch. Coffee and dessert will be provided. For further information readers may call Chicago Pioneer Women, 622-3736.

Cheap vacations

by KAY MARSH

Would you like to spend a week out in Arizona, enjoying famous attractions of the "Wild West" plus such recreational facilities as an Astro-turf putting green, and pay only $32 for your room? Or how about a double room in New York City at only $35 per person per week? Or a double room in Boston for $20 per person per week?

These rates will probably be somewhat higher this summer. But these are the prices listed in "Mort's Guide to Low-Cost Vacations & Lodgings on College Campuses," published in 1974.

If you, too, are interested in stretching your travel dollar this year, it may be well worth your while to check your library for, or buy a copy of, this handy guide. Despite some inevitable price increases since publication, it offers you practical help and information on facilities open to vacationers and travelers at various colleges and universities, billed as "America's richest untapped recreational and cultural resources" for people interested in low-cost vacations and travel.

Some of the accommodations listed are open only to adults, or only to alumni and prospective students. Many, however, put out the welcome mat for students, alumni, adults, families and prospective matriculants. Most prohibit pets and many specify that alcoholic beverages are not permitted. Baths are often shared. Some furnish linens and maid service (often at an extra charge). Some are available all year round; many accept reservations only in the summer. While most schools offer rooms, a few have suites and apartments available. One (The Experiment in International Living in Brattleboro, Vt.) offers guest facilities for 10 persons in "Himmel-on-the-Hill, a large Bavarian chalet nestled among hillside maples on 55 acres near the village of Putney."

THE IMPORTANT thing, however, is that this guide lists possibilities in some 40 of the United States, plus a few in Canada. Thus, no matter where you'd like to spend your next vacation, there's probably a college nearby where you can find inexpensive accommodations.

"Mort's Guide" gives you not only information on accommodations, meal prices, activities and available dates, but also thumbnail sketches on the area in general and a name to contact for additional information. However, if you plan to "go to college" for your next vacation, you'd better write for current prices and make your plans (and your reservations) early. As the guide says, these college and university facilities "make possible enriched experience for individuals and families who otherwise might not be able to afford travel and vacations."

While most of the colleges offer only accommodations and limited activities, some few also offer special educational programs geared to vacationing families. The only such program of which I have firsthand knowledge is that offered by Virginia's Ferrum College, which is in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains about 35 miles from Roanoke.

Founded in 1913 as a missionary high school to offer a "Christian school for the youth of the Virginia mountains," Ferrum today is a highly respected educational institution that has received extensive national publicity for its family vacation program. This program, usually offered during July and August, draws increasing numbers of vacationers as interest in rural vacationing continues to grow.

THE ALL-INCLUSIVE rates, at least for the summer of 1974, were only $10.50 a day for adults, $8.50 a day for 12-to 16-year-olds, $6.50 for 12-year-olds, and $3 for those under 3. Weekly rates were even less.

The fees bought comfortable accommodations, good food and such varied recreational activities as swimming, hiking and fishing (either nearby or in Ferrum's stocked fishing lake). Another major attraction was such special educational opportunities as Family Tennis Emphasis Weeks and Drama Emphasis Week, as well as several Weekend Tennis Clinics.

For many tourists, however, the most popular programs were the two special Arts and Crafts Emphasis Weeks. Ferrum is the only Virginia college in the Appalachian Consortium, which promotes cooperative efforts aimed at preserving the culture of the mountainous regions of the southeastern states. The village of Ferrum itself lies in the heart of a rich crafts area where visitors may browse around for everything from handsome quilts to homemade brooms and corn-shuck dolls. Ferrum also sponsors the Blue Ridge Institute, dedicated "to the preservation of mountain values, traditions and crafts." Facilities include arts and crafts studios, as well as an interesting small Museum of Mountain Lore.

Audrey Ratelko

Gail Edwards

Shirley Campo

Cheryl Gorski

The engagement of Audrey Ilene Ratelko to Robert Thomas Kowall, son of the Richard Kowalls of 2415 Grove, Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O. Ratelko of 616 E. St. James, also in Arlington Heights.

An August wedding is planned.

A graduate of Arlington High School, Audrey attends Harper College and works for Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan. Her fiancé, also with Arlington Federal Savings and Loan, graduated from St. Viator High and the University of Illinois.

Gail Edwards of Arlington Heights is engaged to Lloyd Smith, son of the Raymond J. Smiths of 403 W. Olive, Prospect Heights, according to an announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Edwards of 635 N. Drury Ln.

The couple plan to be married in August.

Gail works for United Air Lines in Elk Grove and her fiancé for Schiller Plumbing and Heating, Chicago. She is a '72 graduate of Hershey High School and attended Western Illinois University. Lloyd also attended Western Illinois, after graduating in '72 from St. Viator High.

The engagement of an Elk Grove Village couple, Shirley Campo and Steven Best, is announced by Shirley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Campo of 1335 Cumberland Cir., W. The wedding is planned for Aug. 23.

Both Shirley and her fiancé graduated from Elk Grove High School, she in '73 and he in '72. Steven, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Best of 442 Burgundy, now attends Purdue University.

The bride-to-be works for Set and Style in Elk Grove Village and formerly attended Harper College.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gorski of 460 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, are announcing their daughter Cheryl's engagement to Bruce W. Hofstetter, son of the George J. Hofstetters of Evanston.

A summer wedding is planned.

A Wheeling High School graduate, Cheryl will earn a degree in May from the College of St. Teresa, Winona, Minn. Her fiancé is a graduate of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, and works for C.T.I. Educational Corp., Chicago.

Organize new BPW club in Schaumburg-Hoffman

An organizational meeting for a Business and Professional Women's Club in the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area will begin at 7:30 Thursday evening, Jan. 16, at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 800 E. Higgins Rd., Schaumburg. Invitations have been sent to known prospective members, but all employed women who live or work in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and nearby communities are invited.

When chartered, this club will be part of the Illinois and National Federations of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. It is sponsored jointly by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Elk Grove and the Mount Prospect BPW. Co-chairmen of the project are Mrs. Alicia Robertson of the BPW of Elk Grove, and Marian Heniken of the Mount Prospect BPW.

ALTHOUGH THIS is the first expansion effort of the BPW of Elk Grove, it is the fifth for the Mount Prospect BPW, oldest and largest of the area BPW Clubs. Founded in Mount Prospect in 1960, it now draws much of its membership from Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Rolling Meadows and other communities. It has been responsible for the formation of the Crystal Lake, Elk Grove and Barrington Area BPWs, as well as the Lake-Cook BPW organized last year to serve the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling area.

Inquiries concerning the proposed Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates BPW may be telephoned to Mrs. Robertson, 773-2800, during the day, or to Miss Heniken, 255-2239, evenings.

Area colleges offer courses just for women

Special classes for women will be held next week at Harper College, Palatine, while Oakton Community College, Morton Grove, is offering a spring semester course.

A discussion on the American woman's participation in all areas of life, from the arts to politics, will be held at Harper Monday. "A Woman for All Seasons" will feature a panel of women who lead and instruct courses at Harper. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room A242b. Tuition, including lunch, is $7.50 and can be paid the day of the workshop.

Harper's Career Development course, to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, includes self-appraisal, interest testing, analysis of career and educational possibilities and job finding techniques. Designed for women considering returning to school or entering a career, the course will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Room D-223. Tuition for in-district women is $21; $46.83 for others. Information may be obtained by calling 397-3000, Extension 248.

Oakton's Human Potential Seminar is designed for women interested in growing personally, professionally and academically. The course will be held on the Morton Grove campus and also at the Outreach Center in Des Plaines. Registration is Monday and Tuesday, and those wishing further information may call 967-5120.

Do meat prices bug you? Pot roast to the rescue

Dear Dorothy: With inflationary prices bugging all of us, what to serve for a meat dish is a big problem. Usually a chuck roast has a lot of waste, but the way my husband uses it makes many good economical meals. He buys a 3½-to-4-pound roast and cuts chunks 1 to 1½ inches from the lean, most desirable parts. The leftovers are frozen to be used for vegetable soup on another day.

Shake the chunks in a bag with flour, salt and pepper. Brown in fat in a heavy pot or Dutch oven. Pour off excess fat. Cover meat with two onions, sliced thick. Sprinkle with garlic salt and ¼ tsp. crushed basil or thyme. In a measuring cup, mix one cup water, 1 tbsp. vinegar and 2 tbsp. catsup. Pour over meat and cover tightly.

Cook in a 325-degree oven for 2 hours or until fork-tender. A little wine may be added as it goes into the oven. Serve surrounded by rice or noodles. — Muriel G. Smith

The homeline by Dorothy Ritz

This ought to be a nice change from all the holiday cooking. From the list of ingredients, I know it will be good. I just have to use a little diplomacy — too much chuck and ill Nibs rebels. My job is to disguise it as much as possible. This sounds like it will.

Counseling session

Parents who are concerned about relationships with children or learning more about children's relationship with "parental adults" are invited to attend the Family Education Association counseling session Thursday at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights. The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in Room 38.

Delores Eiler answers . . . "Should a 3 year old dance?"

Dear Parents: Let us look into the benefits of dancing for the three year olds.

1. It develops their powers of concentration.
2. It teaches them to take directions and to cooperate with a group.
3. It develops their powers of mental and physical coordination.
4. It develops the ability to remember.
5. It builds self-confidence and poise.
6. It gives them excellent pre-school training by providing a classroom situation in which the process of learning is taking place.
7. It serves to establish many of the desirable attitudes which the individual must learn sooner or later if he is to be an integral part of the society in which he lives.

The teacher of 3 year olds must be a paragon of patience. She must also have a genuine liking for the cute little rascals, and be well versed in the very specialized methods of teaching these tiny tots

Be assured that your tiny tots' teacher at any one of the Delores Eiler Schools of Dancing will be as described above. Be sure you select the proper school to start your precious little one's exciting journey to learning. A good start is so important.

Sincerely,
Delores Eiler

Invest in gold at Richard Edmunds.

Gold gold. White gold. Black gold. Red gold. Frosty gold. Gold, delicious gold replaces diamonds as a girl's best friend at Richard Edmunds Gazebo.

Just clip along the edges of this special gold certificate and bring it in to his salon at 117 West Main Street in Barrington or 24 South Main Street in Park Ridge and we'll shower you with the gold of your choice.

This could mean frosting or streaking in the sunshine highlights that bring out your sunny personality. It could mean developing a whole new outlook for winter with a whole new head of sunny gold, strawberry gold, sandy gold, or any kind of gold hair.

Because we think a lot of the sunshine ladies, you ought to think about taking advantage of this golden opportunity.

Very simply, we apply a twenty-five percent discount to any hair treatment involving one of the gorgeous golds from Jan. 9 to Feb. 9.

One last thing.

No one knows if you can find gold at the end of a rainbow, but you know now you can find it at Richard Edmunds Gazebo.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: A X Y D L B A A X R is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

MOVE IT!

We don't have to tell you how tough it is to save money these days. But what about the money you've already saved?

If it's earning one penny less than the maximum you can get, move it. Move it to First Federal Savings of Chicago now and start getting the most the law allows. You'll not only get the highest return, you'll get all the security and services that only Chicago's biggest savings and loan can provide.

And the convenience of five full-service branches.

HOW TO ADD TO IT

If you've been thinking you may have to give up saving for the duration of the crunch, that's another good reason for moving over to First Federal. Nowhere can you get more help on how to hold on to a little of that elusive cash.

One big secret is: pay yourself first. Decide what you can save every month—however little—and do it! We can help by sending you a monthly bill for that amount, with a postage-paid envelope: our "Bill-Me" service. You pay it just like any monthly expense and first thing you know, you've got something going. And growing, at Chicago's biggest. Where it's readily available and insured to $40,000.

Every day you wait may be costing you money. So don't wait to move it. Use the coupon now to begin a new savings program, or to transfer your savings to First Federal Savings of Chicago. Or get help at any of our five full-service branches.

Crane backs bid to oust 'objectionable' W. Va. textbooks

by JOE SWICKARD

Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area.

"Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality . . . most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

by JOE FRANZ

The Village of Wheeling is offering free local bus service for the rest of January in an attempt to encourage ridership.

The proposal to suspend fares temporarily was made by Trustee William Hein Monday night and approved by the village board.

"I'm hoping the free rides will get the people acclimated to riding the bus and will result in more people using it on a regular basis," Hein said. "I'm also hoping to get observations from a lot of people on the value of the service and the types of buses we are using."

The village has two buses that operate within its corporate limits. One follows a designated route and schedule, while another shuttles residents from shopping centers, medical centers and other points in the village. School children are the biggest users of the service.

Passenger fares normally are 10 cents for senior citizens and children 8 to 17, and 25 cents for persons older than 17. Children under eight ride free.

The buses operate from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

THE VILLAGE RECENTLY sold its larger, 56-passenger bus and is renting a 19-passenger bus on a one-month trial basis. Officials said if resident response to the smaller bus is favorable, they will purchase it for $13,000 at the end of the month.

Village Mgr. George Passolt suggested the village sell the larger bus, saying it was too costly to operate and seldom was filled. He also said it was difficult to obtain parts for the large bus.

Village bus service lost $28,400 in 1973 and officials expect 1974 figures to show an even larger deficit. Passolt said a fare increase is not contemplated even though fare revenue does not begin to meet operating expenses.

The manager said the village is committed to providing bus service and plans to continue service despite the losses.

LAST YEAR THE village received an $18,329 grant from the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to help alleviate the deficit. Passolt said the village is looking into and may apply for additional state and federal subsidies in the future.

About three weeks ago, the village board approved almost $5,000 to join the North Suburban Mass Transit District. The money will help finance bus service between Wheeling and downtown Chicago.

A portion of the funds also will be used to conduct a study to determine the future transportation needs of the village. M. O. Horcher, village administrative assistant, said the village is looking at ways of improving and expanding service.

The village is studying the feasibility of starting a commuter bus service to and from area railroad stations. Officials have said they would like to see the service started this year.

In addition, Horcher said, the village may one day start a shuttle service for residents who live and work in the village, as well as one to take senior citizens to and from area hospitals.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nesjar, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

9 residents considered for board jobs

Nine residents are under consideration by Wheeling officials for two vacancies on village commissions.

Trustee Albert Lang, chairman of the judiciary and purchasing committee, which interviews and recommends candidates, said the appointments, one to the zoning board and the other to the municipal relations commission, will be made in the near future.

The committee interviewed the final candidates Monday night and Lang said no more applications will be accepted.

Walsh, 290 N. Sixth St.; William E. Fogel, 1604 Chippewa Tr., and Norman Chafetz, 1710 Ottawa Ct.

The position on the zoning board was vacated by Ronnie Potter in October and the spot on the municipal relations commission became available last month with resignation of G. Bruce Couston. Both resigned because of job commitments.

Schools panel 'refines' jobs for buildings

A citizens' committee studying possible building additions at the eight schools in High School Dist. 214, will meet tonight to begin "refining" a list of needs compiled after two months of building inspections.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

"Now is when the work really begins," said Sig Haaland, temporary committee chairman. "Besides refining the list we have to come up with a game plan for moving ahead with the project."

HAALAND SAID the committee will also be faced in the months ahead with getting estimates of cost for the building improvements and finding a way to finance the improvements.

The district board of education has asked for a completed committee report by April 1. The committee is expected to present a status report at the board's meeting Monday night.

For the past two months, the 40-member committee has been attending special "presentations" at each district school. The presentations, conducted by the building principals, outline current problems in the buildings and familiarize committee members with the needs of each building.

HAALAND SAID attendance has been excellent for most of the sessions, with 25 to 30 committee members present. Haaland added that the tours have proved valuable in providing committee members with a better insight into building deficiencies.

"You don't appreciate the condition in the schools until you walk through them," Haaland said. "The principals have done an excellent job of presenting their needs and the visits have been a real eye opener."

The committee, made up of five representatives for each of the district's eight schools, also will elect a permanent chairman at tonight's meeting, Haaland said.

The committee started with a list of suggested improvements from the district administration ranging from additions of swimming pools or fieldhouses at some schools to adding entire academic wings and improving existing space and equipment.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&NW's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&NW petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Work continues to complete the retention pond on the Arlington Country Club Golf Course before spring rains cause flooding in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

Village board wrapup

Partial payment on Jeffery Ave. bridge work OK'd

The Wheeling Village Board approved Monday night a partial payment of about $7,000 to the Di Paolo Co. for work on the Jeffery Avenue bridge project.

The project is expected to relieve flooding in the Meadowbrook West area and will cost about $142,000. Work on the project started last fall and is expected to be finished next spring.

The project will consist of widening the Wheeling Drainage Ditch, planting sod along the banks and installing a new bridge at Jeffery Avenue. Workers already have removed some of the trees along the drainage ditch in preparation for the other work.

Residents and village officials reached agreement on the proposed improvements last September. Before that, residents said they feared the work would result in the loss of their property and an excessive number of trees, cause erosion and aggravate rather than help flooding.

Salt spreader purchase OK'd

The village board has waived competitive bids and agreed to purchase a salt spreader at a cost of $1,075. The device will be used for snow and ice control on village streets.

M. O. Horcher, village administrative assistant, recommended bids be waived, saying the old salt spreader is badly corroded and no longer usable. He said the village should purchase another as soon as possible in case the area is hit with a heavy snowfall.

The salt spreader to be purchased is made by the Central Engineering Co. and village officials say it is the only manufacturer that makes a piece of equipment that will fit village vehicles.

Fire station payment set

A final payment of about $1,800 has been approved by the village board for the recent addition to the fire station on Dundee Road.

The payment will be made to the J. S. Drew Construction Co. the total cost of the addition was $14,750 and was done last summer.

The board also approved a final payment of about $5,400 to the Fowler Tree Service for tree spraying throughout the village last summer. The total cost of the work was about $18,000.

Firm paid for street work

The board approved a final payment of about $1,200 to Cutler Repaving Inc. for street repairs made last fall.

The total project cost about $25,000 and consisted of resurfacing parts of St. Armand Lane, Valley Stream Drive, Anthony Road and Cedar Drive. The work was paid for with motor fuel taxes.

Bicentennial meet Thursday

The Wheeling Bicentennial Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the committee room of the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

The meeting is open to the public. Community organizations may send a delegate.

DET. LEONARD YOUNG leads attempted rape and battery suspect J. C. Cooley into the Mount Prospect police station Tuesday. Cooley, extradited from Tampa, Fla., is accused of attacking a village woman Nov. 2.

Rape victims name suspect as attacker

A rape suspect extradited Tuesday from Florida was identified by three recent victims of sexual assaults as their attacker, police said.

Mount Prospect police said a 22-year-old woman identified the suspect, J. C. Cooley, 24, as her attacker in a Nov. 2 incident at her Cottonwood Lane apartment. Cooley has been charged with attempted rape and aggravated battery in the attack on the Mount Prospect woman.

Buffalo Grove police said two 13-year-old girls, both victims of rape attempts, also made positive identifications of Cooley during lineups at the Mount Prospect police station. Complaints are being prepared against Cooley by Buffalo Grove police.

Cooley, who is being held by Mount Prospect police on $20,000 bond, was returned from Tampa, Fla., Tuesday by Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Det. Leonard Young. Cooley and a companion, Harry Cooper Jr., were arrested by police in Tampa on warrants issued against the men for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Cooley will appear today in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court for a bond hearing. While in this area, Cooley lived at the Lehman Trailer Court, 500 W. Touhy Ave., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, police said.

Opinion sought on sodium-vapor lights

by JOHN MAES

Buffalo Grove officials will seek an expert opinion before considering proposals to install sodium-vapor streetlights in the village.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong Tuesday said officials will invite a sodium-vapor authority to a workshop session of the village board later this month or next to discuss the "pros and cons of the issue."

"This warrants a closer look," Armstrong said. "It seems to be a controversial issue and there are some beliefs that may be unfounded — that's why we need to call in someone to lay it on the line."

A PROPOSAL to replace all 265 of the village's streetlights with the new sodium-vapor variety will probably come before the village board later this month as part of a long-term capital improvements program.

The board will be asked to appropriate $30,000 during an eight-year period to replace the mercury-vapor lamps that currently light village streets, Public Works Director Charles McCoy said.

Sodium-vapor lights are brighter than the conventional type and give off a yellow-orange tint. Chicago and several surrounding suburbs are adopting the system.

McCoy said that although the new lamps cost more at the outset, they would be cheaper and easier to maintain. He also said the system is a "better type of lighting" and saves on energy consumption.

Village officials have decided to consult an authority, however, in view of arguments that sodium-vapor lamps are unattractive and produce too much light.

Armstrong said village officials would like to discuss the matter with someone "who does not have an ax to grind and can discuss it objectively from both sides."

The public works department has been experimenting with the sodium lamp at four intersections since last April. They are installed at Bernard Drive and Weidner Road; Checker Drive and Ill. Rte. 83; Checker Drive and Essington Lane, and Plum Grove Circle and Arlington Heights Road.

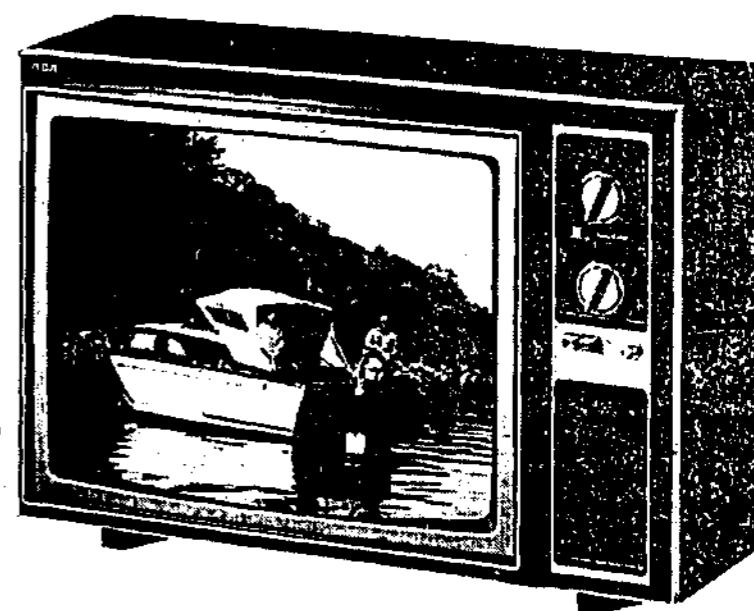

McCoy said he has had four comments about the lights from residents, saying they "like them" while only one has expressed displeasure.

McCoy said he plans installation of more lights along Checker between Farrington Drive and Essington Lane so residents can "drive through a system of lights to see what it's like."

The additional lights will be installed as soon as they are available but McCoy was unable to give an exact date. The lights are being donated to the village on a trial basis by Quality Outdoor Lighting, Northbrook, McCoy said.

Crane backs bid to oust 'objectionable' W. Va. textbooks

by JOE SWICKARD
Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area. "Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The state was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Boundary changes hit by parents

by LINDA PUNCH
More than 120 parents turned out Tuesday night to protest proposed boundary changes affecting 400 students in East Main Dist. 63 schools west of Milwaukee Avenue.

Parents objected to the proposed boundaries because they said some youngsters would be forced to walk along busy thoroughfares to attend a new school. Parents also said they did not want to have children living in the same neighborhood split between two schools.

The boundary changes would affect Nathanson School, Potter and Church streets; Stevenson School, 9000 Capitol Dr.; Mark Twain School, 9401 Hamlin Ave.; all in Des Plaines; and Ballard School, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles.

The proposal, developed by the board at a Dec. 17 meeting, is designed to alleviate crowded conditions at Nathanson, where 670 youngsters attend classes at a school designed for 500.

THE BOARD'S new plan calls for administrative offices at Ballard to be converted into classroom space. School boundary lines would be shifted to distribute students more evenly among the four buildings. A new administrative center is proposed on a district-owned site at Des Road north of Golf Road.

Several residents also objected to building a new administrative center. They suggested that construction funds be used either for an addition to Nathanson School or a new school north of Golf Road.

One man asked the board to postpone any boundary changes because plans approved now would only "be stopgap measures." He noted that several high-rise apartment and condominium units are being constructed and the board might have to make additional changes if more children come into the district.

One father said the district has the space and the funds to build an addition at Nathanson.

"I feel my child will get an adequate education at any of the schools. My concern is her safety," he said. "We have room to build an addition where it is needed. There is no need to create unsafe boundaries."

SUPT. G. ALLEN Gogo said the board has considered building an addition but that the space for the 12 additional classrooms needed would "consume the existing site." He also noted that the multipurpose room and library were designed for a student population of 500.

He also said Nathanson is on the western border of the district, which is not a good site for a large school, he said.

Several residents asked whether the board plans to consider parent opinion before making any final decisions. Board member Jerry Abern noted that the board had two previous public hearings on the subject, which were attended by only 62 people.

"I still have an open mind. Otherwise I wouldn't be here," he said.

Board Pres. Arlene Nidetz said no final decision will be made on the boundary proposals before the Jan. 21 meeting of the board.

S-curve 'going straight' before long

Plans are proceeding on schedule to straighten-out the S-curve on Northwest Highway in Des Plaines and a public hearing on the project is set for Jan. 30 in the Des Plaines city hall.

Mayor Herbert Behrel said Tuesday the city still is in negotiations with owners of property south of the curve to purchase the land so the project can proceed.

Behrel said the land, less than one acre of the former Kerr Chemical Co.

property, must be acquired for a right-of-way in order for the state to do the work.

Behrel said he could not discuss details of the land purchase because negotiations still were going on. However, he said the land would be bought with motor fuel tax funds and the transaction will have to be approved by the Illinois Highway Dept. before any work can begin.

THE STATE has outlined preliminary plans which call for construction of an underpass at the Soo Line R.R. and Chicago and North Western Ry. outerbelt tracks to eliminate the sharp S-curve which has been a traditionally hazardous stretch of the highway.

The state has told the city it will budget up to $2.5 million for the project if the city negotiates the right-of-way purchase. Work on the project will not get under way until 1978, state officials have told Behrel.

Behrel said the state also has said if the project costs more than $2.5 million, the city may have to add funds for the work. Behrel said no cost estimate on the project has been made because no specific engineering plans have been outlined yet.

Behrel said the public hearing is necessary because the state will be using federal funds to finance part of the cost of the project. The hearing set for 7:30 p.m. Jan. 30 at City Hall, 1410 Miner St.

Oakton College plans open registration

Open registration for spring semester courses at Oakton Community College will be Jan. 13 - 14 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 6 to 8 p.m. at the college's interim campus in Morton Grove.

Senior citizens will have a special registration area on both days, open from 9 to 11 a.m. in Room 331, Building 4. Special courses will be offered for senior citizens through the college's "Gray Matters" program and for women through the "especially for Women" program.

College credit courses will be offered at off-campus locations in Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove and Skokie. Tuition for residents is $10 per semester hour, or $4 per semester hour for senior citizens.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Dist. 59 wrapup

Search begins Thursday for superintendent

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Thursday night will begin the process of selecting a permanent superintendent for the district.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley said the board will meet with Steve Doty, a representative from the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. Smiley said the board committee and Doty will discuss approaches used by other school boards in selecting superintendents and what sources are available to aid the board in the search.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the district administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Computer co-op studied

The board Monday authorized the administration to draw up a contract for cooperative computerized data processing with Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

By a 5-to-1 vote, the board authorized up to a three-year contract for use of computer equipment. Dist. 15 intends to purchase.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the computer service would cost the same the district now pays for noncomputerized data processing.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley voted against the proposal, citing past problems the district has had in computerized data processing. A board decision on joining the co-op should come at the Jan. 20 board meeting.

'Agrarian America' series set at Oakton

"The Fishbowl," a series of weekly discussions on topics related to Agrarian America will be offered Wednesday beginning Jan. 29 at Oakton Community College.

The discussions will be led by faculty members with a variety of backgrounds and will be open to the public free of charge. They will be held on Wednesdays from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at various locations around the college district. Exact locations will be announced later.

College credit through independent study is available for participants in the discussions.

Topics for the first month of programs are: Jan. 29, "The American Adam and Eve in the New Eden: Idealism and Utopianism in Life and Literature"; Feb. 5, "Go West Young Man: The Influence of the Frontier on the American Character"; Feb. 12, "By the Shores of Glitchee Gumbo: Indian Culture in America"; and Feb. 19, "Music from the Native Ground: Reflections of Agrarian America."

New York City topic for travel lecture

"New York City — Broadway USA" will be the topic of January meeting of the travel adventure series sponsored by the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program (MONACEP) scheduled Jan. 23 at Maine West High School in Des Plaines.

Film lecturer Doug Jones will present the film, which includes Manhattan landmarks and ethnic neighborhoods. Admission to the travel lecture is $1.50 or 75 cents for senior citizens.

Sewer-rate hike hearings expected at month's end

Hearings on the proposed Citizens Utilities Co. sewer rate increase are expected to be set for the last week in January.

Robert Wierski, examiner with the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC), said a tentative date has been set but must be approved by the Springfield office. He said a definite date may be set by the end of this week.

Citizens Utilities has requested a 36.5 per cent increase in sewer rates, hiking the monthly charge from $6 to $8.18. The firm said the increase is needed to make its sewer service profitable.

Some 2,350 households in northeast Mount Prospect are served by Citizens Utilities, which also provides water and sewer service for residents of Waycinden Park, an unincorporated subdivision sur-

'Human potential' seminar for seniors

A special section of Oakton Community College's human potential seminar will be offered for senior citizens during the spring semester.

The seminar will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Oakton campus in Morton Grove. It will focus on helping senior citizens adjust to the college environment.

Registration for the seminar and other courses for senior citizens offered through the college's "Gray Matters" program will be Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 13-14. A special one-stop registration for seniors will be offered from 9 to 11 a.m. both days. Classes begin Jan. 20.

City council wrapup

Signs to warn of bumpy crossings

Rough railroad crossings in Des Plaines may be marked to warn motorists to expect a few jolts.

The city council this week agreed to post signs warning drivers of rough crossings and, at the suggestion of Ald. Ewald Swanson, 6th, decided to study the legality of placing the name of the railroad that maintains the crossing on the sign. "This might be a way of getting the crossings repaired," Swanson said.

The council also requested the streets and traffic committee investigate the possibility of developing standards for maintaining grade crossings.

"The railroad would have to maintain the standards and if it didn't we would inform it to fix the crossings in so many days and if it did not fix the crossings then the city would do it and send the railroad the bill," said Ald. Richard Ward, 8th, chairman of the committee.

Ward added that another problem involved might be who would determine when a grade crossing becomes rough.

City hall fate delayed

A decision on the fate of the old Des Plaines City Hall building has been delayed again by city officials.

The city has been trying to determine whether to retain the building after the new municipal complex is completed later this year.

Several city officials have proposed giving the building to the Des Plaines Historical Society or converting it to a community center for various service organizations.

Ald. Spencer Chase, 3rd, said the historical society has received a $3,000 grant to determine how the facility might best be used by the group. Richard Welch, historical society coordinator said the funds will be used to hire a consultant to determine how the building should be utilized.

A decision on the city hall building is tied to parking plans for the new city hall. Some officials have suggested the building be demolished and the city build a grade level lot. Others have called for a multiple-deck garage which could cost as much as $700,000.

Meetings on tap

Five city council committees have scheduled meetings in the next two weeks.

The finance and insurance committee will meet at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the mayor's conference room, 1524 Miner St., to discuss insurance programs.

The building, grounds and parking lots committee will continue discussion about parking for the new municipal building at a meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday. The committee also will review the parking deck on Ellinwood Street that would serve the proposed Superblock office and retail complex and several changes in the new city hall building.

The police committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday to discuss a proposal to begin a police cadet program.

The city's 1975 tree trimming contract will be reviewed by the forestry and beautification committee at 8 p.m. Monday.

The license and inspection committee will meet at 7 p.m. Jan. 20 to consider several liquor license applications and a possible change in the liquor license policy.

3 charged in gas station robberies

Three persons were arrested by Des Plaines police and charged with armed robbery Monday in two separate incidents at local gas stations.

Philip Avigliano, 17, of 6626 Northwest Hwy., Chicago, and Gregory Duff, 18, of 466 N. Fifth Ave., were charged with the Jan. 2 armed robbery of the C & D Texaco station, 710 N. Wolf Rd. Avigliano and Larry Peters, 22, of 1500 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect, were charged with the Aug. 19 robbery of Ye Olde Town Pump, 379 S. River Rd.

Police said $100 was taken from C & D Texaco and $213 was taken from Ye Olde Town Pump.

Police said a snub-nose revolver, possibly a starter's pistol, was used in the Texaco robbery. Police added Duff apparently drove a getaway car in the Texaco incident.

Bond for Duff was set at $2,500, Avigliano's bond is $10,000 and bond for Peters is $25,000.

The three are scheduled to appear Jan. 30 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

Would have ended 'doglegs' in 4 districts

City council drops plans to change ward boundaries

The Des Plaines City Council has scuttled plans to alter ward boundaries in half of the city's eight wards.

The move, which would have eliminated several "doglegs" in four wards, was criticized by some aldermen because of the short period of time between the action and the spring aldermanic elections.

Ald. Charles Bolek, 3rd, asked several weeks ago that City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach revise the boundaries in the 2nd, 3rd, 5th and 6th wards to eliminate several irregular boundaries.

SEVERAL ALDERMEN, including those whose wards would be changed, questioned the move. They said that if any wards were changed all eight should be redistricted.

A proposed ordinance outlining the boundary changes came before the council Monday, but Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said the changes could be dropped at the council's next meeting.

Bolek said he had asked for the changes because a number of residents who had been put into different wards in a 1972 redistricting still don't know which ward they are in and where they should vote.

Behrel said he believes the move was coming too late and might cause problems with the upcoming election.

IT WAS NOTED that some nominating petitions could be affected if the ward boundaries were altered at this time. Candidates for the spring election began filling their petitions Monday.

Under the proposed changes, 601 voters would have shifted into new wards. While the changes would have complied with the one-man, one-vote guideline established by the U.S. Supreme Court for electoral districts, there would have been a wide disparity between the number of registered voters in various wards.

The changes would have left the 2nd Ward with 3,646, the 3rd Ward with 4,091, the 5th Ward with 3,042 and the 6th Ward with 4,859 registered voters.

Scouting news

Three Des Plaines residents have received Silver Beaver awards, the highest tribute presented by the Boy Scouts of America.

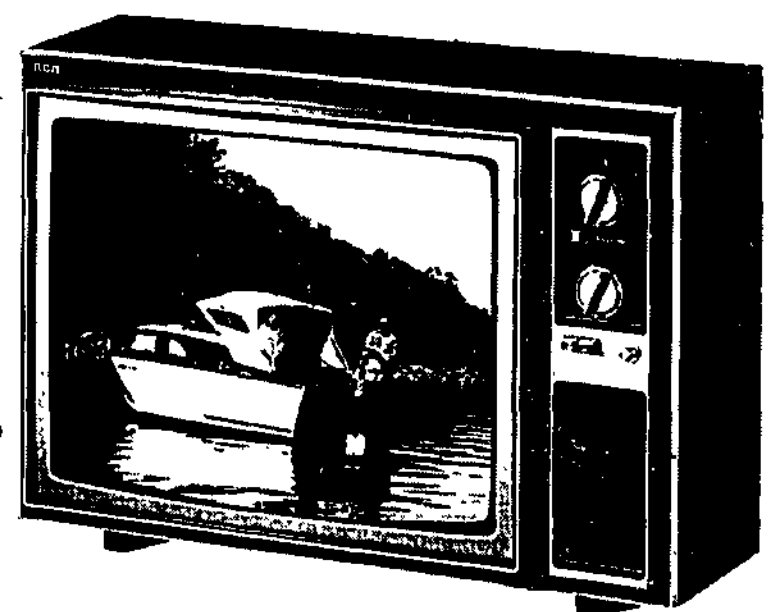

The three are Jack H. Albers, 1838 Pine St.; Anita C. Johnson, 550 Arlington St.; and Leonard N. Lauritzen, 1655 River St.

Each received a certificate and a miniature Silver Beaver suspended from a white-and-blue ribbon at the Northwest Suburban Council BSA appreciation dinner. The council nominated the Scout leaders, who were awarded the honor from the national awards committee.

Albers, a Scoutmaster, has been a Webelos leader, a Cubmaster and explorer advisor. He has been active in a variety of community activities and was named "Man of the Year" by his church. The Algonquin district has named him "Scouter of the Year."

Mrs. Johnson serves in leadership development within the Algonquin district. She has been an assistant den leader, den leader and den leader coach, and has received the district award of merit. In addition, she has served the community through the Red Cross, the United Fund, the Parent-Teacher League and her church.

Lauritzen is assistant scoutmaster for the Algonquin district. He became a scoutmaster in 1938. In 36 years he has earned the vigil honor, the order of the arrow and the district award of merit. He has been active in his church, serving as choir member, Sunday school secretary and usher.

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality... most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

Trustees 'favorable' toward health center

Elk Grove Village trustees reacted favorably Tuesday night to a request from Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center officials for a two-acre land donation.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek asked the center's board of directors to designate a site more specifically than was done at the meeting. The mental health center board of directors wants to build a permanent facility on a site accessible to both townships' residents and near Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

Paul Rettberg, president of the center's board of directors, said the group would like to build a $600,000 permanent center. He noted the construction figure includes a 10 per cent inflation hedge.

Funds for construction of the center, Rettberg said, will be sought from communities in both townships and the townships themselves. Rettberg said the present facility, The Farmhouse, in front of Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, can no longer handle the greatly expanding patient caseload.

The center is accepting approximately 80 new patients a month and not terminating as many each month. Elk Grove Village residents account for about one-third of the total 1974 caseload.

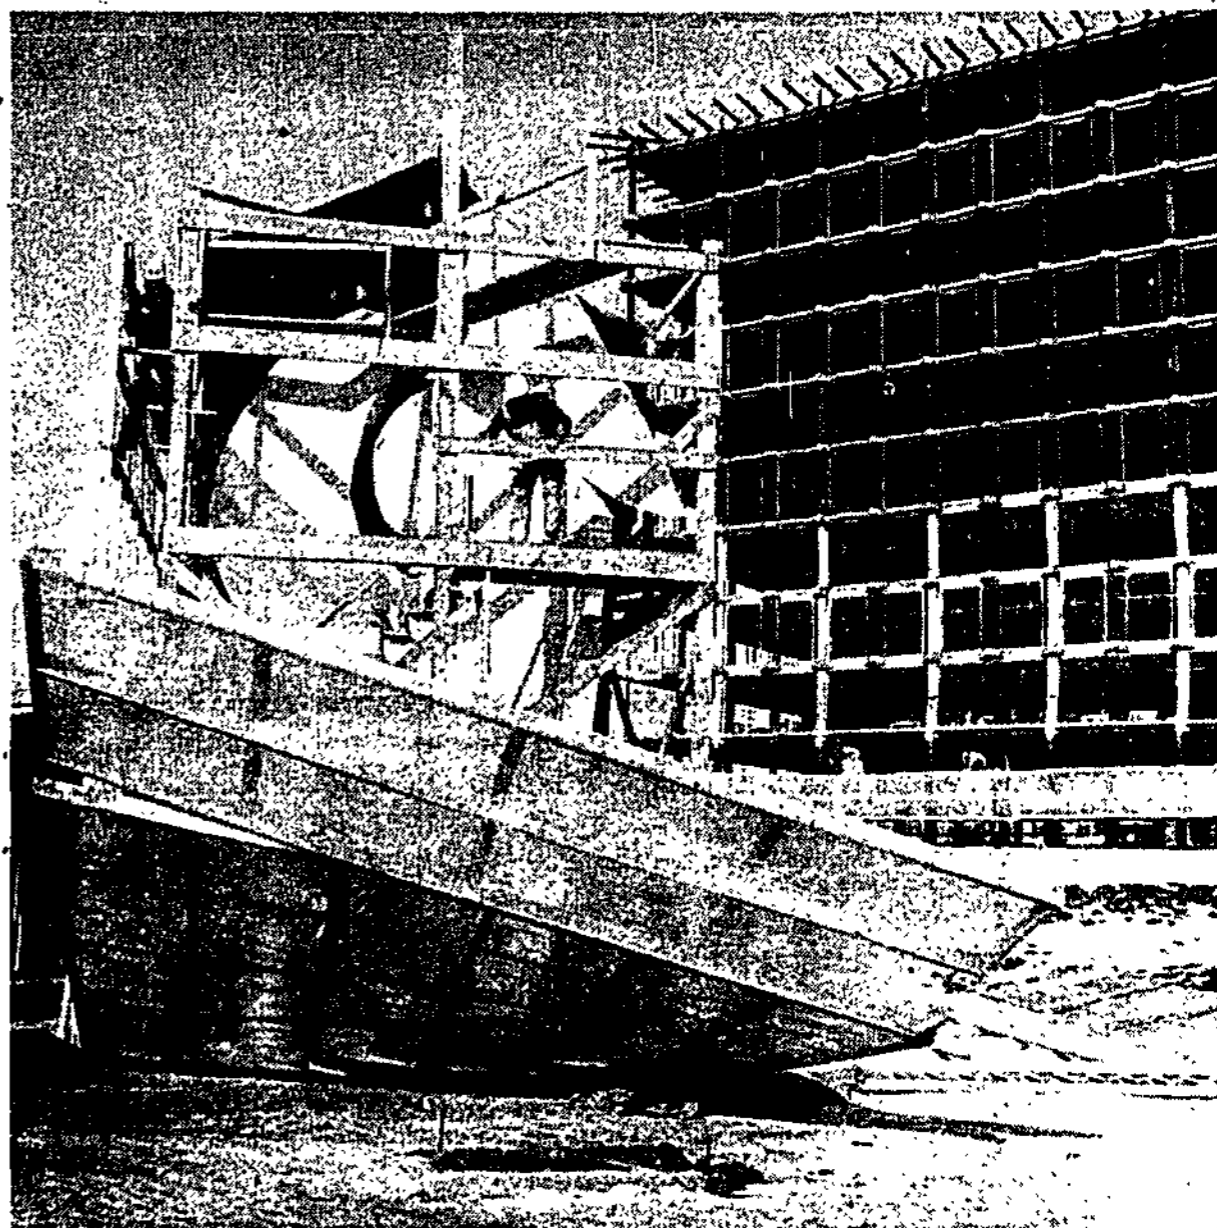

Rettberg said "the group came to Elk Grove Village for a land donation because of the village's past record of leadership receptiveness to comprehensive mental health services in the area."

"The mental health center itself was an offshoot of the village's community health services board," he said, "and began with encouragement and financing from Elk Grove Village."

"We would like to build a permanent facility in Elk Grove Village west of Ill. Rte. 53, not only because of this past encouragement, but also because it is the geographic center of the two-township area we serve."

The proposed facility was designed by Walter Haas and Associates, Elk Grove Village.

The building is planned around gardens and balconies that also could be used as counseling areas. The 9,000-square-foot facility is designed around office area, reception rooms and 18 therapy rooms in addition to a large lower level meeting room.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nes-jer, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

2 teens charged after shots fired at 2 other youths

Two teen-agers were arrested by Des Plaines police Tuesday after they allegedly chased two other youths in a car and shot at them after an incident at the McDonald's Restaurant, 781 Golf Rd.

Police said the youths, Michael Geary, 17, of 398 King Ln., Des Plaines, and Randy Wasielewski, 17, of 900 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect, exchanged words with two 16-year-olds in the restaurant and when the 16-year-olds left, Geary and Wasielewski followed them in their car.

Geary and Wasielewski caught up with the 16-year-olds at Golf and Mount Prospect roads when Wasielewski fired a shot at the driver's door, police said.

The 16-year-olds sped off with Geary and Wasielewski in pursuit, police said, and a second shot was fired at the passenger side door of the 16-year-olds' car at Marshall Drive and Dempster Street, police said.

THE VICTIMS went to a gas station at Dempster and Elmhurst Road to call Mount Prospect police, who then called Des Plaines police.

Des Plaines Patrolmen Larry Gniot and Michael Krueger arrested Geary at his home and found Wasielewski at the McDonald's Restaurant.

Gniot said Wasielewski tried to hide in the washroom but finally surrendered. Eight .22-cal. cartridges were found in a wastebasket in the washroom and the gun used in the incident was found in shrubs in a park near the Mount Prospect home of one of Wasielewski's friends, Gniot said.

GNIOT SAID the gun was stolen Dec. 31 from a home at 806 School St., Mount Prospect, and Mount Prospect police are investigating whether the weapon was used in any recent burglaries.

Geary was charged with armed violence and assault with a deadly weapon. He was released on $10,000 bond Tuesday. Wasielewski was charged with armed violence, assault with a deadly weapon and possession of a stolen pistol. Wasielewski still was being held late Tuesday on $12,500 bond.

Both are to appear Feb. 20 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

Commuters get first peek at Picasso's concrete sculpture 'Bather'

Plastic shields were removed from two sides of the 28-foot figure Tuesday, revealing Picasso's version of a nude woman bathing in a reflecting pool. The pool will be constructed this spring. The remaining shields will be removed after work on the sculpture is completed in two to three weeks. The shields will serve as temporary windbreaks, while Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar draws details on the face of the sculpture and then etches them with a sandblasting hose.

Nesjar began lining details on the statue Tuesday afternoon, and expects to start sandblasting in 7 to 10 days, Gould spokesmen said. The sandblasting should require about a week's time, they said.

No formal dedication ceremonies are planned for the immediate future. A preliminary dedication may be held in the spring, when the pool and landscaping around "The Bather" will be fully installed, officials said. But full ceremonies probably will not take place until about September, when Gould expects to occupy part of the 11-story office structure now under construction, and can dedicate the entire center.

Gould plans to lease part of the office facility, and officials said the firm is in-involved in "considerable discussions with potential tenants." Engineering plans for the sports complex are under way, although Gould is not yet prepared to begin letting contracts for that work, officials said. The complex is to contain tennis, handball, squash and racquetball courts, a swimming pool, exercise and sauna areas.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required. In addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax, the RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Rty. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases deloyed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N's petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Committee ends 2 months of study

Group to 'refine' school needs

A citizens' committee studying possible building additions at the eight schools in High School Dist. 214, will meet tonight to begin "refining" a list of needs compiled after two months of building inspections.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration center, 709 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

"Now is when the work really begins," said Sig Haaland, temporary committee chairman. "Besides refining the list we have to come up with a game plan for moving ahead with the project."

HAALAND SAID the committee will also be faced in the months ahead with getting estimates of cost for the building improvements and finding a way to finance the improvements.

The district board of education has asked for a completed committee report by April 1. The committee is expected to present a status report at the board's meeting Monday night.

For the past two months, the 40-member committee has been attending special "presentations" at each district school. The presentations, conducted by the building principals, outline current problems in the buildings and familiarize committee members with the needs of each building.

HAALAND SAID attendance has been excellent for most of the sessions, with 25 to 30 committee members present. Haaland added that the tours have proved valuable in providing committee members with a better insight into building deficiencies.

"You don't appreciate the condition in the schools until you walk through them," Haaland said. "The principals have done an excellent job of presenting their needs and the visits have been a real eye opener."

The committee, made up of five representatives for each of the district's eight schools, also will elect a permanent chairman at tonight's meeting, Haaland said.

The committee started with a list of suggested improvements from the district administration ranging from additions of swimming pools or fieldhouses at some schools to adding entire academic wings and improving existing space and equipment.

Workshop for diabetics

The next workshop for diabetics and family members sponsored by Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village will be Jan. 27-30 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The series of four meetings are held on Monday through Thursday evenings in the ground floor meeting room of the hospital.

Sponsored cooperatively by the departments of dietary, pharmacy, nursing in-service and education, the program is designed to help the diabetic gain a better understanding of diabetes mellitus and to help the diabetic live a normal life. Included is information on the medical aspects of diabetes, medications, diabetic emergencies, the diabetic exchange system, food preparation, eating away from home and general health care.

A charge of $7.50 covers the cost of materials used during the course, but a family member is urged to attend with the diabetic at no extra cost.

Registration is limited to ten diabetics. Reservations are required and may be made by calling 437-5000, ext. 482. Deadline for registration is Monday.

Art Institute tour slated

A trip to the Art Institute of Chicago and a performance of the Joffrey Ballet will be sponsored by the Elk Grove Arts Guild in February.

The guided tour of the Art Institute is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 6. Cost of the tour is $3, which includes bus transportation. The bus will leave the front of Elk Grove High School at 9:30 a.m. and will return at approximately 3:30 p.m. There is a limit of 50 participants.

The Joffrey Ballet performance will be attended Wednesday, Feb. 12, at the Auditorium Theatre. Balcony tickets and transportation will cost $3.50. The group is limited to 50 people.

Reservations may be made for either trip by sending a check, payable to Elk Grove High School, to Mary Clark, administrative librarian, 101 Kennedy Blvd., Elk Grove Village, or Richard Calisch, humanities division head, 500 W. Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

For further information residents are asked to contact Calisch, 439-4800, ext. 71.

Dist. 59 wrapup

Search begins Thursday for superintendent

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Thursday night will begin the process of selecting a permanent superintendent for the district.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley said the board will meet with Steve Doty, a representative from the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. Smiley said the board committee and Doty will discuss approaches used by other school boards in selecting superintendents and what sources are available to aid the board in the search.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the district administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Computer co-op studied

The board Monday authorized the administration to draw up a contract for cooperative computerized data processing with Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

By a 5-to-1 vote, the board authorized up to a three-year contract for use of computer equipment Dist. 15 intends to purchase.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the computer service would cost the same the district now pays for noncomputerized data processing.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley voted against the proposal, citing past problems the district has had in computerized data processing. A board decision on joining the co-op should come at the Jan. 20 board meeting.

Township wrapup

Arlington Manor flood woes studied

Elk Grove Township officials are looking into flooding problems in the unincorporated Arlington Manor subdivision.

The subdivision, south of Central Road and east of Arlington Heights Road, is in a flood plain. New construction in the surrounding area has compounded drainage problems, often causing standing water on the residents' lawns.

The township will hire a firm to rod a 16-inch farm drain tile system in the area to determine if it is being used to its capacity. Depending on the results of the rodding, the township may relocate some drain tile and install catch basins to correct flooding.

Youth panel head sought

Interviews will be conducted Saturday for persons interested in heading a township committee on youth that is being revived after several years of inactivity.

The township youth committee will serve as a citizens' advisory group to the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors. Its job will be to offer recommendations for programs to meet the needs of area teenagers.

Local residents who want to chair the committee or serve as members should contact Paprocki or Elk Grove Township Supervisor Richard Hall at 437-4300.

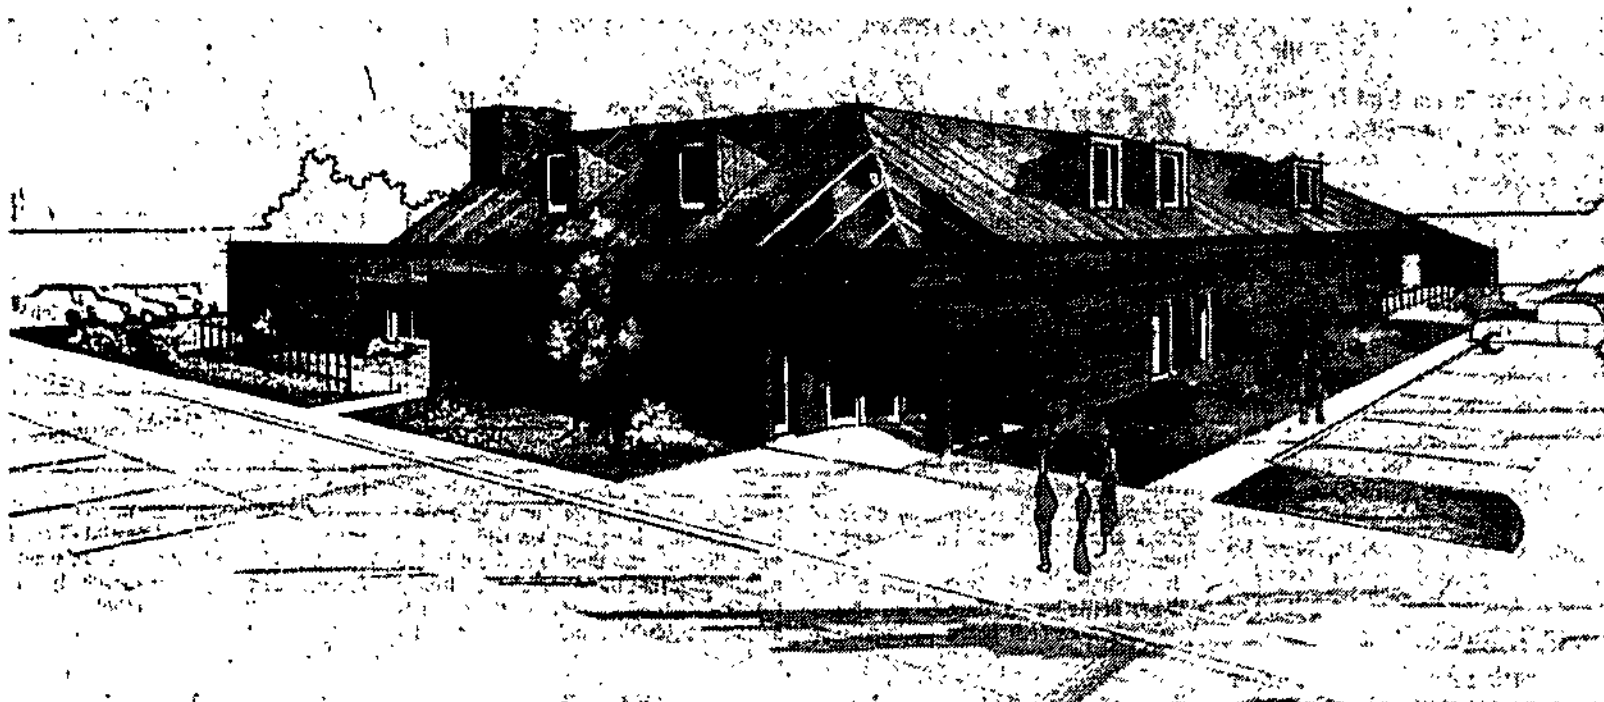

Seniors' driving course

Representatives of area senior citizens' clubs are needed to participate in a program to provide driver refresher courses for elderly township residents.

If there is sufficient interest in the refresher courses to prepare senior citizens to meet state requirements for periodic relicensing, the township will arrange for a representative of the Secretary of State's office to train a small group of members of each club.

The members, in turn, would share what they learn in the refresher course with others in their clubs.

Interested senior citizens should contact Nita Stamm at the township hall as soon as possible. The telephone number is 437-4300.

Swimming classes still have openings

Several openings remain in instructional swim classes for children and adults being offered this winter by the Elk Grove Park District.

Classes for children are scheduled to begin Saturday. Sessions for beginning, intermediate and advanced students are available at $5 per child.

Classes for adults who want to learn to swim will begin Monday and will continue each Monday through March 3. The fee for adults also is $5 each.

Persons interested in swim classes may register at the park district administration office, 499 Blesterfield Rd., between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. and noon Saturday.

Pool, gym to open Saturday afternoon

Elk Grove Park District's indoor Disney pool and gym will be open Saturday afternoons beginning Jan. 18 for general recreation in an experimental eight-week program to increase use of the facilities.

Bill Hlavin, recreation aquatics specialist, said the winter months are generally a "slow time" at the pool and the new Saturday hours are being added to encourage residents to come in and swim, exercise and use the sauna.

The pool and gym will be open Saturdays through March 1 between 2 and 5 p.m. There will be no charge for residents who have pool passes. Those without passes may pay the daily fees of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults.

Crane backs bid to oust 'objectionable' W. Va. textbooks

Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality . . . most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

10 additional firemen OKd for Westbury

Ten firefighters will be hired by Hoffman Estates to staff the village's fourth fire station under construction in the Westbury subdivision.

Schaumburg may ease limits on garage sales

Schaumburg's garage sale restrictions could ease slightly this year if village officials concur in recommendations to be made Tuesday by the esthetics commission.

Proposed changes in the year-old ordinance would permit garage or "occasional" sales any two consecutive days, Thursday through Sunday, on first or third weekends of the month, Shirley LeBeau, esthetics chairman, said.

At present, garage sales are restricted to Saturday and Sunday of those two weekends.

Outlining revisions for village legal committee members this week, Mrs. LeBeau explained that sale days must be stipulated when the $1 permit fee is paid. She said each resident still would be limited to one garage sale within each 12-month period.

Need for extending the time period for sales was pointed up through a number of phone calls from women who reported their husbands objected to weekend scheduling, Mrs. LeBeau said.

"These people told us an extension would give them a choice," she said, noting that the ordinance was drafted in 1973 by the commission "from scratch" using only input from guidelines used elsewhere.

Her husband, Trustee Roy LeBeau, moved the committee recommend the esthetics commission to report changes directly to the village board after Mrs. LeBeau said her members would not consider additional revisions permitting residents to conduct sales twice a year.

Five will be hired to begin training in January with another five to be added in March. The hirings, which had been provided for in the village budget, will cost about $36,000 in salaries through April 30, the end of the current fiscal year, Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said Tuesday. The village board approved the hiring Monday night.

Base annual pay for firefighters is $11,118.

THE ADDITIONAL 10 will bring the departmental total to 32 by April 30. Longmeyer said the total will be sufficient to man three fire stations on a 24-hour basis with three men per shift.

He added that a decision on what will be done with Fire Station 2, 469 Hassell Rd., is expected within 30 to 60 days. A study commissioned by the village last year recommended that Station 2 be closed because of its proximity to the village's third station at 1700 Moon Lake Blvd., which opened in November.

The board has made no decisions on what may happen with the station, although several organizations, including the park district and the township library, have indicated interest in taking over the facility should it be closed.

Longmeyer repeated Tuesday all options, including the possibility that the station would remain in operation, remain open and will be considered by trustees. "The only decision that has been made is that the present budget only allows for the full-time operation of three fire stations," he said.

He also predicted budget restrictions for the next fiscal year will again likely limit the village to full-time operation of only three stations.

Carpeting stolen

About $1,500 worth of carpeting was reported stolen this week in a burglary at a house under construction at 333 Forest Ln., Schaumburg.

The carpeting belongs to Tomlin Co., 13 Branchwood Dr., Schaumburg. Police said they could find no signs of forced entry.

SKATING ACTION. Youths scurry after a hockey puck in a game at Highland Lake in Hoffman Estates.

SCOPP to reveal names of 6 candidates Saturday

Names of six candidates for the April village election chosen by Schaumburg Citizens for Planned Progress (SCOPP) will be announced Saturday, a party leader said Tuesday.

Malik Parkash, a SCOPP steering committee member, said candidates "representative of all areas of the village" will be introduced at a noon meeting at his home, 823 Tent Ln.

SCOPP's platform, however, will not be released until a Saturday, Jan. 19 "organizational convention" scheduled for 2 p.m. at The Big Banjo, 601 Town Square Shopping Center, Parkash said.

It is believed Sally O'Brien, 1401 Elmhurst Ln., will lead the party ticket as presidential candidate, though SCOPP leaders refuse to identify nominees before Saturday's meeting.

A RESIDENT OF the Sheffield Park subdivision, Mrs. O'Brien is a member of the incumbent Schaumburg United Party, though she and her husband, Timothy, say they became involved with the new group "out of concern for the village."

SCOPP was formed in October by a nucleus of leaders of several homeowners associations who oppose dense apartment construction in Schaumburg.

Candidates slated by SCOPP will challenge the SUP ticket headed by Trustee Raymond Kessell, selected at the party's October convention as its presidential candidate. Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher has said he will not seek a fifth term.

Also running on the SUP slate is incumbent Sandy Carsello who is seeking her fourth term as village clerk. Trustee candidates are incumbent Edward G. Olsen, and newcomers Alan Larson, James Rogers and Nels Hornstrom.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Onkbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Village board wrapup

Lawyer urges fight over overtime law

Village Atty. Edward Hofert of Hoffman Estates Monday called on village officials to be prepared to challenge a federal law which would dictate overtime pay for public employees.

Hofert told officials the Fair Labor Standards Act which was to have gone into effect Jan. 1 has been temporarily barred by Chief Justice Warren Burger of the U.S. Supreme Court. The act, which includes among its provisions mandatory overtime pay for public employees working more than 40 hours a week, has been criticized by local governments, including Hoffman Estates, which charge the act would force substantial tax increases to meet the salary requirements.

A suit challenging the act was filed Dec. 31 by the National League of Cities, and Hofert warned the case may take on constitutional impact.

"By the law that was passed, the U.S. Congress said it had the right to regulate the state in its relationships with its employees," Hofert said. He said officials should be ready to support the National League of Cities to preserve local control of employee pay.

Fire district aides getting paid

Village Pres. Virginia Hayter told the board Monday that trustees of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District will receive their $300 annual salary even though the three-member board's authority has been all but eliminated.

The $300 salary was set in a court order handed down Dec. 30 when the village officially acquired the fire department.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said the figure had to be one acceptable to the court, which would have considered the trustees' former $1,000 salary in determining the new amount. Hofert said the court would look at the $300 figure as being substantially less than the former salary and deem it acceptable.

The district will remain to tax those areas formerly under its authority which lie outside the village limits and therefore cannot be taxed for fire service by the village. Those sections include about 30 homes in the Windmere subdivision of South Barrington, north of Algonquin Road and on the western boundary of the Winston Knolls subdivision, and some farm lands.

Spouses invited to dinner

The spouses of village board members will be invited to attend the annual dinner meeting Jan. 15 of the Northwest Municipal Conference as the village's guests. Only Trustee Melvin Timmons voted against the expenditure, which has been provided customarily in the past.

The dinner affair will cost $9 per person. Mrs. Hayter said she thought the expenditure was reasonable since spouses did not attend a dinner at the October Illinois Municipal League conference as they have in the past.

Funds OK'd for Bode Rd. work

The board Monday approved the spending of $25,000 in motor fuel tax funds now and another $25,000 in May to cover its share of the cost for improvement work on Bode Road. The project will be a joint venture between the county highway department, which has jurisdiction of the road, and the village.

Improvement work calls for repaving along a half mile from the Bode Road S-curve just east of Springinguth Road east to Itasca Road. The total project will cost $244,683.70 and is expected to begin in the spring.

Village to buy radios

Ten portable radios for the village Civil Defense department will be purchased from Communications Engineering Service for $3,250, the board voted Monday. The bid was the lowest of three submitted.

Other bidders were KaDeL Sales Associates, Inc. ($3,450) and Fleet Air Communications ($3,940).

Village plan commission meeting

School sites, enrollment on agenda

Analysis of school enrollment figures and future school sites for Hoffman Estates will be discussed tonight before the village plan commission.

The commission has been compiling figures and related information on school enrollment based on statistics provided by Districts 15, 54 and 211, all of which serve the village. The statistics will be used as base data for the village's master plan to be prepared and computerized this year.

Preliminary information has indicated the number of village children attending the public schools is lower than impact studies traditionally have projected.

RICHARD REGAN, plan commission chairman, told the village board Monday that statistics from Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, serving the Winston Knolls subdivision, indicate that there is less than one child per household in the subdivision, despite the fact that most houses in Winston Knolls have four bedrooms.

Developers and school officials have believed that multi-bedroom homes lead to families with many children and resultant high impacts on schools. Declining birth rates, however, apparently are causing a change in that pattern.

In Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, which serves the remaining parts of the village, Regan said only one-third of the 15,000 enrolled children are from Hoffman Estates. Dist. 54 serves all of Schaumburg Township, which includes the Village of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and a portion of Hanover Park east of Barrington Road.

Regan said the information will be useful in future residential planning for the village as well as in determining the need for future school sites.

The commission meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the council chambers of the Municipal Building, 1200 Gannon Dr.

Westbury disannex bid goes to parks

Westbury's developer, Meridian Development Co., will petition the Palatine Park Board Tuesday for disannexation of the 497-acre tract from the Palatine district.

Disannexation of the Westbury project, which is in the Village of Hoffman Estates, will be sought at the regular park board meeting, and if it is granted voluntarily, steps will be taken to include the tract in the Hoffman Estates Park District, said Richard Adashek, executive vice president of Allister Construction Co., a subsidiary of Meridian. Westbury is near Palatine and Freeman roads.

Adashek warned, however, that if the park board does not approve the disannexation, the developer may not pursue the matter. "We don't want to be involved in a political thing," he said.

Adashek said he asked the Palatine Rural Park District about possible disconnection of the land, but received a negative reaction. The Westbury property came under the Palatine district's jurisdiction recently with the merger of the Palatine and Palatine Rural districts.

Fred Hall, Palatine Park District director, said he did not know whether his board was leaning either way on the matter, but that the disannexation will be discussed.

Adashek said, "It is desirable to get a park district that will work with us." He added that it is "also desirable" to align the village's boundaries with the park district's.

$2,000 in car tires stolen at dealership

Thieves took an estimated $2,000 worth of automobile tires and wheels from Franklin-Weber Pontiac, 100 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg police said.

Thieves jacked up three cars and stole 11 tires and wheels. About $200 worth of damage was caused when an attempt was made to pry open a car trunk. The vehicles belong to the dealership.

At Larry Paul Oldsmobile, 1230 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg, a 1974 model sports car, valued at $3,750, was reported stolen Monday. Authorities did not know if the two incidents were connected.

Residents get chance to work on GOP platform

Hoffman Estates residents will have a chance to help write the platform for Republican village board candidates at a public hearing Sunday night.

"We are hopeful that people will come forward and give us their views," platform committee chairman Dyrle Rathman said. The session at 6 p.m. at Republican Party headquarters, 839 W. Higgins Rd., Schaumburg, will be the committee's final public hearing.

The 15-member committee then will go into closed-door session to devise the party's platform, Rathman said. He estimated it will be several weeks before the work is completed.

The platform committee is meeting to prepare goals and positions on which the party's candidates will run April 15. Three seats on the village board will be decided in the spring election.

The Republican Party, which holds all elective offices in the village, has slated incumbent Trustee William Cowin, plan commission member William Palmer and newcomer Jeanne M. Pavey.

Rathman and Trustee Edward Hennessey, whose terms expire along with Cowin's, will not seek reelection.

Only one other person, Independent William Dooley, 104 Gentry Ct., has taken a petition to run.

Boy with frostbitten feet a neglect case?

The Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services is conducting an investigation into possible neglect of a youthful runaway from Hoffman Estates who was found to have frostbitten feet late Monday.

Hoffman Estates police were notified by Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights that a 12-year-old boy was being treated for frostbitten feet. The boy was reported missing Sunday.

The boy was taken to the hospital by his school counselor, police said. Police said he apparently had been wandering around.

He was referred to the department of children and family services and later returned to Hoffman Estates to stay with a friend, authorities said.

by JOE SWICKARD

Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Phillip M. Crane, R-12th, is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area.

"Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality . . . most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

Plastic shields were removed from two sides of the 28-foot figure Tuesday, revealing Picasso's version of a nude woman bathing in a reflecting pool. The pool will be constructed this spring. The remaining shields will be removed after work on the sculpture is completed in two to three weeks. The shields will serve as temporary windbreaks, while Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar draws details on the face of the sculpture and then etches them with a sandblasting hose.

Nesjar began lining details on the statue Tuesday afternoon, and expects to start sandblasting in 7 to 10 days, Gould spokesmen said. The sandblasting should require about a week's time, they said.

No formal dedication ceremonies are planned for the immediate future. A preliminary dedication may be held in the spring, when the pool and landscaping around "The Bather" will be fully installed, officials said. But full ceremonies probably will not take place until about September, when Gould expects to occupy part of the 11-story office structure now under construction, and can dedicate the entire center.

Gould plans to lease part of the office facility, and officials said the firm is involved in "considerable discussions with potential tenants." Engineering plans for the sports complex are under way, although Gould is not yet prepared to begin letting contracts for that work, officials said. The complex is to contain tennis, handball, squash and racquetball courts, a swimming pool, exercise and sauna areas.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nesjar, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

School group to 'refine' needs

A citizens' committee studying possible building additions at the eight schools in High School Dist. 214, will meet tonight to begin "refining" a list of needs compiled after two months of building inspections.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the district administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

"Now is when the work really begins," said Sig Haaland, temporary committee chairman. "Besides refining the list we have to come up with a game plan for moving ahead with the project."

HAALAND SAID the committee will also be faced in the months ahead with getting estimates of cost for the building improvements and finding a way to finance the improvements.

The district board of education has asked for a completed committee report by April 1. The committee is expected to present a status report at the board's meeting Monday night.

For the past two months, the 40-member committee has been attending special "presentations" at each district school. The presentations, conducted by the building principals, outline current problems in the buildings and familiarize committee members with the needs of each building.

HAALAND SAID attendance has been excellent for most of the sessions, with 25 to 30 committee members present. Haaland added that the tours have proved valuable in providing committee members with a better insight into building deficiencies.

"You don't appreciate the condition in the schools until you walk through them," Haaland said. "The principals have done an excellent job of presenting their needs and the visits have been a

Elizabeth Brissenden to run for clerk

Elizabeth K. Brissenden, a Rolling Meadows plan commissioner, will run for city clerk on the Civic Action Party slate in the April 15 election.

Mrs. Brissenden will join the slate headed by Mayor Roland J. Meyer and including Treasurer Robert B. Cole and five aldermen. Meyer said Tuesday he hopes to file the slate's petitions at 9 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Brissenden and her husband Harold have lived at 3 Harrogate on Oxford in the Plum Grove Village subdivision since 1968, and she has been a plan commissioner since May 1972. She also has been appointed to special zoning commissions in her planning board capacity.

"I hope I can make a contribution to the city," Mrs. Brissenden said. "It is probably going to be an interesting job. My husband and I believe you should contribute time and interest to local governmental affairs," she said.

Mrs. Brissenden said she had not contemplated running for the clerk's office (Continued on Page 4)

Revenue in the 1975-76 Rolling Meadows city budget is expected to total about $4.25 million, an increase from the slightly less than $4 million estimated for the current year, which ends April 30.

City Mgr. James Watson estimated the revenue figure Tuesday night at a meeting of the finance ordinance and judiciary committee. He said he would distribute expenditure estimates to committee members which could not yet be made public because the figures are "of a highly confidential nature and are subject to reviews and corrections."

Watson and committee members held an executive session after the normal committee meeting to discuss possible salary increases for city employees, but refused to disclose specifics.

The meeting apparently violated the Illinois Open Meeting Law. Although the law permits municipalities to bargain with employee representatives in closed meetings, Rolling Meadows does not negotiate salaries with its employees. The City Council determines salary increases without any participation from employees, Watson said Tuesday night.

BUDGET EXPENDITURES for 1975-76 will hinge on the rate of salary increases given to employees, and there can be no decisions on priorities for capital improvements or other projects "until we resolve wages," Watson said.

Watson indicated last week the city pay raises may not equal the rate of inflation in the Chicago area, as they have in past years. "I'm sure there's going to have to be some sort of compromise," he said.

The city uses inflation rate figures prepared by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics as a guide to cost of living increases. Last year, the department reported an 8.8 per cent national increase, and an 8.5 per cent Chicago-area increase. City employees received an 8 per cent pay increase. The department's report for 1974's year end is due out next week, but its most recent figures showed a 12.1 per cent national inflation rate for the 12 months ending Nov. 30.

SALARIES ACCOUNT for almost 50 per cent of anticipated city expenditures for the 1974-75 fiscal year, or about $1.9 million of the $4 million budget. The city has tried to reduce salary costs in line with falling revenues by putting a moratorium on all hiring, including filling vacancies.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&NW's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&NW petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $239.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Thomas Menzel to seek seat on park board

Thomas Menzel, 2175 Theda Ln., Rolling Meadows, will run for a seat on the Salt Creek Park District Board of Commissioners in the April 1 election.

Menzel, 30, is employed by Xerox Learning Systems in Arlington Heights. He is running for the park board in part to represent the Rohlfing-Hicks Homeowners Assn. on the board, he said.

"I think the future is planning some big ventures in the future, such as the pool and tennis complex. I'm financially oriented and would be an asset to the board," he said.

Menzel also is interested in park programs for the family. "I'm interested in providing competitive programs for young people and for the whole family," he said.

Menzel is the third person to seek one of two park board seats in the April election. Evelline Stenzel, 703 S. Warren Ave., Palatine, has announced her candidacy along with incumbent Patrick Grealish, 1335 Joyce Ave., Palatine, vice president of the board.

Anyone wishing to run for one of the two six-year terms available on the board may pick up petitions at the Salt Creek Park District office, 530 S. Williams, Palatine. The petitions must be filed with at least 25 signatures between Monday and Jan. 27 at the park office.

Land donation still blocks Plum Grove OK

The donation of land for neighborhood parks in the proposed 365-acre Plum Grove Hills development continued Tuesday night as an obstacle to approval of the project.

The Palatine Plan Commission discussed donations for the park district for more than three hours Tuesday, but no decision was reached. Comm. Edward O'Brien recommended that L. F. Draper and Associates, developers of the project, be required to donate 18 acres to the Palatine Park District.

Five acres would be nonflood-plain land adjacent to Birchwood Park. The remaining 13 acres would be divided into three tracts and could include flood-plain land.

The commission did not have a quorum by the time O'Brien made his recommendation and no vote could be taken.

The plan commission has voted to seek a report from the village engineer on the feasibility of filling flood-plain land for recreation use. The commission also has asked for an opinion from the village attorney on the legality of public access to Peregrine Lake, which is 95 per cent within the proposed development.

The park district has asked for the donation of 18 acres of nonflood-plain land and the 32-acre Peregrine Lake from the developer.

Draper has agreed to the donation of the lake but has only offered 13 acres, much of which is in the flood plain. Private recreation facilities will be provided by the developer for residents of the 1,874-unit project.

DET. LEONARD YOUNG leads attempted rape and battery suspect J. C. Cooley into the Mount Prospect police station Tuesday. Cooley, extradited from Tampa, Fla., is accused of attacking a village woman Nov. 2.

A rape suspect extradited Tuesday from Florida was identified by three recent victims of sexual assaults as their attacker, police said.

Mount Prospect police said a 22-year-old woman identified the suspect, J. C. Cooley, 24, as her attacker in a Nov. 2 incident at her Cottonwood Lane apartment. Cooley has been charged with attempted rape and aggravated battery in the attack on the Mount Prospect woman.

Buffalo Grove police said two 13-year-old girls, both victims of rape attempts, also made positive identifications of Cooley during lineups at the Mount Prospect police station. Complaints are being prepared against Cooley by Buffalo Grove police.

Cooley, who is being held by Mount Prospect police on $20,000 bond, was returned from Tampa, Fla., Tuesday by Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Det. Leonard Young. Cooley and a companion, Harry Cooper Jr., were arrested by police in Tampa on warrants issued against the men for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Cooley will appear today in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court for a bond hearing. While in this area, Cooley lived at the Lehman Trailer Court, 500 W. Touhy Ave., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, police said.

Two teen-agers were arrested by Des Plaines police Tuesday after they allegedly chased two other youths in a car and shot at them after an incident at the McDonald's Restaurant, 781 Golf Rd.

Police said the youths, Michael Geary, 17, of 398 King Ln., Des Plaines, and Randy Wasielewski, 17, of 900 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect, exchanged words with two 16-year-olds in the restaurant and when the 16-year-olds left, Geary and Wasielewski followed them in their car.

Geary and Wasielewski caught up with the 16-year-olds at Golf and Mount Prospect roads when Wasielewski fired a shot at the driver's door, police said.

The 16-year-olds sped off with Geary and Wasielewski in pursuit, police said, and a second shot was fired at the passenger side door of the 16-year-olds' car at Marshall Drive and Dempster Street, police said.

THE VICTIMS went to a gas station at Dempster and Elmhurst Road to call Mount Prospect police, who then called Des Plaines police.

Des Plaines Patrolmen Larry Gniot and Michael Krueger arrested Geary at his home and found Wasielewski at the McDonald's Restaurant.

Gniot said Wasielewski tried to hide in the washroom but finally surrendered. Eight .22-cal. cartridges were found in a wastebasket in the washroom and the gun used in the incident was found in shrubs in a park near the Mount Prospect home of one of Wasielewski's friends, Gniot said.

GNIOT SAID the gun was stolen Dec. 31 from a home at 806 School St., Mount Prospect, and Mount Prospect police are investigating whether the weapon was used in any recent burglaries.

Check job opportunities

How can I get a job with the Veterans Administration similar to the one I had in a medical laboratory before discharge from service?

Suggest you contact the personnel office of nearest VA hospital for information on employment opportunities at the agency's hospitals and clinics. You may qualify for a Veterans Readjustment Act Appointment. If you do, it would eliminate much of the paper work connected with Civil Service appointments.

Ald. James A. Crane backs bid to oust 'objectionable' W. Va. textbooks

by JOE SWICKARD

Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area.

"Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

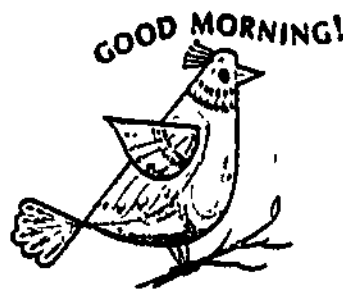

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality . . . most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

Crane said the issue of parental control of textbooks "isn't a local conflagration, (Continued on Page 2)

Blasts GOP fiscal policies

Zajonc predicts new taxes will be needed

Palatine Village Trustee Fred H. Zajonc Tuesday criticized fiscal policies of Republican members of the village board, and predicted new taxes will be necessary because of runaway spending.

"I don't think they can squeeze enough out of the budget to reduce it to $2 million," said Zajonc, the only trustee not elected on the Republican ticket. "They are going to have to have new sources of revenue and one way or another it is going to have to come out of the taxpayer's pocket." He released a statement outlining his objection to spending by the board, calling recent budget cuts "an exercise in futility."

The village board has held two special meetings recently to amend the 1974-75 budget so it will be balanced on April 30, the end of the fiscal year. There will be a small surplus going into the 1975-76 fiscal year, officials say. Another committee-of-the-whole meeting to make budget cuts will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at the village hall, 54 S. Brockway St.

"We are going to live within our estimated revenue next year," Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said. Jones said there would be no increase in taxes or new taxes imposed on residents unless they were approved in a referendum. The only thing that will possibly go up are business license fees, Jones said.

THE PROJECTED 1974-75 budget of $2.53 million before the board started making cuts represented a 45 per cent increase in spending this year, Zajonc said. Budget cuts will still leave the budget nearly 20 per cent higher than last year, he added. This compares to a

10 per cent increase in the spending level in 1972-73 and 8 per cent increase in spending in 1973-74.

"The budget has accelerated so fast the normal growth in the village's tax rate cannot keep up with it," Zajonc said.

To pay this year's bills the village will have to use $264,000 in surplus from last year's budget and will be left with practically nothing, Zajonc said. This means tax anticipation warrants will probably have to be issued in June or July, he added.

Jones said Zajonc's comments on spending of the surplus and the probable necessity of issuing tax anticipation warrants were correct but there was a difference in philosophy.

"We are going to bring in the money and spend it. We are not going to hold village funds," Jones said.

ZAJONC SAID a projected deficit of $750,000 in the general fund and $300,000 in other funds by 1976 had been outlined to him by Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig and Finance Director John Hedstrom.

"The actions taken by this board in tax levies is irreversible. Just shudder at the new means for hitting the taxpayers' pocketbook but never calling it a property tax," Zajonc said.

Jones said the projected deficits were based on a hypothetical level of spending and the board was capable of cutting its level of spending and would not have a deficit budget.

Village studies bonus pay plan for employes

A longevity-pay plan for Palatine employes is being considered by the village board.

Trustee Richard W. Fonte has proposed that employes with 10-to-15-years' service with the village receive a bonus of $200 annually, employes with 15-to-20-years' service receive $400 and employes with more than 20-years' receive $600.

The longevity pay would be given to employes in December under Fonte's proposal. The longevity-pay plan is the outcome of a study of the village's pay schedule conducted by Carl S. Becker and Associates of Colorado.

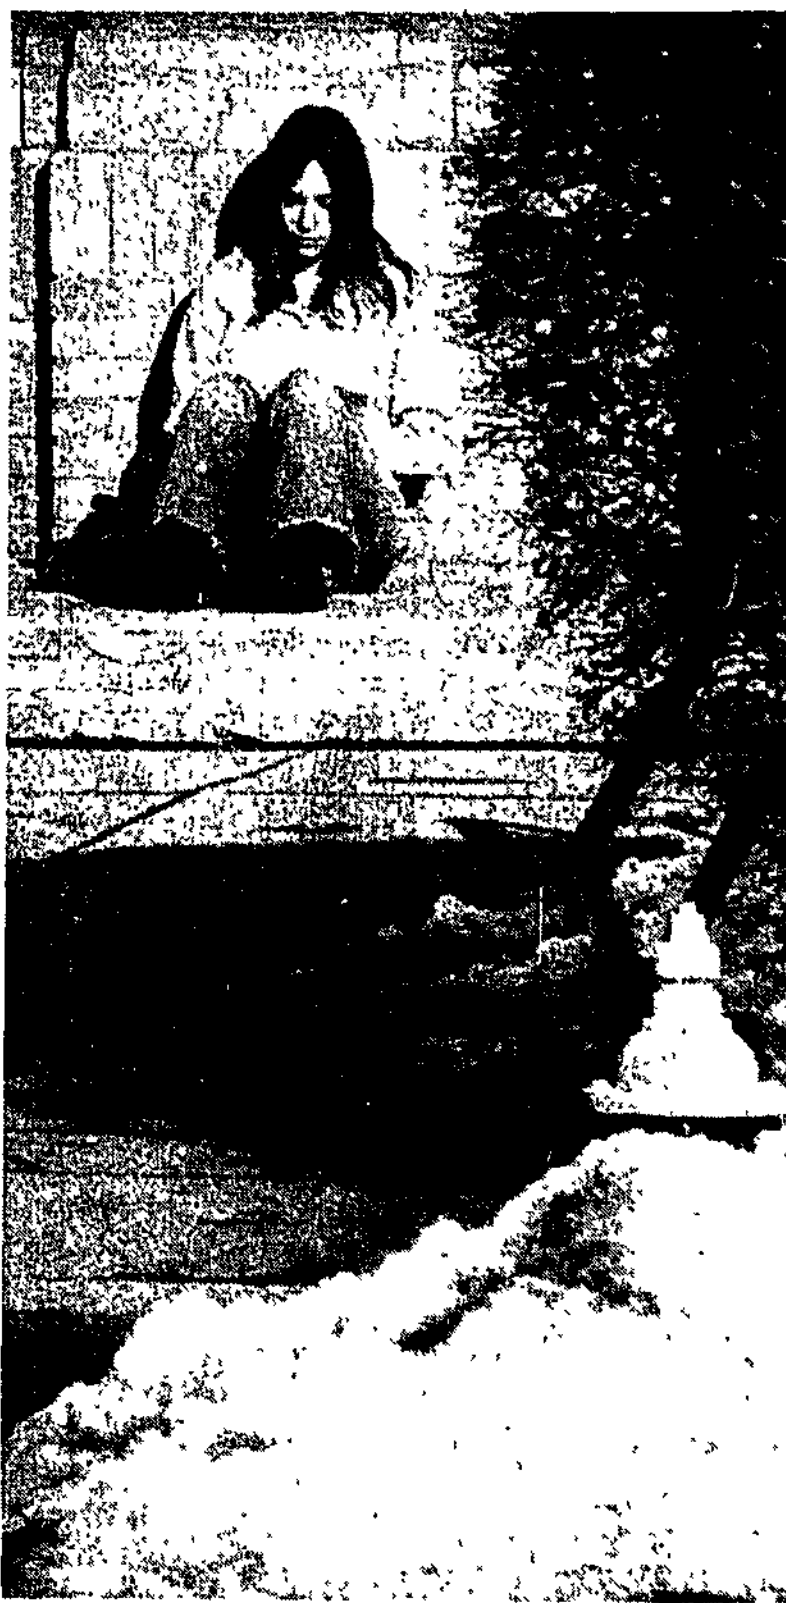

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig has been directed to report to Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones on the financial impact of the longevity pay. Jones will review the plan and make a recommendation to the board. The pay increase would be added to regular salary hikes.

Panel gives tentative OK for liquor permit

A beer and wine license for a new pizza parlor in Palatine has received tentative approval from the health, safety and welfare committee.

Known as the Upper Crust, it will be on Northwest Highway near Hicks Road in the former Soky's Dawg House restaurant that was destroyed by fire. It is owned by Jack R. Davis.

the village board will have to increase the number of class G, beer and wine, licenses available before one can be issued by Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones.

SUNSHINE falls softly on Colleen Hogan, a junior at Palatine High School, who found yesterday's mild weather warm enough for some outdoor studying.

New business tags, hike in fees weighed

New business licenses and increased fees that would produce an estimated $90,000 annually are being considered by the Palatine Village Board.

A hearing on the licenses and fees has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. Monday before the administration, finance and legislation committee at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St. Final action on the licenses is expected by the village board at a 9 p.m. Monday meeting.

The licenses and fees are expected to take effect Feb. 1. The board recently approved a one-month extension of the 1974 business licenses to Feb. 1.

The new business license fee schedule is being considered to make Palatine's fees comparable to those charged in other communities and to generate revenue for the village, officials say.

Currently, no business licenses are required of banks, supermarkets, department stores, car washes, collection agencies, drug stores, laundries, general contractors and several other businesses. Nearly 100 new licenses to cover these businesses are proposed for Palatine. The fees on the new licenses range from $1 to $200 and are $75 for most businesses.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASES in the cost of existing business licenses also are being recommended. These include an increase from $15 to $200 for automobile dealerships, $25 to $150 for building contractors, $15 to $200 for nursing homes, $15 to $500 for second-hand stores, $25 to $250 for skating rinks and $25 to $200 for undertakers. The proposed fees for coin-operated machines also are significantly higher, increasing from $5 to $50 in some cases.

A fee on apartment buildings, which would generate more than $300,000 annually, is recommended in the business license fee structure but is not expected to be adopted by the board. Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and Trustee Richard W. Fonte, chairman of the administration, finance and legislation committee, have both said they oppose the fee.

"This would be a very bad way to raise revenue because it would just be passed on to the people living in the apartments," Fonte said.

The proposal is to charge $35 per unit for buildings with three to six units, $75 per unit for buildings with 7 to 25 units and $100 for each unit in buildings with 26 or more units. There are currently about 1,500 apartment units in Palatine.

Correction

The rates of the Martin Cab Co. were reported incorrectly in Tuesday's Herald. The base rate charged by the company is 50 cents, and 60 cents for each additional mile. There is no extra charge outside the village limit. The Herald information came from a police report, which was incorrect.

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

New types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required. In addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said, if the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Rly. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition. Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N's petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban service might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $219.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

Land donation still blocks Plum Grove OK

The donation of land for neighborhood parks in the proposed 385-acre Plum Grove Hills development continued Tuesday night as an obstacle to approval of the project.

The Palatine Plan Commission discussed donations for the park district for more than three hours Tuesday, but no decision was reached. Comr. Edward O'Brien recommended that L. F. Draper and Associates, developers of the project, be required to donate 18 acres to the Palatine Park District.

Five acres would be nonflood-plain land adjacent to Birchwood Park. The remaining 13 acres would be divided into three tracts and could include flood-plain land.

The commission did not have a quorum by the time O'Brien made his recommendation and no vote could be taken.

The plan commission has voted to seek a report from the village engineer on the feasibility of filling flood-plain land for recreation use. The commission also has asked for an opinion from the village attorney on the legality of public access to Peregrine Lake, which is 93 per cent within the proposed development.

The park district has asked for the donation of 18 acres of nonflood-plain land and the 32-acre Peregrine Lake from the developer.

Draper has agreed to the donation of the lake but has only offered 13 acres, much of which is in the flood plain. Private recreation facilities will be provided by the developer for residents of the 1,874-unit project.

Thomas Menzel to seek seat on park board

Thomas Menzel, 2175 Theda Ln., Rolling Meadows, will run for a seat on the Salt Creek Park District Board of Commissioners in the April 1 election.

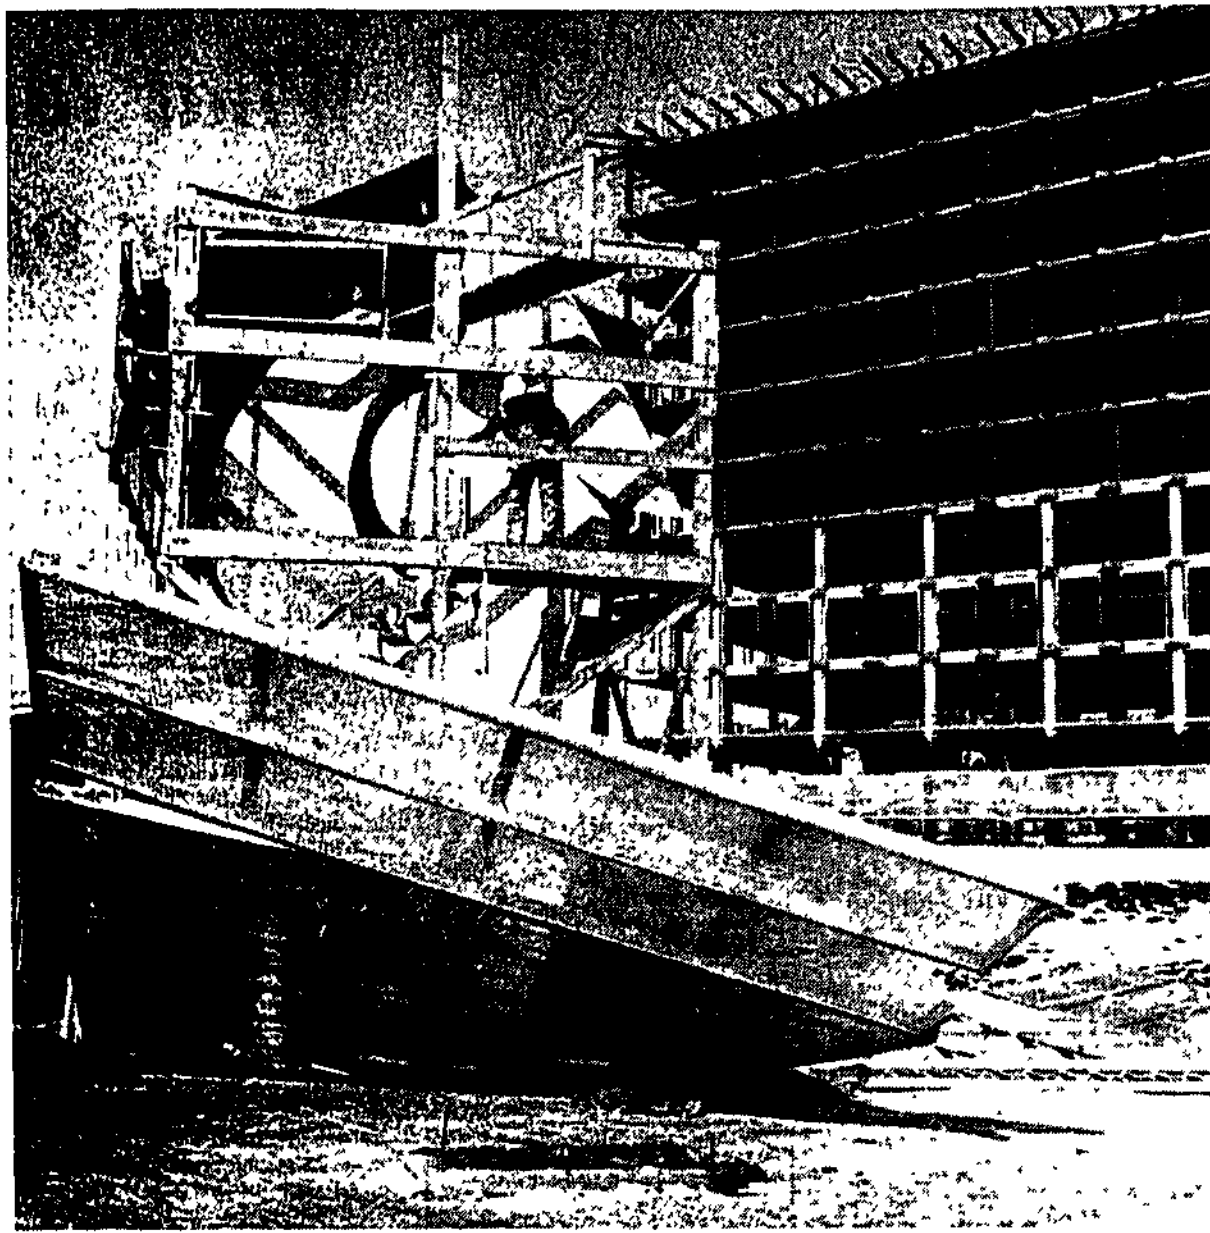

Menzel, 30, is employed by Xerox Learning Systems in Arlington Heights. He is running for the park board in part to represent the Rohlwing-Hicks Homeowners Assn. on the board, he said.

"I think the board is planning some big ventures in the future, such as the pool and tennis complex. I'm financially oriented and would be an asset to the board," he said.

Menzel also is interested in park programs for the family. "I'm interested in providing competitive programs for young people and for the whole family," he said.

Menzel is the third person to seek one of two park board seats in the April election. Eveline Stenzel, 703 S. Warren Ave., Palatine, has announced her candidacy along with incumbent Patrick Grealish, 1355 Joyce Ave., Palatine, vice president of the board.

Anyone wishing to run for one of the two six-year terms available on the board may pick up petitions at the Salt Creek Park District office, 530 S. Williams, Palatine. The petitions must be filed with at least 25 signatures between Monday and Jan. 27 at the park office.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nesjar, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

Westbury disannex bid goes to parks

Westbury's developer, Meridian Development Co., will petition the Palatine Park Board Tuesday for disannexation of the 407-acre tract from the Palatine district.

Disannexation of the Westbury project, which is in the Village of Hoffman Estates, will be sought at the regular park board meeting, and if it is granted voluntarily, steps will be taken to include the tract in the Hoffman Estates Park District, said Richard Adashek, executive vice president of Allister Construction Co., a subsidiary of Meridian. Westbury is near Palatine and Freeman roads.

Adashek warned, however, that if the park board does not approve the disannexation, the developer may not pursue the matter. "We don't want to be involved in a political thing," he said.

Adashek said he asked the Palatine Rural Park District about possible disconnection of the land, but received a negative reaction. The Westbury property came under the Palatine district's jurisdiction recently with the merger of the Palatine and Palatine Rural districts.

Fred Hall, Palatine Park District director, said he did not know whether his board was leaning either way on the matter, but that the disannexation will be discussed.

Adashek said, "It is desirable to get a park district that will work with us." He added that it is "also desirable" to align the village's boundaries with the park district's.

Law proposed to stop unwanted solicitation

Palatine residents will have protection against unwanted door-to-door solicitation under a proposed ordinance placing restrictions on solicitors within the village.

The proposed ordinance was reviewed Monday at a joint meeting of the communications and public relations committee and health, safety and welfare committee. It is being amended to include profit and nonprofit solicitation.

Three types of signs will be available to residents to ward off unwanted solicitors. The signs would read "only solicitors registered in Palatine invited," "no noncharitable solicitors invited" and "no solicitors invited." Solicitors must also leave a residence immediately after they are asked to do so.

The 3-by-4-inch signs would be available at village hall for display on the main entrance door of the residence.

ANY SOLICITOR violating the notice on the door could be fined a maximum of $500 and be forbidden from future solicitation in the village.

Under the proposed ordinance, all solicitation will be restricted to 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, with no solicitation allowed on Sunday, or holidays.

Tighter regulations on certification of solicitors also is being proposed.

"The people look to the village to patrol solicitors," said Trustee James Shaw. He said that once Palatine's ordinance is adopted it will be sent to other communities to use as a model.

The ordinance is the outcome of several months of study by Police Chief Jerry Bratcher, Village Mgr. Anton Harwig and Theodore Becher, a resident. Modifications of the village's solicitation ordinance were prompted by the alleged rape of an elderly Palatine woman in her home by a magazine salesman in October.

THE POLICE CHIEF will be responsible for registering solicitors under the proposed ordinance. The ordinance would require the solicitors to give his name, address and social security number; name and address of his employer; arrest record; and other pertinent information. A physical description of the solicitor and fingerprints also will be kept at the police station.

At least 50 per cent of the solicitors for nonprofit organizations must be Palatine residents to be able to go door-to-door. Tag days and other fund-raising activities that are not door-to-door will be restricted to police approved zones.

No solicitor will be registered who has been convicted of a felony within the last five years or who has been convicted of violation of the village's solicitation ordinance.

"I for one think this is a pretty tight ordinance. It will prevent what happened in the fall," said Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones.

'Community center' proposed

Old library suitable for senior citizens

The Mount Prospect Public Library building, 14 E. Busse Ave., would be suitable for conversion to a senior citizens community center, Village Trustee O. T. Gustus said Tuesday night.

Gustus said a report by the village administration concludes that "the building would be very useful" as a senior citizens center. Part of the building also could be used for the village health department or some other department.

The study, which has not been made public yet, was requested by Gustus because a new $2.6 million library facility will be built at the southeast corner of Central Road and Main Street.

Gustus said the study has disclosed that the library board would be willing to deed the old library building to the village and could do so legally. It also said that senior citizens have said they would like the building as a center. Gustus added that the village board and the commission studying the downtown appear not to oppose the idea either.

The study, Gustus said, eliminates the previous consideration that the police department might be relocated at the old library building.

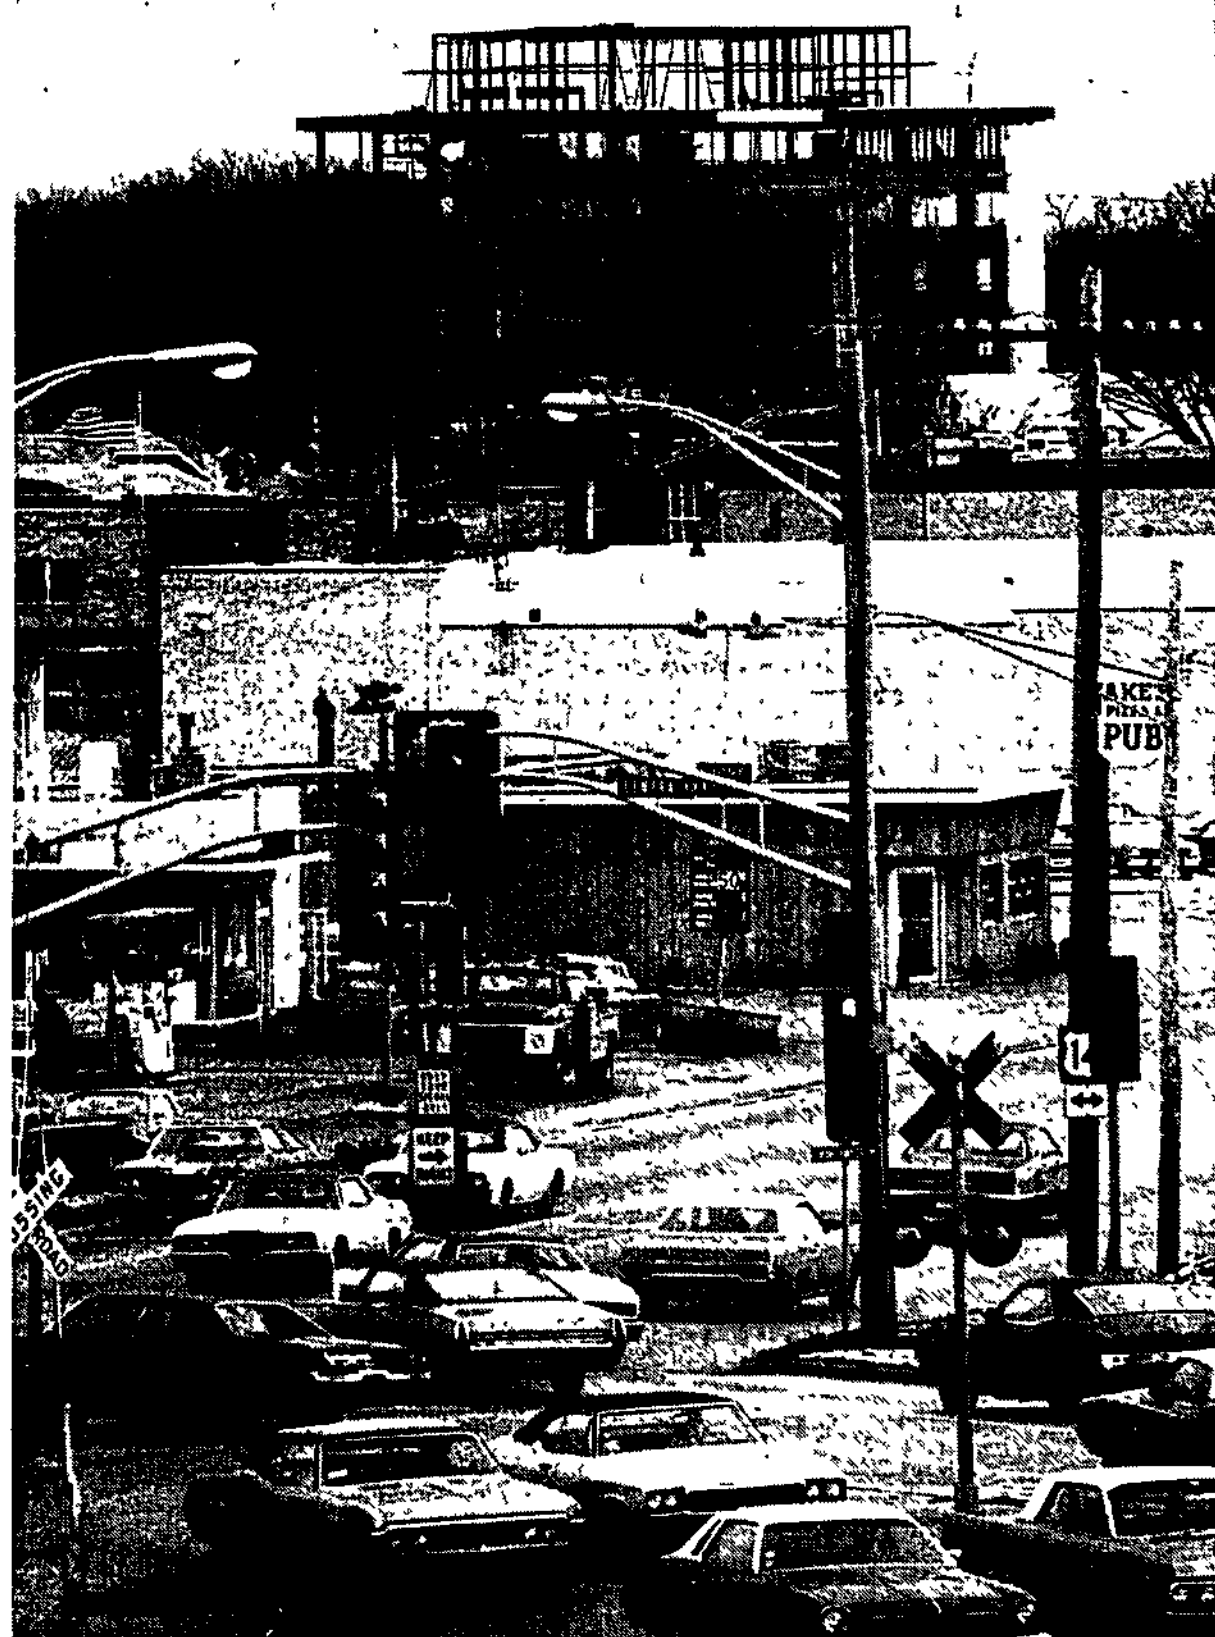

ALSO, AT TUESDAY night's village board meeting, the village trustees voted 4 to 1 to concur with an architect's recommendation that demolition of the existing Central School building, which stands where the new library will be built, be delayed until March for financial and safety reasons.

Officials had hoped the 48-year-old building would be razed by the end of this month. However, architect Charles T. Cedarholm has determined it would be less expensive to include demolition as part of the library construction. "Filling the basement area with earth or rubble from the structure would require additional excavation at the time of construction," he wrote village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley.

Cedarholm said an accumulation of storm water in the excavation would also cause a removal problem. In addition, the hole would have to be fenced as a safety precaution.

Trustee George B. Anderson voted against holding demolition until construction is set to begin. He said the village might save money through lower bids by having the work begin as soon as possible and might save time in that most of the debris could be removed from the site ahead of time. Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten was absent.

Officials estimate it will cost $30,000 to tear down the school building. Eppley said the village already has removed everything of value from the building, including fire doors, sinks and fluorescent light fixtures. He said the amount that was salvaged was limited because vandals "went through the building with a sledge hammer."

THE NEW SIX-STORY Mount Prospect State Bank building is fast becoming a dominant feature of Mount Prospect's downtown area. The building, at Maple Street and Busse Avenue, towers over other buildings in the area.

Survey shows school, kids are not natural enemies

by LINDA PUNCH

A survey taken at Bond School in Mount Prospect lays to rest the myth that school and kids are natural enemies.

Earlier this year, principal Glenn Erickson gave a commercially prepared survey to 100 students picked at random to determine their attitude toward teachers, classmates and education. The result — Bond students have generally good feelings about their school.

Bond is operated on an open-classroom basis although the curriculum is basically the same as other River Trails Dist. 26 schools.

THE SURVEY WAS divided into seven areas — teacher authority and control, teacher relationships with pupils, teacher methods of instruction, learning, social structure and climate, peers and general.

Under teacher authority, 73 per cent of the students agreed that "the teacher treats me fairly"; 66 per cent said the teacher "corrects me without hurting my feelings," and 62 per cent said the teacher "allows us to make decisions together."

Sixty-eight per cent of the students disagreed with the statement "I'm afraid of the teacher because she is mean to me," while 57 per cent disagreed with "I'm afraid to tell the teacher when I don't understand something."

Negative responses in this category came on "The teacher gets angry if the class isn't quiet" (92 per cent agreed); "The teacher unfairly punishes the whole class" (70 per cent agreed); and "The teacher doesn't like me when I do something wrong" (60 per cent agreed).

UNDER TEACHER relationships with pupils, 87 per cent of the students said "the teacher tries to do things the class enjoys" and 68 per cent felt that teachers "care about the feelings of pupils." Seventy-three per cent of the youngsters said the "teacher listens to what I have to say."

On the negative side, 75 per cent of the students felt that teachers "like some children better than others." Sixty-five per cent said teachers aren't interested "in things I do outside of school" while 62 per cent said they couldn't go to the teacher for help if a problem came up outside of school.

Students generally liked the method of instruction at the school with 63 per cent saying the "teacher tries to make school interesting." Seventy-eight per cent felt "teacher grades me fairly," 82 per cent

RTA will need new taxes: Pikarsky

Board hopes to 'stabilize' commuter fares in '75, new chairman says

Now types of taxes likely will be needed within two years to support the Regional Transportation Authority, chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The Chicago Transit Authority chairman, who said he expects to take over the RTA reins by Feb. 1, estimated that existing taxing powers of the RTA will not be enough to keep it operating more than a few years.

He would not speculate on what types of taxes would be needed or how much additional money would be required, in addition to the income from a 5 per cent gasoline tax and some kind of parking tax. The RTA will also receive funds from state sales tax, auto licenses sold in

Chicago and from the federal government.

Suburban commuters may find some relief this year, Pikarsky said. If the board is able to stabilize commuter fares. That would mean lowering fares on the higher-priced routes, he said. Rates on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are among the highest in the Chicago area, but that railroad also is the only commuter service operating at a profit.

PIKARSKY, introduced Tuesday to suburban news media for a question and answer session at the Sheraton-Oakbrook Hotel, declined a reported request by State Rep. Calvin Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, to intervene in the C&N's latest 7 per cent rate increase petition.

Skinner wants all fare increases delayed until the RTA establishes grants and purchase of service contracts with the railroads. The Milwaukee Road, which may receive some money from the RTA to cover its deficits, has deferred its request for an increase.

Pikarsky said the RTA would not become involved in the C&N's petition because the railroad is not yet involved in RTA grants. All RTA grants carry the requirement that fares cannot be raised and services cannot be dropped before July.

PROJECTS Pikarsky said could be accomplished in 1975 include use of CTA buses in suburbs, stabilization of fares and increased service on the commuter railroads and improvement of railroad and rapid transit stations.

The suburban division Pikarsky has proposed for the RTA should be phased out in the future, but right now it will protect the suburbs from being overshadowed by the giant CTA, he said. Without the division, "some needs of suburban services might fall through the cracks," he said.

"We'll have to see that we're not creating a bureaucratic monster," he said. He added that he is only considering taking two or three CTA staff members with him when he transfers to the RTA.

Pikarsky also announced that the Chicago area will receive $298.8 million for operating subsidies from the federal government in the next six years. The program will begin with $18 million for fiscal year 1975.

2 local girls study in Mexico

Two young ladies from Mount Prospect are liable to bump into each other in Cuernavaca, Mexico during the month of January.

Carol Shaler, 704 S. William, a student at St. Olaf College, and Jackie Gould, 415 We Go Trail, a student at Carroll College, are both spending a month in Interim Study in the same Mexican town. Each girl will be living with a Mexican family and concentrating on her major, Spanish.

THREE LOCAL couples went on a pre-Christmas Caribbean cruise with the Young At Heart Club and Twilighters Club. Donald and Regina Detmann, 408 N. Main St., Frank and Ethyl Ohm, 410 N. Main St. and Albert and Mary Walshwell, 104 S. Edward, made the eight-day trip which took them to Nassau, San Juan, St. Thomas and St. John.

The couples report that it was a wonderful trip and among other things they enjoyed the blue sky and water, the flowers and the 'shows' on the boat.

TALKING TO Mary Mazzenga, the pretty Mount Prospecter who served as the 1974 Christmas Seal Queen, she reports that the biggest thrill of her reign was meeting President Gerald Ford.

"Ford is a very nice, ordinary type man," Mary said. "He was very easy to talk to."

KRIS McELLAGATT, 18, of 105 S. George St., is off in Australia, to live in a suburb of Melbourne.

You may recall that back about 1969, Pastor Tom Phillips of Community Presbyterian Church took his family to Australia. The Rev. and Mrs. Tom Howell and their children of Australia came here. Each lived in the other's home and worked at the other's job and the children went to each other's schools for a year.

During the "swapped" year, the McEllagatt family got to know the Australian Howells quite well. As a matter of fact, the Mount Prospect family visited the Howells a year ago.

Kris was graduated from Prospect High School last June and has had in mind that she would like to spend some time in Australia with the Howells before starting her college education. She left last week and expects to return in about six months.

THERE WAS a beautiful memorial service for Mount Prospect Park Comm. Roland C. Becker Sunday afternoon at St. Mark Lutheran Church. In a eulogistic sermon, Mr. Becker's many fine deeds and accomplishments were enumerated. Possibly the most memorable item, though, was in connection with Rev. David Quill's explanation regarding the lack of a casket at such an assemblage.

Said Quill, "Even in death, Roland Becker is trying to help his fellow man by donating his body to the University of Wisconsin Cancer Research Foundation."

A rape suspect extradited Tuesday from Florida was identified by three recent victims of sexual assaults as their attacker, police said.

Mount Prospect police said a 22-year-old woman identified the suspect, J. C. Cooley, 24, as her attacker in a Nov. 2 incident at her Cottonwood Lane apartment. Cooley has been charged with attempted rape and aggravated battery in the attack on the Mount Prospect woman.

Buffalo Grove police said two 13-year-old girls, both victims of rape attempts, also made positive identifications of Cooley during lineups at the Mount Prospect police station. Complaints are being prepared against Cooley by Buffalo Grove police.

Cooley, who is being held by Mount Prospect police on $20,000 bond, was returned from Tampa, Fla., Tuesday by Mount Prospect Det. Richard Pascoe and Det. Leonard Young. Cooley and a companion, Harry Cooper Jr., were arrested by police in Tampa on warrants issued against the men for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Cooley will appear today in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court for a bond hearing. While in this area, Cooley lived at the Lehman Trailer Court, 500 W. Touhy Ave., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, police said.

Homeowners' group elects 1975 officers

The Castle Heights Homeowners Assn. has reelected Arthur Brescia president of the group for 1975.

Other officers for the coming year include Edward Janus, vice president; Warren Schabinger, vice president; John Baum, treasurer, and Chester Lis, secretary.

DET. LEONARD YOUNG leads attempted rape and battery suspect J. C. Cooley into the Mount Prospect police station Tuesday. Cooley, extradited from Tampa, Fla., is accused of attacking a village woman Nov. 2.

Township wrapup

Arlington Manor flood woes studied

Elk Grove Township officials are looking into flooding problems in the unincorporated Arlington Manor subdivision.

The subdivision, south of Central Road and east of Arlington Heights Road, is in a flood plain. New construction in the surrounding area has compounded drainage problems, often causing standing water on the residents' lawns.

The township will hire a firm to rod a 16-inch farm drain tile system in the area to determine if it is being used to its capacity. Depending on the results of the rodding, the township may relocate some drain tile and install catch basins to correct flooding.

Youth panel head sought

Interviews will be conducted Saturday for persons interested in heading a township committee on youth that is being revived after several years of inactivity.

The township youth committee will serve as a citizens' advisory group to the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors. Its job will be to offer recommendations for programs to meet the needs of area teenagers.

Local residents who want to chair the committee or serve as members should contact Paprocki or Elk Grove Township Supervisor Richard Hall at 437-0300.

Seniors' driving course

Representatives of area senior citizens' clubs are needed to participate in a program to provide driver refresher courses for elderly township residents.

If there is sufficient interest in the refresher courses to prepare senior citizens to meet state requirements for periodic relicensing, the township will arrange for a representative of the Secretary of State's office to train a small group of members of each club.

The members, in turn, would share what they learn in the refresher course with others in their clubs.

Interested senior citizens should contact Nita Stamm at the township hall as soon as possible. The telephone number is 437-0300.

Survey shows school, kids are not natural enemies said the "teacher tells me when she's pleased with my work" and 70 per cent felt the "teacher tries to help me understand hard work."

Students did find fault with the program, however, with 69 per cent of the youngsters agreeing that "the teacher is often too busy to help me when I need help."

UNDER LEARNING, 88 per cent of the students agreed the "biggest reason I come to school is to learn" and 74 per cent said school is not dull.

Under social structure and climate, students generally agreed that the atmosphere is pleasant at Bond. Seventy-four per cent of the youngsters did say, however, that they "get scared when I have to go to the office."

The students also seemed satisfied with their classmates with 92 per cent agreeing that "school is a good place for making friends." On the negative side, 69 per cent said "other children get me into trouble," 62 per cent said "older children boss my friends and me around" and 59 per cent said "other children bother me when I'm trying to work."

IN GENERAL, students found school fun (70 per cent), exciting (58 per cent) and happy (68 per cent). The youngsters split over whether they like to stay home from school (58 per cent true, 42 per cent false) and whether they look forward to school (50 per cent true, 50 per cent false). Sixty-four per cent said "most days seem like they will never end."

Erickson said the survey will be used as a guide for correcting some situations in the school, such as students' fear of the office. He noted that some negative reactions will be ignored.

"If teachers didn't keep the classrooms quiet, then 92 per cent of the principals would be upset," he said.

Incident occurs at restaurant

2 teens charged with firing at pair

Two teen-agers were arrested by Des Plaines police Tuesday after they allegedly chased two other youths in a car and shot at them after an incident at the McDonald's Restaurant, 781 Golf Rd.

Police said the youths, Michael Geary,

17, of 398 King Ln., Des Plaines, and Randy Wasielewski, 17, of 900 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect, exchanged words with two 16-year-olds in the restaurant and when the 16-year-olds left, Geary and Wasielewski followed them in their car.

Geary and Wasielewski caught up with the 16-year-olds at Golf and Mount Prospect roads when Wasielewski fired a shot at the driver's door, police said.

The 16-year-olds sped off with Geary and Wasielewski in pursuit, police said, and a second shot was fired at the passenger side door of the 16-year-olds' car at Marshall Drive and Dempster Street, police said.

THE VICTIMS went to a gas station at Dempster and Elmhurst Road to call Mount Prospect police, who then called Des Plaines police.

Des Plaines Patrolmen Larry Gniot and Michael Krueger arrested Geary at his home and found Wasielewski at the McDonald's Restaurant.

Gniot said Wasielewski tried to hide in the washroom but finally surrendered. Eight 22-cal. cartridges were found in a wastebasket in the washroom and the gun used in the incident was found in shrubs in a park near the Mount Prospect home of one of Wasielewski's friends, Gniot said.

GNIOT SAID the gun was stolen Dec. 31 from a home at 806 School St., Mount Prospect, and Mount Prospect police are investigating whether the weapon was used in any recent burglaries.

Geary was charged with armed violence and assault with a deadly weapon.

$200 taken in burglary of village home

Burglars took $200 after ransacking the home of Charles Murray, 411 N. Emerson St., Mount Prospect police said Tuesday.

In a second burglary police are investigating, $100 worth of clothing and $250 worth of record albums and tapes were taken from an apartment at 1220 S. Elmhurst Rd. Sunday. Police said the burglar left the victim, Michael Jurgens, two signed notes.

He was released on $10,000 bond Tuesday. Wasielewski was charged with armed violence, assault with a deadly weapon and possession of a stolen pistol. Wasielewski still was being held late Tuesday on $12,500 bond.

Both are to appear Feb. 20 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

by JOE SWICKARD
Northwest suburban U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., is lending his support to a nationwide effort to solicit financial aid for West Virginia parents who want to remove controversial textbooks from their classrooms.

Crane, in a nationwide mailing distributed by the Heritage Foundation, also is asking that parents inform him of "objectionable" textbooks in their area.

"Very definitely there is material contained in these books that could only be defined as antichristian and unpatriotic," Crane told The Herald.

The Congressman said money raised from his mail appeal would go to "defending those parents denied their civil rights," and to support the Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based conservative think tank.

THE LETTER, of which Crane is the sole signator, was written by the Heritage Foundation, but he said he fully "approved" and supported its contents.

The Heritage Foundation was defined by an official of the organization as a "public policy research" group which has prepared papers on issues including wage and price controls, public health,

British socialism and the recent military takeover in Chile. The foundation also has hosted seminars for college students studying political science.

"The most basic question, and it is one that has troubled me for years," Crane said, "is who has control over youngsters in public schools."

Saying that "parents have the right and responsibility" to control the textbooks used in local schools, he said the issue is nationwide with 24 states having similar disputes. "The issue is still the same. It is more dramatic, however, in Charleston, W. Va.," he said.

The Charleston confrontation between parents, backed by fundamentalist ministers, and the school board erupted last fall over the inclusion of textbooks which allegedly degraded the standards and beliefs of parents in the community. When the school board refused to withdraw the books from the curriculum, parents pulled their children from the public schools.

THE SCHOOL WALKOUT drew secondary support from miners in the coal fields, who also set up picket lines. The stalemate was marked by shootings, dynamiting of schools and car bombings.

Crane said his letter was designed to aid parents subjected to "very definite cases of police brutality... most of the violence has been directed against the protesting parents."

Jim McKenna, staff counsel for the Heritage Foundation, said his organization has not and would not represent persons charged with acts of violence. McKenna said the 32 parents they are supporting are charged with illegal picketing and violation of truancy laws.

Parks set referendum for March 1

The Arlington Heights Park Board decided Tuesday night to conduct a $337,000 bond issue and tax-rate increase referendum March 1.

The date for the "rescue referendum" was set after John Woods, former village president and chairman of the citizens financial review committee, urged that it be at "the earliest legal and most practical date."

Woods noted that village and park board elections are scheduled for April 1, and that the Arlington Heights Memorial Library also is planning a referendum. He said the issues would be "confusing enough" without adding the park referendum to the April election.

The financial review committee, established last summer, was formed to examine the financial problems of the district and to recommend short- and long-range solutions. The committee found the district's financial resources, tax revenues and fees for services are being outstripped by soaring inflation and recommended a referendum be conducted to raise funds.

Parks drop plans to annex 20 houses

The Arlington Heights Park District has dropped plans to annex 20 houses in an unincorporated area near Frontier Park.

Thomas Thornton, park district director, said the plans were dropped when park officials learned that Ridge Avenue has not been extended into the area, which is bounded on three sides by Frontier Park, Palatine Road and Ladd Street.

State law requires that an area to be annexed be bounded on three sides by the park district and on a fourth side by a highway, body of water or a railroad. Park officials had assumed that Ridge would constitute the fourth-side boundary because it is shown on maps of the area, but they were recently informed by a resident that the road does not extend into the area.

Thornton said the park district will not attempt to annex the area under the state law now, but will reconsider annexing the area later.

"I WOULDN'T mind paying taxes to the park district, and neither would most of my neighbors. But, we don't want the (Continued on Page 5)

The committee said a tax rate increase from 20 to 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or about $7 for property with equalized valuation of $10,000, was needed to keep the parks going at their present rate of services for about three years.

The committee also said $500,000 in "catch up maintenance" was needed. In addition, $37,000 in projects was approved by the committee at the Tuesday night joint session of the committee and park board.

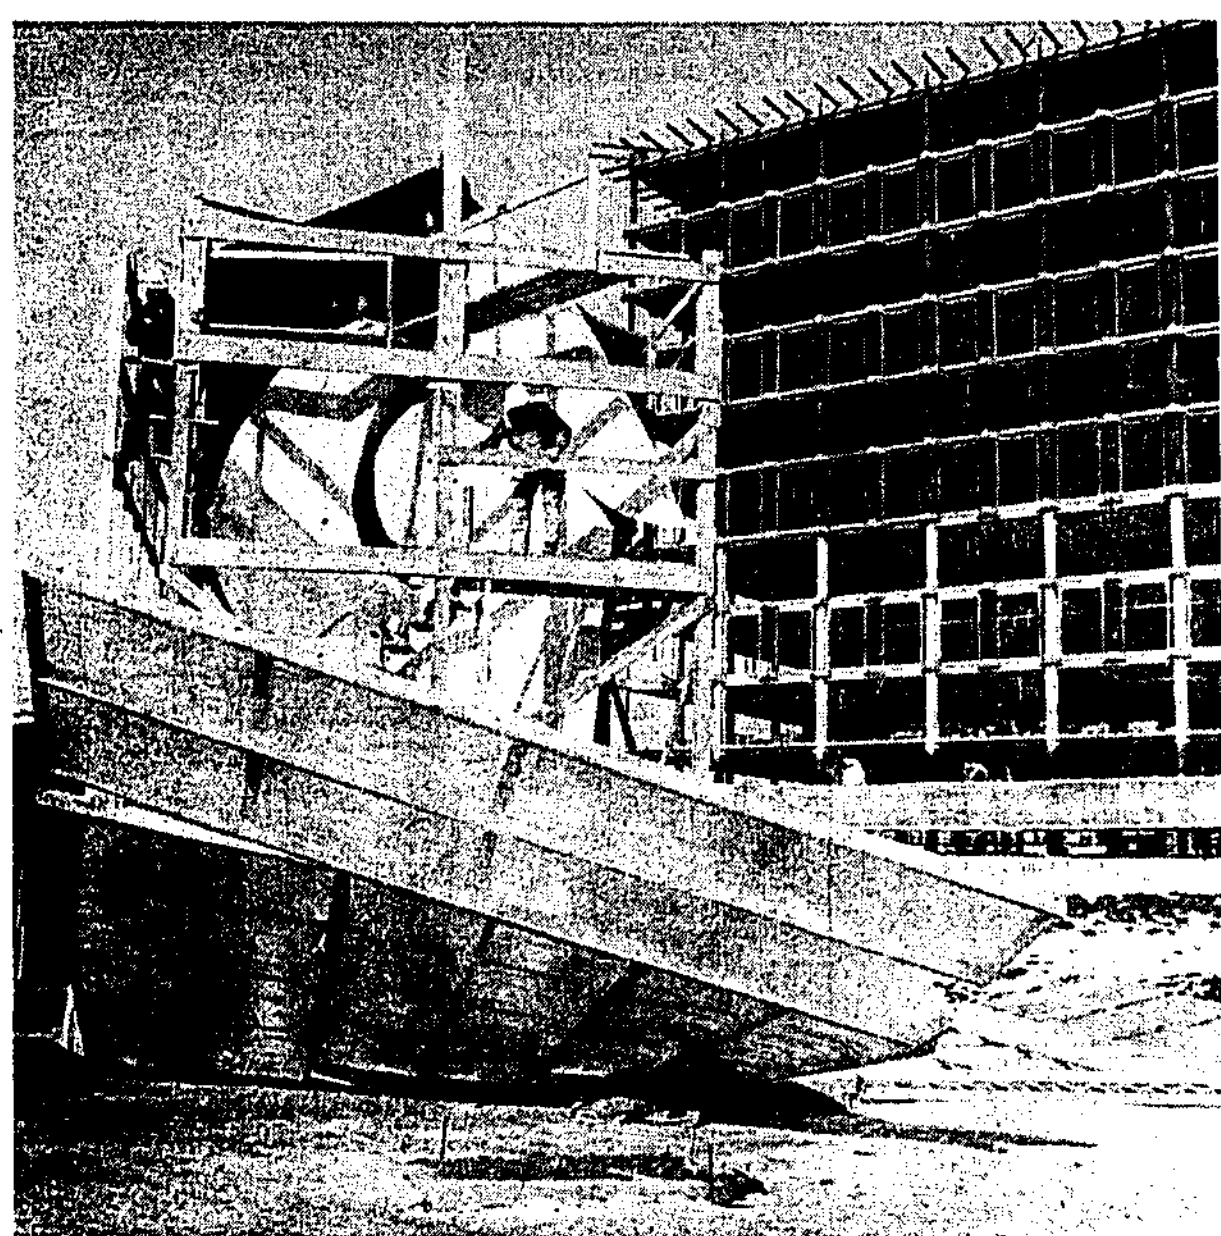

The catch-up maintenance would take about $383,000 of the bond issue. The money would go toward repairs and standard upkeep projects the district has been unable to perform because of a lack of money.

A second maintenance garage, to serve the northern part of the district, would cost about $175,000. The remainder of the money would go for fees and inflation factors.

The referendum has been billed by members of the committee as a "rescue referendum." They say that without its passage, the district will be unable to provide its present level of services, which already has been severely cut in recent years.

Woods, who said he would serve on a committee to push for passage of the referendum, said a "save the parks theme is the correct one at this time and place."

He said the committee would provide the "downfield blocking" or "the wide receivers" necessary to garner community support for the vote.

THE WALLS tumbled down Tuesday to reveal to the public "The Bather," the Pablo Picasso designed concrete sculpture nearing completion in Rolling Meadows. The statue, visible from Golf Road at the Northwest Tollway, is due for completion about Jan. 25. Carl Nasjar, Norwegian artist constructing "The Bather," Tuesday began drawing detail and expression on the statue's surface, and will start engraving them permanently in about a week.

Bids for sodium-vapor lights rejected

The Arlington Heights Village Board has rejected bids for sodium-vapor streetlights in the village, and ordered a review of village lighting standards.

Related story on Page 1, Section 2.

The board Monday night turned down a low bid of $393,549 for sodium-vapor streetlights in the Scarsdale subdivision and also rejected a second bid of $58,485 for sodium-vapor lights at various other locations.

The village's engineering staff has been told to come up with alternative streetlighting plans for Scarsdale that will be acceptable to subdivision residents.

NEARLY 100 Scarsdale homeowners attended a meeting Dec. 26 to protest plans to install sodium-vapor lights in their neighborhood. They complained (Continued on Page 5)

Man to face robbery charges here

A 28-year-old man was extradited from New Mexico to Arlington Heights Tuesday to face charges stemming from two restaurant armed robberies in 1973.

Michael Anthony Carnett is charged with the Aug. 1, 1973, bludgeon robbery of the assistant manager of the Arlington Heights Ponderosa Steak House of $2,699, and the October, 1973, robbery of the Des Plaines Bonanza Sirloin Pit of $6,800.

Carnett was brought back to Arlington Heights by Det. Gene Deck of Arlington Heights police following his conviction recently in New Mexico for two armed robberies. Police said he would be returned to the New Mexico state prison after court action here.

THE ARLINGTON Heights robbery occurred when Carnett and a companion allegedly posed as trash compactor service men and lured the 19-year-old assistant manager of the restaurant into a walled-off area. The pair then reportedly beat the young man with a blunt instrument and fled with the previous night's receipts.

Another man, Robert B. Alvarez, 24, of Skokie, was arrested last April for his alleged role in the armed robbery, according to Arlington Heights police.

Des Plaines police charge Carnett worked in the Bonanza Sirloin Pit restaurant half a day as a janitor before robbing it. He reportedly asked the manager to give him a ride to his car while the manager was on his way to the bank with $8,800 in receipts.

Once inside the manager's car, police said Carnett pulled a gun and robbed his employer.

Carnett was arrested by federal agents in February 1974 in a suburban El Paso, Texas, trailer park. He was charged with interstate flight to avoid prosecution for holding up a gas station and dry cleaners in Albuquerque, N. M.

Carnett is being held without bond at the Arlington Heights lockup pending an appearance this morning in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Arlington Manor flood woes studied

Elk Grove Township officials are looking into flooding problems in the unincorporated Arlington Manor subdivision.

The subdivision, south of Central Road and east of Arlington Heights Road, is in a flood plain. Now construction in the surrounding area has compounded drainage problems, often causing standing water on the residents' lawns.

The township will hire a firm to rod a 16-inch farm drain tile system in the area to determine if it is being used to its capacity. Depending on the results of the rodling, the township may relocate some drain tile and install catch basins to correct flooding.

Youth panel head sought

Interviews will be conducted Saturday for persons interested in heading a township committee on youth that is being revived after several years of inactivity.

The township youth committee will serve as a citizens' advisory group to the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors. Its job will be to offer recommendations for programs to meet the needs of area teenagers.

Local residents who want to chair the committee or serve as members should contact Paprocki or Elk Grove Township Supervisor Richard Hall at 437-0300.

Interested senior citizens should contact Nita Stamm at the township hall as soon as possible. The telephone number is 437-0300.

To boards, commissions

Clarbour makes 10 appointments

Village Pres. Ralph H. Clarbour of Arlington Heights has announced the appointment of 10 residents to village boards and commissions, including a new youth council chairman.

Alfred J. Barbore Jr., 1543 N. Kennicott Ave., will head the youth council which has been without a chairman since August when Thomas Martin resigned.

Dall Adelman, 2822 N. Brighton Pl., also was appointed to the youth council.

Park Board Pres. Charles B. Cronin was named the Arlington Heights Park District's representative on the plan commission. The appointment immediately drew fire from two park board members.

THREE NEW appointments have been made to the Environmental Control Commission. They are Leo M. Meyer, Jr., 2428 N. Kennicott; John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor Dr.; and Norman E. Johnson, 500 Mayfair Rd.

Frank A. Schroeder, 743 N. Belmont Ave., has been appointed to the Senior Citizens Commission.

Also named to the plan commission is Michael L. Silverman, 2439 N. Chestnut Ave.

Howard Pollard, 223 S. Pine Ave., has been appointed to the fire and police commission.

The entire cultural commission, consisting of Sidney Rosenfeld, chairman, and Donald F. Morton, Dr. Edward Jesse Jacobs, Robert C. Hawley, Marilyn Marier and Donald Everhart, members, has been reappointed.

THE NAMING OF Cronin to represent the park district drew sharp reactions Tuesday from park board members Katherine Muller and Kay Graham. Both women had been interviewed for the position.

"Once again the village board has shown an absolute callous attitude toward this community's vital interest in parks," Mrs. Muller said. She said that personal and professional matters have hurt Cronin's attendance at park board meetings, and she predicted he would be an ineffectual member of the plan commission.

"This appointment indicates to me that the village board does not want anybody representing the park district's interest. This is beyond a question of personalities; it's a matter of issues," she said.

Mrs. Graham said she was "very disappointed" in the village board's selection of Cronin. She said her opposition a year ago to the village's plans to build a storm water retention basin in Pioneer Park may have jeopardized her appointment.

"Obviously, they think we're too controversial," Mrs. Graham said.

Mrs. Muller has been a strong critic of Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson and the village board for the way they have spent money contributed by builders to Arlington Heights' land dedication fund.

Last summer she accused Hanson of deliberately distorting the amount of money and land that has been donated to the park district in order to cover up the fact that the park district has not received as much land and cash as it should have.

A park district request for $100,000 of village money to buy additional land is pending with the village board's finance committee.

The board's legal committee is reviewing Arlington Heights' land dedication ordinance and the way it has been enforced.

Dist. 59 wrapup

Search begins Thursday for superintendent

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Thursday night will begin the process of selecting a permanent superintendent for the district.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley said the board will meet with Steve Doty, a representative from the Illinois Assn. of School Boards. Smiley said the board committee and Doty will discuss approaches used by other school boards in selecting superintendents and what sources are available to aid the board in the search.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the district administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Computer co-op studied

The board Monday authorized the administration to draw up a contract for cooperative computerized data processing with Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

By a 5-to-1 vote, the board authorized up to a three-year contract for use of computer equipment. Dist. 15 intends to purchase.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the computer service would cost the same the district now pays for noncomputerized data processing.

Board Pres. Gerald Smiley voted against the proposal, citing past problems the district has had in computerized data processing. A board decision on joining the co-op should come at the Jan. 20 board meeting.

Bids for sodium-vapor lights rejected about the brightness and orange glow of the lights.

Village engineers had proposed the sodium-vapor lights with sharp cutoff fixtures to meet state streetlighting standards that have to be satisfied if the village uses motor fuel tax money to pay for the lights.

However, the village board has declined, after hearing from residents and examining the new lights, that sodium-vapor streetlights are inappropriate for Arlington Heights.

In addition to Searsdale, sodium-vapor lights were planned in front of six buildings including the Northwest Medical Arts Building, the Lutheran Home and

Service for the Aged, Around the Clock

Restaurant, Toll-Arlington National Bank, Lums and Down the Hatch restaurants.

EVENTUALLY, as traditional mercury-vapor lights burned out, all streetlights in the village were to be fitted with sodium-vapor bulbs.

New sodium-vapor fixtures are being installed throughout the City of Chicago. But in Chicago the streetlights are a security type that are designed to throw the light in all directions. The fixtures proposed for Arlington Heights "cut off" the light so that the brightest light is dispersed.

Officials also favor the sodium-vapor lights because they are cheaper to operate than mercury vapor. It was estimated that electric power costs for streetlights in Arlington Heights would have been cut by a third if sodium-vapor lamps were installed.

Sodium-vapor lights have been installed around the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.; along Davis Street, and along part of S. Fernandez Avenue.

Parks drop annexation plans park district annexing us if it is under improper conditions," said Karen Smith, 2003 N. Fernandez Ave., who informed Thornton that the street doesn't exist.

Thornton said the park district wanted to annex the area because its residents lived "so close to Frontier Park and used it as much as residents within the park district."

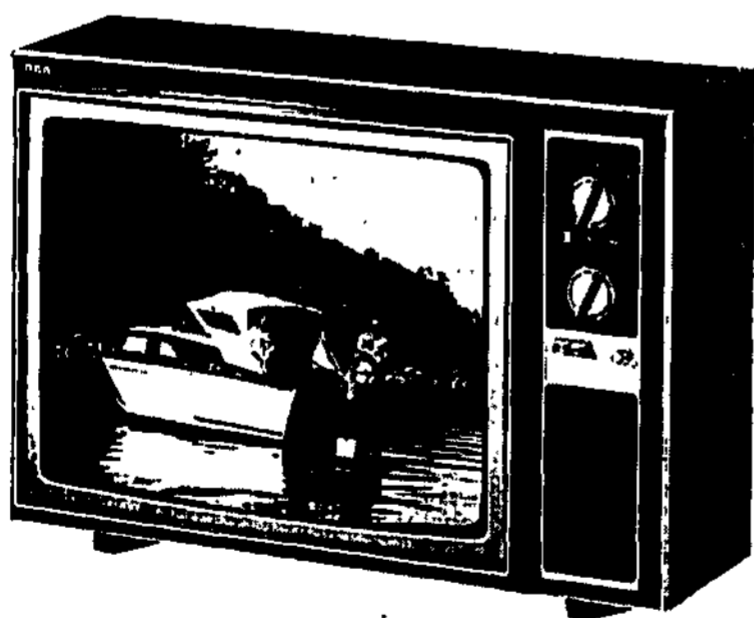

More than 100 homeowners in unincorporated areas that the district plans to annex have not protested the annexation. But 50 residents of the Lynwood subdivision are still protesting annexation and are expected to file a lawsuit against the district this month.

Owners of the Magnus Farm property on Central Road east of Arlington Heights Road, will support Lynwood residents in the suit. The Magnus Farm property was annexed to the park district last fall under the same state law.
